Farmers' Column.

Scientific Farming.

To some it might appear an endless task to learn to keep their farm in order, and then to practice scientific farming, especially as so many wants are to be supplied, and some of them, like soda and magnesia, so difficult to obtain .-Not at all. Nature, in her economy, takes better care of us than we do of ourselves. Is a wound inflicted on our bodies? Nature sets herself busily at work to heal it. So in farming. The poor, slovenly farmer, not only wounds his frem, but actually skins it. He takes its very life blood, and then requires it to produce. He requires brick, but furnishes no straw. Nature, like a faithful servant, labors to restore its fertility, and will do so if she can have time and rest. After a farm is exhausted of all the fertile ingredients, give it rest, and Nature will restore them. In her great laboratory she will compound the ingredients, and silica, phosphates, sulphates, potash, magnesia, soda and salt will all be restored in their proper proportions. It will take a long time, and the help of a good farmer will greatly expediate it. To aid nature in this work is the business of a good farmer. This can be done by a rotation of crops. Some crops require a large amount of silica, and but little potash. Such crops will exhaust the silica but take little or none of the potash. This soil will then be too poor to produce this crop; but as potatoes require potash, and but little silica, it is in fine order for a crop of potatoes. Put on a few crops of potatoes, and they will exhaust the votash, but take little or no silica. Nature, in the meantime, is restoring the silica, and the crop using none, so that the soil will soon be ready for the first crop again. If the silicates and potash are both exhausted, put on clover, which draws on the lime and sulphates, stock of Merchandize, consisting in part of Mus but takes little of the silica and potash. By lins, Tickings, Osenbergs, Drills, Cassimeres, thus rotating crops, land may be constantly used and still not be exhausted. WINTER PLOUGHING.

There are many periods during winter, when, from the mildness of the weather ploughing may be done. Therefore, it you have any stiff, clayey land, that you desire to put in crops next spring you should seize all such favorable seasons to get it broke up.

By exposure to frosts when broken up, such ty of character, are more easily cultivated, aless expensive to till, besides being rendered better when the soil, at the time of its being ploughed is neither too wel nor too dry. All, especially they are comparatively mellow, slightly moist, will be moderate. and least cohesive.

so hard and rebellious, as to be unconquerable and Silver Pens and Pencils, &c. &c. by the plough; and when decidedly wet, they are so sitcky and elastic, as to be workable by ploughing only into masses of plaster, with innumerable receptacles for water, utterly incapable of subsequent pulverization, and certain to settle

In the spring when the ground is dry enough to bear the team, without danger of being injured by poaching, it should be rolled and then harrowed with a heavy two or three-horse harrow, until the soil be as thoroughly pulverized, as from its nature it is susceptible. We go in for thorough tilth; for as perfect subdivision of the particles of soil as possible, and inches of "poison-till."

TO MAKE YELLOW BUTTER IN WINTER. Put in the volk of eggs just before the butter comes, near the termination of the churning. This has been repeatedly tried, and it makes very fine sweet butter. It is kept by many as a secret but its great value requires publicity.

Dr Dadd gives the following directions: Coloring Winter Butter .- As butter made in winter is generally pale or white, and its richness at the same time, inferior to that which is made during the summer months, the idea of excellence has been associated with the yellow color. Means are therefore employed by those who prepare and sell butter, to impart to it the vellow color, where that is naturally wanting. The substances mostly employed in England and Scotland are the root of the carrot and the by having them you will save money flowers of the marigold .- The juice of either of these is expressed and passed through a linen cloth. A small quantity of it, (and the proportion necessary is soon learned by experience) is diluted with a little cream, and this mixture is added to the rest of the cream when it entets the churn. So little of this coloring matter unites with the butter, that it never communicates to it any peculiar taste.

LARGE CROP OF POTATOES .- We perceive in a communication in the Ohio Cultivator, that A. R. Ivins, of Franklin county, in that State, raised, this season, from a measured half acre market price. of land, one hundred and ninety-six bushels of first-rate table potatoes, measured in a sealed PLASTER on band and for sale low. half bushel. By the ordinary mode of measuring, the crop, it is believed, would have held out 200 bushels. To this statement his affidavit is affixed. We heard, twenty years ago of 400 oushels having been obtained from one acre of land, in the county of Philadelphia.

A DESPERATE CASE OF TETTER and BARBER'S ITCH, cured by the use of Lindsey' Blood Searcher. I, the undersigned, sometime it last March was severely afflicted with what was pronounced by my physicians to be a certain kind of Tetter and Barber's Itch. My condition was one of the greatest misery; my face was almost constantly running with the foul corruption that escaped from the tubercles, by which it was almost completely covered. After being under the care of my physicians for near two months, without the least benefit, I was in-duced to make a trial of Lindsey's Blood Searcher, and the result was that in using one bottle and a half I found a perfect cure, I may also say that I eagerly tried whatever was recommended as a cure Such was my wretchedness that I even resorted to the dangerous experiment of pouring pure Creosote on my face and neck, but all to no purpose—the Blood Searcher was the first and only thing that did me any good. As a blood purifier it is unequalled; & I have great reason to be grateful that I ever made a trial of its healing virtues, and I confidently recom-mend it to any who may suffer from Tetter, or any other disease arising from an imp olood. Philad.—It gives me pleasure to add my testimony to the professional ability of the Author of the "Medi-A cal Manual."—Numerous cases of Diseases of the ps. Genital Organs, some of them of long standing, have come under my notice, in which his skill has been manifest in restoring to perfect health, in some in-stances where the patient has been considered be-yond medical aid. In the treatment of seminal weakness, or disarrangement of the functions produced by Self-abuse, or Excess of venery, I do not know his superior in the profession. I have been acquain-ted with the author some thirty years, and deem it no more than justice to him as well as a kindness to the unfortunate victim of early indiscretion, to rec-ommend him as one, in whose professional skill and integrity they may safely confide themselves.
