Discover the Power

Danville FFA

A monthly meeting of the Danville FFA was conducted Nov. 14 at 7:30 p.m. The following is a summary of the agenda items discussed.

The state record book contest was announced for those who wanted to enter their supervised agricultural experience books.

The area leadership conference, conducted Friday, Nov. 10, was reviewed. The club discussed the success and what they had learned from the conference.

Last, in old business, the club agreed to assist with the Tri-Ag Banquet Friday, Nov. 17. This year there will be farm safety demonstrations.

On the top of the list of new business was community service. The club decided they would be helping rake the leaves off of the obstacle course at EOS. EOS is a therapeutic horse riding stable that works with the young and old who are disabled.

One of the final topics on the agenda was the faculty breakfast during FFA week for the staff of the school. A committee was set up, along with a date.

The last topic was the Aces conference.
