National Egg Market
 ATLANTA, GA.

SEPTEMBER 15, 1999
 NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE
 Prices were generally unchanged on the larger sizes, but lower on mediums in New York, Philadelphia, and Chicago. The market tone was mixed and ranged from cautiously steady on larger sizes to barely steady and weak on lighter weights. Demand was unaggressive but generally fair as movement was reported in a full range of light to good. Some locations reported that retail demand had improved from early week business. Grade loose large was adequate to available, mediums were irregular but available. Breaking stock supplies were sufficient even though interest had improved. However, in the Central region checks and undergrades were trending lower. Availability of light type hens were fully adequate to ample for current needs.
