beaded bags and pin cushions. These pieces are backed with shiny cotton cambric.

CLUES: You can date some of the 19th century beadwork by examining the designs and the bead colors. In England, flower designs were used by 1830. One of the most popular designs was the rose. The earlier colors were rose, amber, turquoise-blue, and green. In the 1880's gray, dark green, and dark red were used.

Hundreds of miser purses were made. They open into a slit for coins to be inserted. So were wristbands; flat panels made with small beads. They were hand woven on a loom.

During the 1940s, bead baskets were once again a popular craft. However, the beads were large and the look different than the antique versions. Beaded flowers have never stopped being made. Beautiful beaded small purses from the 1920s-1930s still show up at estate sales, along with those made in the 1970s.

There are many books on bead embroidery for research.
