Gems from Lincoln,

The President elect, Mr. Lincoln, is at present engaged in travelling about from place to place, hob-nobbing with the leaders of his party and making speeches notable for nothing but their bad rhetoric and lack of ideas. At a demonstration made in his honor at Pittsburg, on his arrival in that city, he opened his speech with the following language:

Mayor Wilson and citizens of Pennsylvania-I most cordially thank his Lonor, Mayor Wilson, and the citizens of Pittsburg generally, for this flattering reception. It is the more greatful because I know that while it is not given me alone, but to the cause I represent, yet it is given under circumstances that clearly prove to me that there is good-will and sincere feeling at the bottom of it.

We have been taught, not only by the dicstitution, but by the clamor of Mr. Lincoln's own friends against what they denominated Mr. Buchanan's partizanship, that when a to the Poor House by the Sheriff. citizen of the United States is elevated to the office of the Chief Magistracy, he should sink in an enlarged and liberal patriotism. Having been thus indoctrinated, is it strange that guage used by the new President in the above Def't. extract from his Pittsburg speech ? Is it not highly improper in the President of the United States to declare himself as representing a which he used the above quoted language, speak of himself as the representative of the whole people of the Union, for whose welfare his whole heart should beat and his whole soul aspire, without any difference as to the dividually espoused?

But Mr. Lincoln's grammar is still worse than his appreciation of the dignity of his posifion. He talks in the above paragraph, as though a reception had been given to his cause. This is the first time in the history of the world that a cause has received a reception. Pray, and Battery. Two cases. Not true bill in Mr. Lincoln, did the cause take dinner at Pittsburg ? Did it have a free pass on the cars ?-Whence did it come and whither did it go ?-We believe it did not make any speeches. Perhaps Mr. Lincoln hints at a personification of his cause. Perhaps he means the "everlasting ebony." In that case we doubt not his cause had a reception at Pittsburgh But Mr. Lincoln says that this reception "is given under circumstances that clearly prove |41. that there IS good will and sincere feeling at the bottom of it." Mr. Lincoln has a royal disdain for such unnecessary formalities in language as having plural verbs agreeing with for the Pl'ff. for $115.88. plural nominatives. No such rule as that can be found in the Chicago Platform, and why, therefore, should he observe it ?

Again, in the same speech, Mr. Lincoln

MR. LINCOLN ON MAJORITIES .- In one of his | THRILLING WORKS. Just issued from the Mam- | THE Second Adventists have finally agreed recent remarkable speeches the President elect has stated that a majority of the people voted in favor of the Chicago platform. This is not the truth. A majority of the electoral votes endorse the Chicago resolutions, but they are in a minority of a million of voices in the nation. Mr. Lincoln must be careful in his statements or else keep quiet. He is not now stumping the benighted districts of Illinois, or defending the plunderer of a henroost; he is in a position where the utmost care, prudence and circumspection are absolutely required. The President elect certainly should not endorse partizan tricks which involve a wilful deviation from the facts in the case. The figures have been printed over and over again, and no man who can read, or procure some triend to read for him, should be uninformed as to the popular, vote, which, as we have said, was against the Chicago platform.—N. Y. Herald.

THE SPEECHES OF OLD ABE. - We have never read such speeches as those made by Old Abe on his journey from Springfield towards the White House since General Scott ran for President; and then, indeed, we were regaled with some choice oratorical morsels. It is quite refreshing to hear the ex-rail splitter and present ourneyman Cabinet maker delighting his audience with such choice and original expression as "passional attraction," and quaint allusions to "free love" and homeopathy. We expect to be very much amused when the angular features of the elect of his people make their appearance in New York. What we want is a good anecdote, and we hope the natural modes ty of Mr. Buchanan's successor will not prevent his giving us the desired treat .- N. Y. Herald
