Baby Green Championship Awarded to Cruising Bay

NEW LONDON (Clearfield, Co.) — The Triangle Horse Show series started the year 2000 series on Sunday, April 16. The first show of the season was held at Grazing Acres in New London. The start time of 8 a.m. was delayed for 1/2 hour and the rain lessened and the sky cleared, making for pleasant horse show weather for the rest of the day.

New for this year's series is the awarding of cash prizes for the Baby Green Division. This is in addition to the cash prizes for Low Hunter and Pleasure Horse and Pleasure Pony Divisions. The first Baby Green Champion of the season under the new prize system was Cruising Bay, shown by Jessica Hinderer of Landenberg.

Hinderer was also the Champion of the Advanced Short Stirrup Division. Wrinkle In Time, shown by Brooke Holloway of Mariboro Road, Kennett Square, was Reserve Champion of the Baby Green Division. Other changes for 2000 include having two halter classes instead of one. Beginner Riders, who are in their first or second year of showing, can be age 6 or higher (riders who are exactly six, must choose between Leadline and Beginner Rider).

This pair were also Reserve Champions of the Pleasure Pony and Low Hunter Divisions.

Corn Growers President Presents Alternative To Current Farm Program

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In an address before the Consumers Federation of America's 23rd Annual National Food and Policy Conference in Washington, D.C. recently, American Corn Growers President Keith Dittrich showed that consumer food prices has risen sharply compared to prices farmers receive for their commodities.

Dittrich, a Tilden, Neb. corn and soybean producer, used these numbers to show that farm prices have very little relationship to retail food prices.

Dittrich showed that consumer food prices have risen about 250 percent since the 1975-1979 period, but prices farmers receive have declined or remained nearly steady.

"Consumers have long been given the excuse by food processors and retailers that food prices have risen because of increased farm prices. These numbers clearly show that not to be the case," said Dittrich.

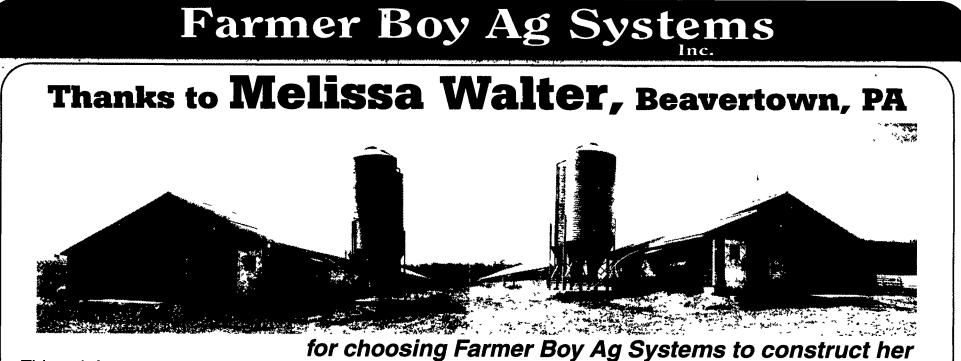

Citing the failure of Freedom to Farm and the influence that giant food processors and exporting companies had on writing this legislation, Dittrich wondered why consumers of this nation should feel comfortable allowing the continued concentration of agribusiness. He predicted that two or three of these companies will very soon dominate the entire food chain from seed to finished product.

"Will consumers then get what they want in their food system safety, reliability, and fair prices? I bet not. Due to ignorance, shortsightedness, and most of all greed by large agribusiness corporations, we may soon see a feudal system of agriculture paid for by the taxpayer," said Dittrich.

To change course and guarantee that family farm agriculture remains stable and viable as the major source of food for America's consumers, the ACGA has developed a comprehensive farm policy proposal that would replace the current Freedom to Farm legislation.

'This farm proposal protects not only farmers' interests but also consumers' as well, by ensuring a strong, safe, abundant and fairly priced food supply produced by family farmers. This would be accomplished by encouraging fair market prices, providing food reserves for consumers and allowing producers to manage their inventories,' said Dittrich.

The food and farm prices charts presented by President Dittrich to the Consumers Federation of America are available on the ACGA website at http://www.acga.org/ foodvrsfarm/.
