

Berks Grazing Walk

To Highlight

New Zealand Swing Parlor

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — On June 22, Forrest Stricker and family will open their farm to those interested in grazing and a new 16-cow New Zealand swing parlor.

The program will be from 10 a.m. to noon. Highlights include:

Summer Annuals

- Ten acres of cow peas and oats and one acre of triticale. These will be grazed in June and land planted in sorghum sudan-grass.

- Ten acres of turnips and rape planted side by side for summer and fall grazing.

New Zealand Swing-16 Parlor

- Open curtain-sided parlor and holding area.

- Milk house wastes and wash-down water flows to holding tank, and is pumped to manifold flush system on a grass strip.

- Management rail for herd checks and breeding.

Farm Facts

- In the eighth year of intensive grazing.

- Ninety milk cows on 160 acres of grass/hay. Thirty-seven heifers on 30 different acres of grass/hay.

Directions: Follow Rt. 422 west to Robesonia. Turn north on Church Street (west end of Robesonia). Go 3.5 miles to farm lane on the left.

Farm telephone is 610-678-7629 (home) or 610-678-7591 (farm).

For more information, contact Mena Hautau or Clyde Myers, Penn State Cooperative Extension-Berks County, Berks County Ag Center, P.O. Box 520, Leesport, PA 19533, 610-378-1327, fax 610-378-7961.

District Needs Farms

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — Farmers have always worked as stewards of the land to improve and protect the resources they have been entrusted with while maintaining economic viability. Sediment and nutrient pollution are the most common pollutants of our surface and ground waters.

Controlling erosion and preventing nutrients from entering these waters are key in protecting water quality.

By installing and implementing agricultural Best Management Practices (BMPs) to help prevent sediment and nutrient pollution, you will be helping to protect Pennsylvania's natural resources. These BMPs include traditional soil conservation practices, streambank fencing, barnyard work, soil and manure testing, and a host of other practices associated with water quality and erosion control.

The Dauphin County Conservation District is looking for farming operations interested in correcting the pollution problems on their farms to be considered for cost-share programs.

After notifying the conservation district of your interest, an agricultural specialist in cooperation with USDA - NRCS will conduct an on-farm evaluation to determine the critical areas on your farm that need addressing. After this visit, a system of BMPs best suited for your operation will be developed.

You maybe eligible for money to help defray the cost of implementing these improvements on your farm.

If you are interested in learning more or to arrange a time to have your operation evaluated, contact the agricultural staff at the Dauphin County Conservation District, 717-921-8100.
