FATAL ACCIDENT TO A CLERGYMAN .- On the 14th inst., as the Rev. Dudley A. Tyng, of Philadelphia, was witnessing the operation of a threshing machine on his farm at Brookfield, near that city, his right arm was caught by the cogs and seriously injured. At first it was thought the arm could be saved, for it was only severely lacerated, but it was soon found that, that could not be done, and on the 17th it was amputated at the shoulder. But the inflammation had risen so high, and the sufferer had be come so completely prostrated that mortification followed, and his sufferings were ended by death on the 19th. His age was only thirty-five years, but in his short career, he had become one of and Everhart, Ashcom & Co., has this day been dis-the first men of the country. He was particu-solved by mutual consent. The books &c., are in the first men of the country. He was particularly distinguished in the summer of 1856, and subsequently, by his bold preaching against slavery, while his orthodoxy and devotion to the Episcopal Church remained above question .-He was the son of the celebrated Dr. Stephen H. Tyng, of St. George's Church, New York. In announcing his death, the Philadelphia North .Imerican says :

His father, the Bev. Dr. Tyng, was at the bedside of the sufferer, ar his spirit took its patronage. flight to another and a brighter sphere. A now ready to grind all kinds of grain.
