

Restoration Days At Anselma Mill Planned Nov. 19-21

CHESTER SPRINGS (Chester Co.) — The Mill at Anselma Preservation and Educational Trust will be open, Nov. 19-21, from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., for visitors to view the restoration of the 1747 mill's historic equipment.

The Mill is nationally significant for its multiple layers of milling technology that spans three centuries. Updated several times, each improvement upgraded system components but never altered the mill's original Colonial-Era power train.

Rondout Woodworking, an internationally recognized mill restoration firm from Saugerties, N.Y., is restoring the Mill's technology to working condition, including its wooden gearing, grain elevators, bolter, grain cleaner, and millstones. The work, funded by the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission, the William Penn Foundation, the Save America's Treasures Program, and West Pikeland Township, will be completed in January 2003. Once restored, the Mill at Anselma will once again operate for the enjoyment of families, school children, and scholars.

Located on Rt. 401, 1/2 west of Rt.113, the Mill at Anselma is also open for tours every Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. through December. The grounds are open daily from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. for self-guided tours throughout the year.

For more information, contact the Mill at Anselma Preservation and Educational Trust at (610) 917-0447.

other countries designed porcelain to Communist specifications. Among them, Eva Zeisel, famed today for her modern pottery and porcelain.

By the space-age, Soviet accomplishments were depicted with images of Sputnik and the Cosmonauts.

CLUES: Consider that because of a scarcity of information about Russian porcelain, of any age, there is a good chance of discovering unique pieces. Most recognizable are the peasant figures done in quantity in the 19th century by the Gardner factory. Some are marked "G" or the name Gardner in Latin or Cyrillic letters. Many are unmarked.

Others are stamped in red with the Cyrillic letters or impressed with the Russian Imperial Double-headed eagle.

Other important 19th century porcelain factory marks to look for are Popov with a monogram and an impressed mark. Kozlov pieces have an impressed mark.

Kornilov items have a red printed mark.

All of the above named factories made the popular peasant figures not only in porcelain but biscuit.

Figural groupings in porcelain, even with restoration can sell at auction for over a thousand dollars. An exceptional, early figure, can sell at auction for $7,000.
