

Select Poetry.

"A Hundred Years to Come."

Where will be the birds that sing,
A hundred years to come?
The flowers that now in beauty spring,
A hundred years to come?

Who'll press for gold this crowded street,
A hundred years to come?
Who'll tread yon church with willing feet,
A hundred years to come?

We all within our graves shall sleep,
A hundred years to come!
No living soul for us will weep,
A hundred years to come!

A GEM.

Once from a cloud a drop of rain Fell trembling in the sea, And when she saw the wide spread main Shame veiled her modesty.

But while her self-abasing fear Its lowliness confessed, A shell received and welcomed her,
And pressed her to its breast.

Miscellaneous.

THE QUAKER'S CORN CRIB.

A man had been in the habit of stealing corn from his neighbor, who was a Quaker. Every night he would go softly to the crib, and fill his bag with the ears which the good old Quaker's toil had placed there.

But the Quaker was not prepared to enter in to any such measures. He wanted to punish the offender and at the same time bring about his restoration if possible.

The wicked neighbor proceeded on his unholy errand at the hour of midnight, with bag in hand. Unsuspectingly he thrust his hand in to the crib to seize an ear, when, lo! he found himself unable to withdraw it!

What was to be done? Some would say, "Go out and give him a good cowhiding just as he stands, and then release him; that'll cure him."

But no! he said the Quaker. Such a course would have sent the man away embittered, and muttering curses of revenge. The good old man hurried on his clothes, and started at once to the relief and punishment of his prisoner.

"Good morning friend," said he, as he came within speaking distance. "How does the do?"

"The poor culprit made no answer, but burst into tears. "O ho!" said the Quaker, as he proceeded to release him. "I am sorry that he has got thy hand fast. These put it in the wrong place or it would not have been so."

The man looked crest-fallen, and begging forgiveness hastily turned to make his retreat.—
"Stay," said his persecutor, for he was now becoming such to the offender, who could have received a blow with a much better grace than the kind words which were falling from the Quaker's lips.

"Stay, friend, thy bag is not filled. These needs corn, or thee would have taken so much pains to get it. Come let us fill it," and the poor fellow was obliged to stand and hold the bag while the old man filled it, interspersing the exercises with the pleasant conversation imaginable, all of which were like daggers in the heart of his chagrined and mortified victim. The bag was filled and the string tied, and the sufferer hoped soon to be out of the presence of his tormentor, but again his purpose was thwarted.

"Stay," said the Quaker, as the man was about to hurry off, having uttered once more his apologies and thanks. "Stay, Ruth has breakfast ere this; there must not think of going without breakfast; come, Ruth is calling."

This was almost unendurable. This was "heaping coals" with a vengeance. In vain the mortified neighbor begged to be excused. In vain he pleaded to be released from what would be to him a punishment ten times more severe than stripes and imprisonment. The Quaker was inexorable, and he was obliged to yield.— Breakfast over, "Now," said the old farmer, as he helped the victim shoulder the bag, "if there needs any more corn, come in the day-time and there shall have it."

With what shame and remorse did that guilty man turn from the dwelling of the pious Quaker! Every-body is ready to say that he never again troubled the Quaker's corn crib. I have something still better than that to tell you.
He at once repented and reformed, and my informant tells me that he afterwards heard him relate, in an experience-meeting, the substance of the story I have related, and he attributed his conversion under God's blessing, to the course the Quaker had pursued, to arrest him in his downward course.

One hundred and twenty-five thousand tons of iron were in use, in cannon, carriages, and balls, in the last battle that decided the fate of Sebastopol, a quantity sufficient, if made into rails, for a railroad from New York to the Pacific.

"I am afraid I shall come to want," said an old lady to a young gentleman. "I have come to want already," was the reply; "I want your daughter." The old lady opened her eyes.

A Clergyman was arrested in Albany on Saturday last, in mistake, and as a supposed burglar. This might be called a "clerical error."

"The eyes of your beloved, after she has been crying," Punch calls "ornamental frework."

The ancient Greeks buried their dead in jars. Hence the origin of the expression—"He's gone to pot."

A Harrisburg paper gives the following case of absence of mind: A girl who was one of our first loves, was one night lighting us out, after having passed a delightful evening, and in bashful trepidation she blew us out, and drew the candle behind the door and kissed it.

Combined
REAPER AND MOWER.

Patented by J. H. MANNY, Sept. 22, 1851, April 12, 1852, June 21, 1853, March 29, 1854, Oct. 15, 1854, and by WALTER A.
WOOD, 24th day of June and 1st day of July, 1856. The best combined MACHINE ever invented.

From the success of last year's operations I take pleasure in announcing this Machine to the Farmers for the next Harvest, and feel assured it will fully meet their highest expectations.— It is easily managed, cuts clean and easy, is of light draft, and readily changing from a Reaper to a Mower, and vice versa, requiring not more than a minute to make the change. The alterations from last year are as follows, viz :

All the Journals will be Case-hardened, the SHOES, GUARDS and GEARING, will be built of the best Salisbury Iron, and wrought iron substituted for cast in several places. The Machine is made to mow lodged clover without obstruction, by simply removing four bolts and leaving off a part of the frame work. With these alterations and improvements the machine will be stronger than heretofore, when it was the only reliable

COMBINED REAPER AND MOWER made.

The Machine is warranted capable of cutting from ten to fifteen acres of grass or grain per day, in a workman-like manner.

N. B. Parties manufacturing Reaping or Mowing Machines, using WOOD'S PAT-ENTS, are cautioned against their further use, and are hereby notified that payment will be exact-ed to the full extent for the use heretofore made of them.

For further particulars the Farmers are respectfully invited to call upon Blymire & Hartley, Agents for Bedford County, Pa., who will furnish Pamphlets containing Certificates, &c.

For Sale by BLYMIRE & HARTLEY, Bedford, Pa.

E. K. PARSONS, Harrisburg, General Agent for Eastern Pennsylvania.
May 15, 1857.

Bedford, May 8th, 1857.

Mears Blymire & Hartley: Gentlemen—I purchased one of Manny's Reaping and Mowing Machines last year. Its reputation being the highest, and having seen it cut grain to my entire satisfaction, I bought it after grain harvest. My hay was cut with it; and, from its admirable adaptation to the purposes intended—having fully equalled the representation—I am pleased to recommend it to the farmers of Bedford County as an excellent Mower and Reaper, believing it fully worth the price asked as a Mower alone.
