

First Texas Longhorn Show Conducted At KILE

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Another keynote for the history books occurred at the 46th annual Keystone International Livestock Exposition as the Texas Longhorn breed entered the small arena of the Pennsylvania Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

In the female Texas Longhorn classes, Willard Edgar Sr. of Smithsburg, Md., exhibited the grand champion female, Tiptoe's Oklahoma Cowgirl. The reserve grand champion female was the entry exhibited by Damon and Lizz Huntzberry of Smithsburg, Md.

Shadow Pomp owned by Damon and Lizz Huntzberry of Smithsburg, Md., took home the grand champion bull. Entering the winner's circle in the bull Texas Longhorn competition was Cole Huntzberry's Vindicator of Smithsburg, Md., for the reserve grand champion bull.

The Texas Longhorn Show was conducted in conjunction with the Keystone International Livestock Exposition, which was Oct. 1-7 at the Pennsylvania Farm Show, Harrisburg. This year, the Keystone International Livestock Exposition had a record 5,056 horses, beef cattle, sheep, and swine from 28 states and four Canadian provinces. To better serve agricultural expositions such as KILE, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture initiated an $86 million investment in a landmark construction project at its Farm Show Complex. Also, the Department of Agriculture has dedicated new and additional financial resources to KILE.

For more information on KILE, contact the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture at its Farm Show Complex at (717) 787-2905 or visit the Department's Website at www.pda.state.pa.us.

Damon and Lizz Huntzberry, Smithsburg, exhibited the champion Longhorn bull in the open breeding cattle show.

Randy Sutton, Blue Ridge Summit, showed the champion junior steer in the Longhorn open breeding cattle show.
