Cumberland Co. Light Horse And Pony Club

The Cumberland County 4-H Light Horse and Pony Club met May 28 at Sunshine Farms in Carlisle. President Megghan Michaud called the meeting to order, Jennica Helton led the American Pledge, and Emily Hockenberry led the 4-H Pledge.

Immediately following the pledges the club moved on to the topic of the meeting, Showmanship. The club split into three groups, Western, English, and Gaming, members went to the group in which they would be showing in at Roundup. All club members must show in Showmanship at Roundup to complete their 4-H year.

Teen leaders in each group went over the basics of Showmanship. Showmanship is judged on the exhibitor's ability to exhibit his/her animal at halter, only the exhibitor is to be judged. The horse is merely a prop to demonstrate the exhibitor's abilities.

After the program, Audrey Wronski demonstrated the English braiding technique. Katie Gossert gave the secretary's report and Michelle Thomas gave the treasurer's report. Lorie Wagner took roll call. Representative for the 4-H Youth Council, Britney Books, talked about upcoming 4-H activities.

Under old business, Michelle Thomas told the club their Open Horse Show scheduled for May 24 had been cancelled due to rain and rescheduled for July 13.

Under new business, Barb Rebert spoke about the District Horse Judging Contest to be conducted at Long Acres on June 7. Janet Holston encouraged club members to attend 4-H Speak Out Night on June 16.

Because of the extensive rain and mud, the show scheduled for May 24 was canceled and rescheduled July 13 at Long Acres, 201 Sulphur Spring Road, Carlisle. The show will start at 9:30 a.m.

4-H rules require all riders under the age of 18 to be wearing a helmet when mounted on their horse at any time. No one under the age of 8 may show. Proof of rabies vaccination and negative coggins is required for all horses. A food stand will be provided by the members and parents of the club.
