THE BEDFORD GAZETTE. Bedford, June 20, 1856.

G. W. Bowman, Editor and Proprietor. The National Capitol Responds to the Democratic Nominations.

CASS, AND JUDGE DOUGLAS.

Nobly, patriotically, and enthusiastically has the national capitol responded to the nominations of the Democratic National Convention. Without any preparation, and with scarcely any previous notice, the Democratic citizens of Washington assembled in mass meeting at half-past seven o'clock this evening to ratify the nominations made at Cincinnati. In consequence of the unfavorable state of the weather, the meeting was held in Copp's Saloon. The saloon, which is one of the largest in the city, was filled to overflowing. Hundreds were unable to gain admittance, and the enthusiasm of insiders and outsiders was never exceeded at any previous popular demonstration in the city of Washington. Several of the distinguished standard-bearers of the democratic party, as they took their seats upon the stand, were ciferously cheered. The appearance of Judge Douglas was hailed with deafening shouts of applause. The veteran statesman and patriot, General Cass, was received with tremendous cheering-the Marine Band, which was in attendance, appropriate-to be addressed by those whose long devotion to tutions. ext. I pledge myself, and the pledge will be resince the days of Andrew Jackson.

Mr. Smith took his seat amidst tremendous

The following vice-presidents were then an-

Daniel Ratcliffe, . Thomas Carberry, Walter Lenox, R. H. Gillette, Lambert Tree, Dr. Wm. Jones.

Geo Parker. Win. B. Magruder, C. W. C. Dunnington, B. J. Semmes. Jerome Diggs, Peter Hepburn, Geo. McNeir, Henry S. Davis, Secretaries.

Francis McNerhany, Jno. F. Ennis, James S. Holiand, Wm. J. Donohoo.

Gen. Cass's Speech. came to unite with you in your congratula- try. tions upon the termination, the fortunate termiservices and experience, for his unsullied integ- tion reigns. [Immense applause.] mor-not the armor of Sharpe's rifles, which the South against the North-produce that fra-could be found a hole in it big enough to let followed cheer, shout went up after shout, until it are supplied by some of the churches of the ternal feeling and brotherly love which is es-country, instead of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, sential to preserve the republic as our fathers the holiest law that ever was made. The con- heard. The band struck up "Hail to the Chief," but The Deaf Wife and the Deaf sure to go forth to victory.

And never was there a time which more demanded the patriotism and devotion of every pend upon the result of the election. The prin honest-hearted American than does the present. Evil days are upon us, and in the very wantonness of blessings and prosperity unknown else-SPEECHES OF PRESIDENT PIERCE, GEN. gaged in an angry and fearful sectional controtemplate without the most gloomy apprehension. One portion of our country, not satisfied with enjoying the rights of self-government, seem to desire to govern the other. The day of trial has come, and the destiny of the Union, under the God of our fathers and our own God, who the days of the lamented Clay and Webster— Jackson down to the present time.

who so long carried on a contest with our par- Allusion was made to the signal services impunity. in the dust, and its time-honored distinctive present administration. Such was the man joiced that we had a standard-hearer with so of this city, who moved that Hon. Samuel A. Smith, let us prepare for it, and we can overcome it in office for which he was now designated, or for rendered in favor of a democratic platform or that can only be secured by organization.— tested that she rather liked speaking loud, and that can only be secured by organization.— tested that she rather liked speaking loud, and the can only be secured by organization.— tested that she rather liked speaking loud, and the can only be secured by organization.— tested that she rather liked speaking loud, and Upon taking the chair, Mr. Smith spoke as val and ratification, in the political capitol of democracy thus had standard-bearers with which get any votes, in order to let us know when the the republic, let us pledge ourselves to each oth- they could defy the combined forces of the en- history of this contest should be written, who Fellow-citizens of the District of Columbia; er and to the party to do our duty, and our emy. They were one compact party, profess- its candidates were. I should feel it an honor at any time to preside whole duty; and if this example is every- ing one common creed; and they were arrayed. The Democracy did not intend their oppoover so large a meeting as is here assembled to where followed, as it will be, the battle will be ratify the nominations made at any National half won by the determination to win it. Let Convention; and more particularly so do I now every democrat sacrifice his personal prejudi-feel, that you have assembled together in such ces and predilections, if he have any that will line; he had long been wishing to get them Pennsylvania, the Keystone State, the home of large numbers, and upon such short notice, to be injurious, upon the altar of his party. And where the Democrats could rake them all down Buchanan. In New York, he said, the Demo- General Cass)—men who had been faithful and steps. ratify the nominations recently made at the if I have one single friend in this numerous as- at once. These isms were animated by one crats are united, thank God. [Applause.] Did tried leaders through many years of labor and "Kiss me, my dear," howled my aunt, and city of Cincinnati, and which, according to the semblage who, for the sake of auld lang syne, common sentiment, and that was hostility to the any one suppose that lawless violence was to conflict—were passed by to call me from the the hall lamp chattered and the widow shook enthusiasm which is manifested here and else- has any regard for my wishes or opinions, I ask democratic party. Abolitionism and know- triumph over the laws and the judiciary of the retirement which I had sought, and to which I as with the ague. I looked at the window. where over the country, must and will be suchim to do as I shall do-support zealously, nothingism were first cousins generally; but in country in New England? Was it there that, shall return without regret. May I not add, John had disappeared. Human nature could cessful on the first Tuesday in November next. heartily, earnestly, the election of James Bu- Illinois they were at least brothers, and Siamese under the advice of the pulpit filled with gentlemen, that, if life be spared, I shall go back stand it no longer. I poked my head into the [Cheering.] I also feel highly honored in being chanan. He will find his reward in the good twins at that. They would always go for the Sharpe's rifles, law was to be spurned, constitucalled to preside over this meeting, because it is of his country and in the stability of her insti-has enshrined themselves in the hearts of their the selection is honorable to the convention and which the democracy would triumph, and the blood in his veins, and did not believe that the my country, nor one which does not, to-night, Suddenly, "did you have a pleasant journey?" countrymen, under whose lead we have fought in times gone by, and under whose lead we expect to find the party. Those who know Mr. Breckenridge believe to be demanded by the best interests of the party. Those who know Mr. Breckenridge believe to be demanded by the best interests of the party. Those who know Mr. Breckenridge believe to be demanded by the best interests of the party. Those who know Mr. Breckenridge believe to be demanded by the best interests of the party. Those who know Mr. Breckenridge believe to be demanded by the best interests of the party. Those who know Mr. Breckenridge believe to be demanded by the best interests of the party. Those who know Mr. Breckenridge believe to be demanded by the best interests of the party. Those who know Mr. Breckenridge best, best know his true democracy would decide for most party best, best know his true democracy, his high best, best know his true democracy, his high best, best know his true democracy, his high command the approbation of my judgment and believe to be demanded by the best interests of the party. Those who know Mr. Breckenridge best, best know his true democracy, his high best, best know his true democracy his high best, best know his true democracy his high best, best know his true democracy his high best interests of the control of the triumph would decide for my country, nor one which does not, to-night, best know his true democracy, his high best know his true democracy his high best know his o you any further in reference to the candi- will be a faithful co-laborer with James Bu- were now invited to act together, without re- New Hampshire, too, would come in with a nevertheless better soldier, [Judge Douglas,] ales nominated in Cincinnati. I can only re- change in the cause of the country. Success gard to past differences. One of the great prin- glorious victory—New Hampshire, the birth now standing by the great, venerated, and good man, [General Cass,] who, for so many years, building I heard every word they said ons were made with such unanimity and such rious Union, which has given us a greater mea- States, and the right of self-government in the that never sets! Did any one suppose that she has had, not merely my confidence and respect, Territories, subject to the limitations of the long as she remembered the faithful administration party when assembled together, with fell to the lot of any nation! Withered be the constitution; or, in other words, the great printing party when assembled together, with fell to the lot of any nation! Withered be the constitution; or, in other words, the great printing and, not interest and respect, and additional transfer and respect a he noble purpose that it did a few days ago, to hand that is stretched out to touch the Ark of ciple of the Nebraska bill. [Loud applause.] tion of Franklin Pierce. And when the histo-

from the State of Tennessee, that, in November tic cheers. At its conclusion, shout after shout desire? If there was anything more to be dedeemed, that we will roll up such a majority for him to introduce to the meeting one so univerfor the nominees of the Cincinnati Convention sally known as the "Young Giant of the West." as has never before been given by Tennessee As soon as the wild applause which followed this announcement had in a measure subsided, Judge Douglas appeared, and spoke substantially, as follows:

Judge Douglas's Speech.

the meeting with a hearty good will to endorse to be punished, and resistance to the laws was owed an immense, undying obligation to this and that they are to occupy it with the stand- front of the house. But the end was near. the meeting with a hearty good will to endorse and resistance to the laws was and ratify the action of the National Convention to be put down. That was the whole question of the fidelity with which the ard lowered never an inch, so far as the strict. My aunt being of an investigating turn of tion at Cincinnati. [Applause.] He came not involved—whether the supremacy of the laws constitution has been upheld and guarded. as a matter of form, not in compliance with a should be maintained, or whether mob violence custom, but with heart and soul in the canse.

Following the example of my illustrious friend from Michigan, (he continued,) I will friend from Michigan, He came to congratulate them upon the unani- this question, between law and violence, the de- say here, as I hope to have the power of saying mous adoption of a platform which commands mocracy had expressed their sentiments: they in a good many other places between this time attainments, and private virtues of our stand-said she in an unearthly whoop, for her voice the approbation of every democratic heart; to say that the laws shall be executed so long as and the first of November, that if I have a friend and bearers, there will be nothing like man-wor- was not quite so musical as it was when she congratulate them upon the nomination of a they stand upon the statute-book. But the black in this Union who loves me, or regards my ship in this contest. Men become compara- was young. candidate for presidency and vice presidency republicans say that they will trample upon the opinion, or has any respect for my memory, let tively insignificant, except as instruments when worthy to stand upon that platform, and to receive the unanimous support of every democrat. General Cass, on being introduced, was re- [Cheers.] The platform and the standard-beaceived with enthusiastic cheers. He said: I do rers were worthy of each other-each acceptanot come here to make you a formal address. ble to the whole democracy of the entire coun-

He felt more heart in this contest than any nation, of the mission of the representative he had ever before been engaged in, and there sponse not only in the heart of every democrat, body of the democratic party at Cincinnati. A was more of importance to be attached to it in but in that of every lover of his country, no voice has reached us from the West, borne by its result, and more to inspire the patriotism of matter what his political opinions might be. that mysterious agent which defies both time every lover of his country. This Union was The great principle of the Nebraska bill was and space, announcing that the convention has made through the constitution, and cannot sur- the right of the people to make their own laws; named to our party the name of a statesman and vive for a single day the obligations of that in- and hence the duty of the minority to submit to patriot for the Chief Magistracy of the Union strument. The democratic party stands before laws made in conformity with the constitution and for our standard-bearer, during the coming the country as the only national party in the and the organic act. If they deny the consticontest, which will unite the hearts and hopes whole republic; the only party which avows tutionality or validity of any law, let them test and exertions of the whole democracy of the principles alike in the East and the West, in the it in the courts of law, and abide by the result; country. And that man is James Buchanan. North and the South; the only party whose or, if they desire to have any of the laws re-

He is respected by the American people for his principles must prevail wherever the constitu- pealed, let them try to carry their point at the rity and unquestioned talents, his intimate acquaintance with public affairs, and for his pated at Cincinnati; and then upon that disturtook, so long as the laws stand upon the statutetook, so long as the laws stand upon the statutetook, so long as the courts pronounce them contriotism and devotion to the country, in what- bing element, the vexed question of slavery, stitutional, just so long they must be obeyed. ever situation he has been placed, at home or a- you find a platform which has received the These remarks were applicable not to the laws broad. He has filled with honor and distinc- sanction of every democratic delegate from ev- of the Territory of Kansas alone, but to all tion various high stations, and left them all en- ery State in the Union. Democracy is now laws. It was a universal principle in every joying agreater measure of public confidence the same in Massachusetts, in South Carolina, free government that the supremacy of the law than when he entered them-a rare circum- [applause,] in Michigan, and in Illinois, in O- must be maintained; and if that principle stance in the life of a public man in our coun- hio and Louisiana; and wherever the Ameri- should be lost sight of for a moment, what would try. And he is especially respected by his own can flag waves there the democratic creed is the liberty of the people be worth? Now, this party for his attachment to its cause and prin- one and the same. What other party can cross was not the first time that there had been a disciples, his fidelity in trying times, and his reject the Ohio river and Mason and Dixon's line and position to resist the laws because some of the tion of mere local considerations, always regartion of mere local considerations, always regarding with solicitude the rights and claims of ev. None.] Can this Union be preserved in the been opposition to the laws of Kansas, but to sident of the United States. Promptly and graceful-ery section of the country. The labors of the bands of a political party whose principle of the fugitive slave law, and in each case they convention are closed, and well closed, and now action is hostility on the part of one half the made the same excuse. Indeed, no other exours—that is, yours and mine, those, indeed, of States against the rights and institutions of the case could be made for refusing to obey that portico. His appearance was followed by an outthe whole party-begin. Let us determine to other half of this Union? Can sectional strife, law than that they did not like it because it break of poplar enthusiasm, and we might with truth elect our nominee. We can do it, and shall do actional animosity, and sectional warfare—a sends the negro back to slavery. But he sen- add, of popular affection, which has never been exit. Let every true democrat buckle on his ar- part of the North against the South, a part of the very true democrat buckle on his ar-reputation was as wide, he was about to say, as they do not like. They claim protection under the republic, but he would say as wide as civil- the constitution, and refuse to yield obedience where in ancient or modern times, we are enization—a man who has filled the highest offito it. The difference between them and the deces in his country, save that only to which he mocracy is, that the democracy support the conversy, whose consequences no man should con- is to be inaugurated on the 4th of March next stitution in all of its parts with equal fidelity, voice of our countrymen. -[great and continued applause] -a man of without reference to whether they like or diswide experience in the House of Representa- like it. It is no excuse for a man to say that tives, in the Senate, in the cabinet, in the for- be does not like a law, and therefore will not eign service, and wherever commanding abili- obey it. Did they ever know a criminal who be nothing but union in action. From this hour speak extremely loud in order to be heard. ties and stern integrity were required for the liked the law? [Applause.] Law-breakers to that when the polls will be opened in No- It will be rather inconvenient, but I know you discharge of high dottes. Everywhere in the never like the punishment that follows the act. vember all prejudices and personal animosities will do every thing in your power to make her led us through the waters and the desert to line of duty you have found James Buchanan Law-abiding men have no fear of the supremathis beautiful land, not of promise, but of per- elevating his own reputation, while sustaining cy of the law; and the question to be decided formance-under His overruling Providence and carrying forward the interest and honor of in this contest is, whether a law made in purthe destiny of this Union is in the hearts and his country. He was a man without a stain suauce of the constitution, and as expounded hands of the democratic party. Our old and upon his private character, and with a political by the courts, shall prevail, or whether such a membered. The preference of the convention joke about as well as any person 1 know of,

There were no more any anti-Nebraska demo- ty of these times should be written, it would but actually to lead the columns. Their enerpreserve the Union. [Great applause.] There were no more any anti-Nebraska demonstrate the Constitution!

There were no more any anti-Nebraska demonstrate the Constitution!

There were no more any anti-Nebraska demonstrate the Constitution!

During the delivery of General Cass's speech he crats now than there were white black birds to be seen that there never had been a Cass's speech he standard with never redictions field. the honor to represent, and I will travel out of the usual course merely to say, coming as I do, the usual course merely to sa sired, it was to be found in the residue of the The probdest honor which his successor could clause therein embraced. The democratic party was united with a common creed and common the Union as had been Franklin Pierce. [Re-> surely to a common victory. law, and shoot down the officers who execute him put his shoulder to the wheel, and do ev- great principles and the vast interests of a it, because they do not like the law. The whole ery thing in his power to win a great and gloquestion was, whether law and order and the rious victory. convention had met that question with a firm- Banner." polls, and let the majority decide the question;

but the armor of truth, of reason, and of per- made it? Have we not the greatest induce- stitution says that the slave must be surrendered: the music only added to the universal excitement. suasion, and go forth to the combat, and he is ment to stimulate our utmost exertions? No and those who object to this object to the con- At the conclusion of this air the President spoke as leas than the integrity of the constitution, the stitution of the country, and not to the fugitive follows:

The principle of the black republicans is to We had a candidate for the presidency whose obey such laws as they like, and repudiate those honorable opponents, the whigs—the whigs of record equally untarnished, from the days of law is naught, and whether cowardly leaders is the preference in this crisis of every friend and told him to be at the house at six o'clock.

ty upon great constitutional questions, and in a which he had performed, not the least of which He rejoiced that the convention, by a unanitional parties, some of them with avowed de- presidency was too well known to a Washing- said, the issues were presented between the two signs, fatal to our national existence, and all of ton audience to require much praise. Most of great parties—he said two parties, because know know-nothing or an abolitionist. The coming take possession of the power of the government? their country, the constitution, and the Union, As to the candidate for the vice presidency, conflict, however, he believed, was one in He repelled the charge. He had New England believe to be demanded by the best interests of cape; and there sat John with his sober face.

violence and mob shall rule in their stead. The ing, and the band played "The Star-Spangled like those which are occasionally reported as "What," said my aunt, fairly rivaling a railness and directness that must find a cordial re- At the conclusion of Judge Douglas's eloquent and the hands of their government but protection powerfully effective speech, the chairman announced and political blessings, no declaration of resis- ises, and looking round and seeing John gone, that the meeting would adjourn for the purpose of tance to the laws of the land, no invocation to I stepped into the back parlor, and there he lay serenading the President of the United States. Pre- the shedding of blood by those who have had flat on his back, with his feet at right angles ceded by the Marine band, their numbers swelling none to shed when our countrymen have stood with his body, rolling from side to side, with at every step, the mass meeting, now formed into face to face with foreign foes. But the issue his fists poked into his ribs; and a most agonisections for marching order, proceeded to the Presi- will summon you to a calm, earnest struggle zing expression of countenance, but not utterdential mansion, where they arrived about ten o'clock. Seldom have we seen a greater assemblage Union. of people than were gathered about the Executive Mansion on this memorable occasion. The occasion, the place, the presence of so many men distinguish- ly security from general wreck, and the only poplexy must inevitably ensued, if a horrible ed alike for their talents, their public services, and refuge from universal ruin. Men who feel and groan which John gave, had not betrayed our their devotion to the Democratic cause, the exulting act with you cling to it with patriotic wisdom hiding place. shouts of the gathered and gathering thousands, and and steady fortitude, and they will defend it, if In rushed my aunt and wife, who by this the strains of music the more inspiring from their need be, with heroic valor against all assaults time comprehended the joke, and such a scolpatriotic association, combined to form a scene from without or within. which will be indelibly impressed upon the memory of all who witnessed it. Conspicuous among the crowd on the north portico of the building were Gen. Cass and Judge Douglas. Their beaming countenances showed how truly they sympathized with scenes and struggles of the revolution, but groun and horse laugh that all gravity was uptheir fellow-citizens on this occasion of general joy and exultation.

President Pierce's Speech.

the occasion which brings you here, and I in- which I perpetrated towards my wife and an audulge the confident hope that the joy with cient relative.
which you hail the harmonious and unanimous "My dear," said I to my wife, on the day strengthened and deepened by the ratifying is coming to-morrow; well, forgot to mention among those who should cultivate mutual re- agreeable. gard and afford mutual support will be laid aside; nay, even preferences, which may have herself heard, of possible. may shoot down the officers of the law with who cares more for the country than for him- P. M., on the following evening, and felt comself. Devotion to the cause, and an earnest paratively happy. ty upon great constitutional questions, and in a spirit of liberal patriotism, are disbanded. Its leaders are dead or discouraged, its standard is supported that the convention, by a unanimous vote, had approved of the creed that law us through the great strongle, will constitute bext night, and when I was on my way home. leaders are dead or discouraged, its standard is try at the first court in the world during the must and shall prevail. [Applause.] He reprinciples are among the things that have been, whom the democracy had presented to them much wisdom and nerve as to force a firm and I am sure, quite sincere in our convictions that firmity that Anna (my wife) has, which I forthem without any other connecting bond than opposition to the democratic party. Let us not opposition to the democratic party. Let us not necessary was to know him in order to love republicanism was left, [laughter;] they would the principles declared by the recent convention. But these principles can be vindicated to republicanism was left, [laughter;] they would underrate the strength of that opposition; but him. He possessed the highest qualities for the find such a verdict as this country had never and sustained only by concerted action, and Aunt Mary, in the goodness of her heart profair combat, and save the Union. And here, a higher station in future years when his expethis night, at this democratic meeting of appropriate should be more fully matured. The He hardly knew where the opposition would ges becomes, like fidelity to principles, a cardinate of the carriage drove up: on the steps with the carriage drove up: on t ges becomes, like fidelity to principles, a cardinal virtue. The latter can only be manifested wife, in the window was John T., with his face and made effectual through the former.

My friends will have duties to perform in the latives that afternoon. icy during my administration which I did not helping Aunt Mary to take off her hat and objects; and they were marching certainly and newed cheering.] Mr. D. said that he felt it a late convention places the statesmen and patri- And I rather think she did. duty and a privilege to have the opportunity of ots, who are to lead us now, upon a platform The platform was equally explicit in refer- saying, under circumstances when there was identical, in scope and spirit, with that which they went at it hammer and tongs till everyence to the disturbances in relation to the Ter- no danger of misapprehension, what every De- I accepted with full conviction of my judg- thing on the mantle-piece clattered again, and Hon. Stephen A. Douglas said he came before ritory of Kansas. It declared that treason was morrat had in his heart to say, that the country ment and with every sentiment of my heart, Much and justly as we admire the patriotism, country like ours are involved. There will be, scream. on your part, no appeal to unworthy passions, constitution shall prevail, or whether lawless Mr. D. took his seat amidst tremendous cheer- no inflammatory calls for a second revolution don't." screamed my wife. coming from men who have received nothing at road whistle this time.

ed to cling to that sacred instrument as the on- and our attempts to restrain our laughter, ap-

That a signal triumph awaits you in such a never to get again. cause I entertain no doubt.

ly guided and sustained through the changing sympathetic, had not given way to such a were inspired after its close to devise and adopt set, and we screamed out in concert. this constitution by Omnipotent Power, we may repose upon a humble but unwavering faith that tell such falsehoods, but I think Mrs. Opie her-After the band had played several airs, a loud, en- that Power will not permit the madness of their self would have laughed if she had seen aunt Accept, gentlemen, my best wishes for you her hearing was defective. collectively and individually, and my thanks for this gratifying call.

The municipal election in Washington

Attent.

I had an aunt coming to visit me for the first time since my marriage, and I do not know I congratulate you, my fellow-citizens, upon what evil genius prompted the wickedness a rather annoying circumstance with regard to?. It is pleasant to realize that, however other her. She's very deaf; and although she can parties may be divided and distracted, there is hear my voice to which she is accustomed, in nothing with us but union of purpose, and will its ordinary tones, yet you will be obliged to

Mrs. - announced her determination to make and mainly out of the ruins have arisen sec- for their suffrages. The candidate for the vice undivided execution of those laws. When, he not only the prosperity of the republic, but the got to mention. She's very deaf, and although perpetuity of this blessed Union, depends essen- she can hear, my voice, to which she is accus-

as utterly solemn as if he had buried all his recanvass which my position alone will prevent. I handed out my aunt, and she ascended the me from attempting to fulfil in person. It is steps.

never to be forgotten by me that, in 1852, old
"I am delighted to see you," shrieked my er and better [many voices cried out "not bet- wife, and the policeman on the opposite side ter!"] soldiers than myself, (Mr. Buchanan and walk started, and my aunt nearly fell down the having adopted no single measure of public pol- When I entered the parlor my wife was

The neighbors for blocks around most have heard it. When I was in the third story of the

In the course of the evening, my aunt took that my wife being used to it, was not effected was in my hands, but because its bearer was, by the exertion, that Aunt Mary was getting along very nicely with her.

Presently my wife said softly-"Alf how very loudly your aunt talks."

platform, and he cordially responded to every desire to have paid to him would be to say that stability and permanence to this glorious fabric "Yes,' said I all deaf persons do. You are getting along with her finely; she hears every Elated at their success in being under-stood; I was seriously afraid of a crowd collecting in

"Does'nt talking so loud strain your lungs?"

"It is an exertion," shrieked my wife. "Then why do it," was the answering

"Because-because-you can't hear if I

I began to think it time to evacuate the premfor the constitution, and, consequently, for the ing a sound. I immediately and involuntarily assumed a similar position, and I think that, You will bear yourselves like men determin- from the relative position of our heads and feet, ding as I then got I never got before and I hope

I know not what the end might have been if If, as I fully believe, our fathers were not on- John, in his endeavors to appear respectful and

I know it was very wrong, and all that, to Mary's expression when she was informed that

The best thing to give your enemy is forgiveness; to your opponent, tolerance; to a friend, your heart; to your child, a good example; to your father, deference; to your mo-