of the rights guaranteed by the Constitution of this "land of the free" to every citizen, may be interred from the following graphic description, by one of the orators of the town meeting, of the manner in which elections are managed and carried in Baltimore.

"A reference to the political proceedings of the past few weeks will illustrate what I mean. An important election is coming on, which will determine the character of our city Government for the next year. Candidates were to be nominated, and it has been done. But how was it accomplished ? Instead of an orderly assembly of peaceable citizens to select the best men for important offices, we have seen a mustering all over the city of political clubs, whos purposes are best indicated by the vile sile names which they assume. These were the active and efficient instruments in the nominations. Plug Uglies, Blood Tubs, Black Snakes and Tigers are some of the names in which these people rejoice and by which they characterized themselves. The vilest reptiles and most savage beasts in the judgment of these men of the club, form their most appropriate designations and fittest emblems. These clubs comprise the individuals who seek to control and often do control the primary meetings of the people. Their services are to be had by those who pay highest or intrigue most successfully, and they accomplish their work by fraud and violence, with knife and pistol, the cowardly slung-shot and iron knuckle. They have indeed come to be a recognized element in the political canvass. and even honorable gentlemen are not ashamed to seek for and accept nominations from such unclean hands."

as follows :

"As a merchant I must tell you how it has affected the trade and commerce of our city. Last winter I made a trip to our Western country : I visited many parts of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and Iowa. I called to see many merchants in those States, and invited them to come to Baltimore and deal with us, and I am pained to tell you their answer. We used to deal in Baltimore, said some of them-we would like to deal in Baltimore, said others, but we can do just as well in Philadelphia and New York, and we do not wish to incur the risk of going to Every now and then we receive a remittance from some country merchant about the time we are expecting him to come to Baltimore and buy his goods, making the announcement therewith that he will not come to Baltimore this season, but will go east by the northern route. We ask for no explanation-we all understand it.

Many of those who do come here make their calculations when they leave home to arrive here in the morning, so that they can make a few special purchases in Baltimore, and leave again in the evening train for Philadelphia. It was only last week that a merchant made

THOSE QUESTIONS.

Why is Mr. Taylor silent?

The Abolition-Amalgamation-Know-Nothing candidate for Associate Judge, refuses to answer the questions put to him in our paper of week before last. He dares not reply to them. He has so many interests to conciliate-so many sharp corners to turn-that it is not at all agreeable to him to meet those queries frankly and boldly. In order to round the many rough House," he was assaulted by a gang of negroes Henry Culp. headlands in the course of his political voyage, who, it seems, were armed with knives and he must dodge-dodge-dodge !
