

Study Reconfirms Ileitis

prevent and control ileitis. Thanks to a recent clearance issued by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), producers can add Paylean to the finishing feed to speed pigs to market with increased carcass weight, increased yields, and improved feed efficiency.

Today's
on-farm
disease
battles

A new swine-health study finds consensus among pork producer, veterinarian and feed-industry groups that ileitis is the number-one disease being fought today. Without prompting of any kind, study participants ranked ileitis higher than respiratory disease, mycoplasma, salmonella and hemorrhagic bowel syndrome.
