In winter, their feed consists of corn, oats and hay. I bring in a portion of my corn in the stout, without husking, when sufficiently dry, and stow it away for winter use. I then cut the corn, together with oats in the sheaf, and tread the mixture down in a large feed tub, or a hogshead with one head, and turn on fifty or sixty gallons of boiling water, which softens the corn so that the cows can eat it without making their teeth sore, and the oats will be perfectly cooked through, so that they will all digest.

My cows eat their feed greedily, and with two heaping pailfuls a day to each cow, it requires less hay to fill them up, and as each cow gets three or four gallons of water in her scalded feed, night and morning, while standing in her stall, they will not crave so large a quantity of cold water when let out in the morning, as they would if fed on dry provender and nay: and the chilling effect of cold water taken in large quantities, cannot be very favorable to the making of milk.

Corn, to be fed in this way, should be planted not over three feet apart each way, so that the stalks will not be very coarse and the more leafy, and although the ears will not be very large, yet they will probably yield as much weight by the acre as when planted three and a half or four feet apart, and particular care should be taken to have it secured and brought in good order.

The objection to this mode of preparing food, is the trouble and expense of heating water which I think might be greatly obviated by bringing into use some of the newly improved boilers that are advertised for heating houses, &c., with very little time and fuel and have them so constructed as to adapt them to our

I believe this to be the true way to feed oats to milking cows, but corn prepared in this way does not perfectly digest, and ought to be put into a large boiler, and by standing a few hours over the same fire that it requires simply to boil the water the kernels will crack open and become perfectly digestible. I have practiced the latter course for two winters past with good success, by using a wooden box with a sheet iron bottom, but it takes rather too much wood, and the box gets dried up and out of order every summe aworn according to law, doth depose and say, that, in the spring of 1856, I was a victim tothat worst of diseases—dyspepsia, and that in its worst form. My appetite was completely gone, and when in column of 1 Common Pleas in the spring of 1856, I was a victim tothat worst of the same of the common Pleas in the spring of 1856, I was a victim tothat worst of the same of the common Pleas in the spring of 1856, I was a victim tothat worst of the same of the common Pleas in the spring of 1856, I was a victim tothat worst of the same of the common Pleas in the spring of 1856, I was a victim tothat worst of the same of the common Pleas in the spring of 1856, I was a victim tothat worst of the same of the common Pleas in the spring of 1856, I was a victim tothat worst of the same of the common Pleas in the spring of 1856, I was a victim tothat worst of the same of the common Pleas in the spring of 1856, I was a victim tothat worst of the same of the common Pleas in the spring of 1856, I was a victim tothat worst of the same of the common Pleas in the spring of 1856, I was a victim tothat worst of the common Pleas in the spring of 1856, I was a victim tothat worst of the common Pleas in the same of the common Pleas in the common Pleas in the same of the common P in the spring of 1850, I was a victim to that worst of diseases—dyspepsia, and that in its worst form. My appstite was completely gone, and when, in order to preserve life, I would force myself to swallow a mouthful of food, the stomach would immediately loath it, and cast it forth with the spittle. I had also been suffering with the ague; each attack lasting about nine months out of the twelve, so that, with the ague and dyspepsia, I was reduced as I thought beyond recovery; I thought I must die, my physician could do me no good. Such was my condition, when could do me no good. Such was my condition, when Mr. Lindsey supplied me with a bottle of his im-proved blood-searcher, assuring me it would work a cure. I commenced its use but with little confidence; but, in one week's time—so great was its restora-tive powers—I found my appetite to return, my stomach received a new tone, so that I could eat anything without the slightest inconvenience, and before its healing touch the ague fled as from a charm; nor have I been troubled with ague or dys-pepsia since. I enjoy a better state of health than I had done for fifteen years before; I am strong and hearty, and I feel confident that, under the blessing of God, I owe all to the invaluable Improved Blood-Searcher. I believe it not to be only a sure remedy for ague, but an infallible preventive, and, as such, I would recommend it to all whose business, habits, or residences, expose them to this dreadful pest of hu-manity. Dyspepsia cannot stay where the Improv-manity. Dyspepsia cannot stay where the improved Blood-Searcher is properly used. I feel it my duty to point all who suffer, to this all-healing medicine. (signed.) JOHN MORAN.
