

Pennsylvania Hosts Convention Showcasing The Brown Cow

Nelson McCammon of Monroe, Wis., and Cindy Warner, president of the Maryland Brown Swiss Breeders Association, are both fans of the breed. McCammon, described by Cindy's husband Bill Warner as "The godfather of the Brown Swiss," has helped many young people get their start with the breed.

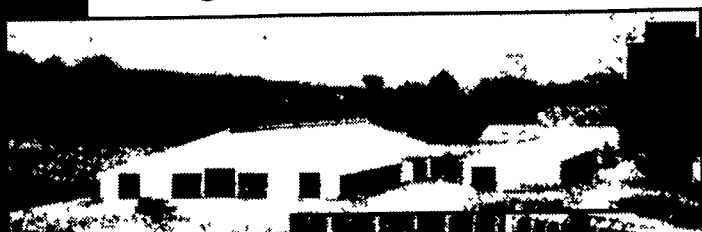

McCammon has been in the agriculture business for over 50 years and showed cattle across the U.S. and abroad.

"With experience it (showing cows) comes easy. You don't learn it by the book," said McCammon.

"When kids call me and ask, 'Where can I get a heifer?', I buy them a heifer and they take care of it, manage it, breed it, show it, and sell it if they want to," explained McCammon, who gives half the money back to the heifer's keeper or allows them to buy their half of the animal. He estimates that over the past 8-10 years he's helped 25-30 young people.

"I'm 80 years old and I'm still learning from young people," said McCammon. "It keeps me young."
