chop this year, so he can adjust the length if needed."

Gayman has three full-time and two part-time employees. One of the employees is the herdsman.

"I thought about expanding, but the only one who would be interested in the project is my herdsman," said Gayman. "I don't have any children who would want to partner with me."

Gayman and his wife have two daughters — Abby, who is a sophomore at Penn State, and Joy, who is 15.

"I've been a 4-H leader for the Quincy Washington Township Dairy Club for many years," said Gayman.

In addition to being a 4-H leader, Gayman is also active member of the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council. He, as well as his dad, has served as president and on the board of directors for several years. He is also the president of the Franklin County Extension board of directors.

"Both my wife and I are also active in the Solomon's Lutheran Church," said Gayman. He has served on the church council in the past, and his wife is the part-time secretary.

"I am not on the council right now," said Gayman. "It's nice to take a break sometimes."
