It will require a good deal of writing and reasoning by scientific cultivators, to convince the majority of our farmers that the "old way" is not the Thinning Plants.

Cobbett said, in speaking of the culture of cu- attend to all legal business generally. cumbers, that two plants in a hill would bear a smaller crop than one, three less than two, four less than three, until fifty plants would hear nothing at all. The remark will apply to all cucurbitous plants, as melons, squashes and pumpkins—which are often allowed to grow too thickly. A single plant (or two plants at most, so as to insure one in case of accident to the other.) on a rich, well prepared, and well cultivated piece of land, with a space of six or seven feet, is far better than a large number .-The culture of turnips, and especially those of the rutta baga kind, requires a bold thinning out. A novice of the culture of these roots may be readily distinguished by his thick drills, who would be startled at the "frightful waste" of thrifty young plants, which the experienced cultivator boldly practices, and with such deci-ded advantage.—Ohio Farmer.

EFFECTS OF CLOVER HAY ON ANIMALS .- Some Blair, Esqrs. late writers have taken the position that clover hay-produces a most injurious effect on domestic animals, particularly horses; and that to this cause the great increase of diseased horses is to be attributed. We lately heard a farmer affirm, that he believed the introduction of clover hay into general cultivation the greatest curse yet inflicted on the country, and assigned as a reason for this singular opinion, its effects on animals when used as a fodder. Late English writers have attributed to this kind of hav the prevalence of heaves in horses, and the great increase of other diseases that effect the respiratory organs. This is a most important subject and should receive a full investigation. Clover is Pattonville and Woodberry Turnpike too important, a plant to be discarded or condemned except upon the most satisfactory evidence. Its value as a fertilizer and a preparative for wheat, to say nothing of its use for pasture and hay, would demand that it should not be condemned unheard. For ourselves, we have very little belief in the injurious properties assigned to clover. Where next it condents to come pleas in and for said county as sequestra. assigned to clover. We have used it constantly for pasture and for hay more than thirty years, and never, to our knowledge, has any animal suffered from it certaintly, no horse has been taken with the heaves when fed on it, or while in the said translet road company, and all others interested in the said translet road company, and all others interested in the said road, that the Hon. Passengers from Baltimore until the 1st of October. cattle are choked or their lungs destroyed. Our experience show that clover may be perfectly cured without losing any of its valuable parts; cured so that when fed out, no more dust will be flying than from timothy or herds grass, and we shall be slow to believe that from such hav any injury to animals ever ensues .- Ohio Valley than any other in the Union.

No Drones in the Family.

A farmer's daughter, in the Genesee Farmer,

In a farmer's family there should be no drones: Booksellers and Stationers, and dealers in Music and if there is more work out of doors than in, women should not object to milking cows, or otherwise lend a helping hand to whatever they can do. It only exercises the same muscles that are required in making lemon custards, or whipping Italian cream; and in no way will a young man be more impressed with a love of rural life, than to see his sisters taking an active part in the useful as well as ornamental work of an orderly, pleasant, actractive

VALUE OF THE HAY CROPS .- The hay crop of the free States in 1856 is estimated by Mr. Helper, of North Carolina, to exceed in value four times the cotton crop of the South. It also exceeded the value of all the cotton, rice, hay and hemp produced in the fifteen slave States.

WORTH KNOWING .- One pound of green copperas, costing seven cents dissolved in one quart of water and poured down a privy, will effectually concentrate and destroy the foulest smells. For water closets aboard ships and ety of Silks, Chalies, Lamertines, &c., to suit all steamboats, about hotels and other public places, there is nothing so nice to cleanse places as simple green copperas dissolved under the bed in anything that will hold water, and thus render a hospital, or other places for the sick, free from Woolen, at unpleasant smells. For butcher's stalls, fish markets, slaughter houses, sinks and wherever there are offensive, putrid gasses, dissolve copperas, and sprinkle it about and in a few days the smell will pass away. If a cat, rat or mouse dies about the house and sends forth an offensive gas, place some dissolved copperas in an open vessel near the place where the nuisance is, and it will soon purify the atmosphere. So says a cotemporary.
