Spare the birds !- A correspondent furnishes us the following sensible and forcibly expressed appeal in favor of the preservation of birds : It is generally known that a new law for the better preservation of game and insectivorous birds was enacted at the last session of the Legislature. This law is of great importance to farmers and in fact to every lover of nature. There was a time in the "ken of man" when our woods and meadows were gladdened with ing melody of some lone Robin-Red-Breast, perched upon the top of some high tree, knowing not but that he sings his own requiem .--As birds have decreased, thousands of insects once unknown in these parts have taken their place. Peach tree, apple tree, locust and pine tree borers are making sad havoc in orchards and forest. The caterpillars weave their web and their young breakfast on the tender buds of thoiced finit trees namely ted. The will are choicest fruit trees unmolested. The milk weavil, the Hessian fly, and thousands of other insects in myriads, have come, and rob the farmer of the reward of his to:l. Farmers look to your interests .- Drive from your fields, your woods and meadows, the lazy heartless scamps, and the thoughtless boys who prowl around with gun in hand seeking to de-stroy your protectors. The little sap-suckers, the flickers, the wood-peckers, the larks, the the flickers, the wood-peckers, the larks, the blue birds, in short, nearly all the feathered tribe are your friends, and though some may share your early apples and cherries with you, it is only by way of honest compensation for the good done. Let us too protect our own game to perpetuate the different species of game .--Who would kill the mother of a brood of chickens? Who would kill the turk-y when carefully preparing her nest, and who but a heartless, selfish creature would harm the forest birds when in like manner raising their young?
