

Daily National Grain Market Summary

St. Joseph, MO
August 7, 2002

Report Supplied By USDA

Next Mondays release of the USDA's Crop Production report is on everybody's minds as traders are trying to strategically position themselves with a lot of uncertainty. Traders especially concerned with the soybeans as Mondays production numbers could send prices sharply higher or lower. Cooler temperatures have been nice, but would have been more widely accepted with a little more moisture. Extended forecasts continue to look drier than normal, which is not a good thing for soybeans. Wheat was riding solo today, separating itself from corn and soybeans. Concerns over drought conditions in winter wheat areas are now arising as planting is coming up pretty quick.

Wheat 1 to 4 cents higher, with St. Louis Soft Red Winter Wheat 9 cents higher. Corn steady to 2 cents lower. Soybeans 2 to 3 cents lower, with the exception of Minneapolis 8 cents higher. Sorghum 1 to 7 cents lower.

Corn Belt Feedstuff

St. Joseph, Mo.

Aug. 6, 2002

Report Supplied By USDA

CORN BELT FEEDSTUFF: Wholesale Bids. Truck or Rail dollars per ton. Feedstuff prices finished steady to mostly higher. This is in response to good buyer interest, but primarily higher grain and fluctuating soybean prices. Damage in the corn fields from continuous hot, dry weather responsible for higher gains as corn is now pretty much made. Soybean meal sold sharply higher with a lot of uncertainty in the bean fields as moisture will definitely give us direction this month. Hay prices were steady with concern over quantity and quality. Cooler temperatures are in the forecast this week, with chances of scattered showers.

SOYBEAN MEAL: 48 percent rail was 11.00 lower at 178.00-179.00. 48 percent truck was 11.00 lower at 190.00-192.00 per ton.
