Yes, the men who in 1854 and 1855, told the people that "Americans MUST rule America," and that the only salvation for our country was in the success of the "American" organization, now laugh in derisive triumph, when they hear of "American" failures and the breaking down of "American" Conventions. Francis Jordan's Abolition organ now publishes with great gusto disparaging accounts of "American" movements, and in its last issue says, with childish glee, that the recent "American" State Convention was the "GREATEST FIZZLE OF THE DAY !" TFThe Opposition to the Democracy in Virginia, were so confident of the election of their candidate for Governor, Mr. Goggin, that they gave him an ovation at which he was addressed as "GOVERNOR GOGGIN," and the Richmond Whig closed its report as follows : "At the depot, Gov.
