

Sheep, Fiber Fest Sept. 16

HARMONY, N.J. — The Garden State Sheep Breeders will present their sixth annual sheep and fiber festival Saturday, Sept. 16, from 10 a.m. — 5 p.m. here at the Warren County Farmers Fairgrounds.

Many activities are planned for this year's festival, including an open sheep show starting at 10 a.m. and running throughout much of the day.

An "open" sheep show is open to anyone willing to show their best sheep in front of a judge. The animals are then judged in a group of other sheep according to their breed, wool, and body conformation.

Prizes and ribbons will be given.

Donald M. Kniffen, Jr. is this year's judge. Don has been in the sheep business for more than 30 years and has judged throughout the northeast. He also has worked with Glenn Idman in wool classification. Don resides with his wife in Hunterdon County.

Sheep shearing will also be throughout the day, with some willing and not so willing volunteers. We will have a half shorn sheep on display to show the general public the "before" and "after" of shearing results. She will later have the other half shorn off of her.

With a display of sheep breeds, spectators will be able to touch and see the difference in the many varieties there are in the sheep world. An information booth will have free handouts to those interested in learning more about sheep, llamas, alpacas, goats, and more.

This year's festival will also be the host for the "Make It With Wool" Contest. This contest is at the state level, where participants must make and wear the finished product in a judged fashion show. The winner of the contest is then eligible to go on to the national level finals, which will be held in Sparks, Nev. January 11-12, 2001. Garments must be made of 100 percent wool or wool blend (60 percent wool for each fashion fabric used).

Wes Ackley from Buckfield, Maine will be coming to the festival along with his wife Marilyn. He and his wife are the founding members of the Cashmere Producers of America. Wes is one of a bare handful of CaPrA certified judges, and the only one located in the eastern U.S. He will be in charge of the Eastern Cashmere Association's card grading show. The objective of card grading is to evaluate animals relative to an ideal standard and assess their potential as breeding stock. It also aims to strengthen the breeder's understanding of the characteristics and attributes of the breed, and sharpen his/her eye in the recognition of those characteristics. Each animal is evaluated and receives a grade (represented by a card). Animals are not compared to each other, as in a competitive show, but only to the breed standard. Allowances are made for age and sex. Cashmere goats are graded on 50 percent fiber and 50 percent conformation. Each animal entered must be accompanied by last year's fleece. Kids (baby goats) who will not yet have produced a full fleece, are evaluated on fleece showing in this year's growth. All natural colors are desirable. Goats are to show strong natural horns set at least 3/4" apart at the skull.

A judged photo contest will be held in the morning with the photographs on display throughout the day with ribbons in place. Our returning judge this year is Peter Sandrian. Peter is the successful proprietor of the Sandrian Camera Shops since 1969, when he took the business over from his father. Mr. Sandrian has expanded to three locations since the original Morristown store opened by his father in 1927. With the original location he is also now located in Whitehouse and Clinton.
