

DEP Seeks Input On Pennsylvania's Valuable Water Resources

MEADVILLE (Crawford Co.) — Four state agencies are inviting all Pennsylvanians to participate in an exciting opportunity to help shape the future of the commonwealth's valuable water resources.

Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) Acting Secretary David E. Hess today asked residents to participate in scheduled public forums called "Water Is Our Future Draining Away?" to discuss Pennsylvania's current and future water resource needs.

"The information gathered at these forums will help set policies to protect water as a resource and an economic asset," Hess said. "We encourage citizens to come out and provide their input on water issues in their communities."

DEP, in partnership with the departments of Community and Economic Development, Conservation and Natural Resources and Agriculture, has scheduled 15 public forums across the Commonwealth.

The forums will outline basic water resource challenges and opportunities, both locally and statewide. They also will help to raise awareness while gathering citizens' thoughts on water resource issues in Pennsylvania.

In addition to the public forums, DEP has created a web page with a wealth of related water information that will include a running summary of issues raised at the forums, links to upcoming events, videos and publications, news clips from around the state on water and a message board where people can discuss water issues online.

A new publication, "Water is Life," raises provocative questions about water in a collection of essays by a variety of authors and will be available at the forums and online.

"After the forums, DEP will publish a summary of public input on our website," Hess said. "This information will help DEP to better understand the issues that Pennsylvania faces as it works to protect and conserve its precious water resources."

Forums will begin at 6 p.m. with informative exhibits and displays, followed by presentations and open discussion. An information exchange table will be available for anyone who would like to display related water resource materials.

For more information on the forums, visit DEP through the PA PowerPort at www.state.pa.us or directly at www.dep.state.pa.us (directLINK "water forums").
