ELIXIR PROPYLAMINE, THE NEW REMEDY FOR RHEUMATISM. A NEW REMEDY, FOR ACUTE RHEUMATISM, CHRONIC RHEUMATISM, RHEUMATISM OF EVERY KIND, NO MATTER HOW LONG STANDING, WILL CONQUER IT, WILL CURE IT. WHAT IT HAS DONE, IT WILL DO AGAIN. DOCTORS READ, DOCTORS EXAMINE, DOCTORS TRY IT. THE BEST TESTIMONY, BEST MEDICAL AUTHORITY. DOCTORS KNOW IT, PATIENTS BELIEVE IT, TRIED AND TRUE.

Pennsylvania Hospital. (FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.) May 10, 1860.—Ellen S., et. 23, single, never was very strong. Two years ago she had an attack of acute rheumatism, from which she was attacked and confined for two weeks, and subsequently from a relapse for four more. She has been well since then.

THE RESULT. A FAVORABLE VERDICT. JUNE 9, 1860.—The next of our convalescents is the case of acute rheumatism, which was cured by the use of Propylamine. It was remarkable was a fair opportunity for testing the worth of our new remedy. It was therefore steadily given in three grain doses every two hours for four days. The patient has got along very nicely, and is now able to walk about, as you see. I do not hesitate to say that I have never seen a case of acute rheumatism so soon restored to health as this man has been, and without the remedy to decide positively as to the value of the remedy we have used, I feel bound to state that in the cases in which we have tried the Elixir of Propylamine, the patients have regained their health much earlier than under the treatment of their previous physicians. Single copies may be had of the author, C. A. LAMBERT, Esq., Greenpoint, Long I-land, by enclosing a post-paid addressed envelope. Address CHARLES A. LAMBERT, Esq., Greenpoint, Long Island, N. Y. [Jan. 17, '62.—2m.]

WRIGHT & CO., ZEIGLER & SMITH, ELLIOTT, WHITE & CO. Dec. 6, '61-17r. PHILADELPHIA. ADMINISTRATION'S NOTICE.—Letters of administration having been granted to the subscribers on the estate of George Wigfoos, late of West Providence township, dec'd., all persons indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment, and those having claims against the same will present them properly authenticated for settlement.

11 1/2 last Saturday; while engaged in house-cleaning she took cold, had pain in her back, felt cold but had no decided chill. Two days later her ankles began to swell, which was followed by swelling of the knee joints and of her hands. She has now dull pain in her shoulders, and her hands are very tender, red and painful; both hands are affected, but the right is most so. This, then, is a case of acute rheumatism, or, as it is now fashionably called, rheumatic fever. It is well marked typical case. We will carefully watch the case, and from time to time call your attention to the various symptoms which present themselves. My chief object in bringing her before you now, is to call your attention to a remedy which has recently been recommended in the treatment of rheumatism. I mean propylamine. Dr. A. W. Stewart, of St. Petersburg, recommends it in the highest terms, having derived great benefit from its use in 250 cases which came under his care. Various commendatory testimonials respecting it have appeared in our journals, and I propose therefore to give it another trial. I must confess I am always inclined to be as to the worth of new remedies; which are so called as specifics; but this comes to us recommended so highly, that we are bound to give it a trial.

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER! May 23, 1860.—I will now exhibit to you the patient for whom I prescribed Propylamine, and who was then laboring under an attack of acute rheumatism. She has steadily taken it in doses of three grains, every two hours, (intermitting it at night). The day after you saw her, I found her much more comfortable, but rather still expected to be for a week or more, judging from her other attacks. (The patient now walked into the room.) The improvement has steadily progressed, and you cannot fail to notice a marked change in the appearance of her joints, which are now nearly of their natural size. Thus far our experiment would have seemed very successful; but gentlemen, we must wait a little while before we can give a decided opinion as to what is to be the result.

Here is another patient who was placed on the use of the same medicine on Sunday last; she has long been suffering from chronic rheumatism, and I found her at that time with an acute attack supervening upon her chronic affection. The two, as you know, are not to be confounded. She took the chloride of propylamine in three grain doses every two hours, and you will perceive that the swelling of the joints has much diminished.

THREE DAYS LATER!! May 26, 1860.—This is the case of acute rheumatism treated with propylamine, the first of those to which I called your attention at our last clinic. She is still very comfortable, and is now taking three grains three times daily.

In this case it has seemed to be followed by very satisfactory results. The second case to which your attention was called at our last lecture, has also continued to do well. I will now bring before you a very characteristic case of acute rheumatism, and if the result be satisfactory, I think, as you gentlemen, we shall justly render our verdict in favor of propylamine.

He is a seaman, met. 25, who was admitted a few days ago. He has occasional rheumatic pains, but not so as to keep his bed, until eight days ago. The pains began in his right knee, subsequently affected the left knee, and later, the joints of the upper extremities. These joints are all swollen tender and tender. His tongue is furred; skin, at present, dry, though there has been much sweating. His pulse is full and strong, and about 90. He has now used propylamine for twenty-four hours.

This gentleman is what may be called a strictly typical case of acute rheumatism. There was exposure to cold and wet, and this exposure was followed by a feeling of coldness, severe aching pains, beginning as it usually does, in the lower joints. There is fever and the profuse sweating, so generally attendant on acute rheumatism.

I did not bring this patient before you with the intention of giving you a lecture on all the points connected with rheumatism, but to again give you a case of acute rheumatism, to test and to exhibit to you this typical case, as I have called it, in which there could not be a fairer opportunity for testing the medicine in question. We are, therefore, avoiding the use of all other medicines; even anodynes, that there may be no misgivings as to which was the efficient remedy. You shall see the case at a future clinic.

THE RESULT. A FAVORABLE VERDICT. JUNE 9, 1860.—The next of our convalescents is the case of acute rheumatism, which was cured by the use of Propylamine. It was remarkable was a fair opportunity for testing the worth of our new remedy. It was therefore steadily given in three grain doses every two hours for four days. The patient has got along very nicely, and is now able to walk about, as you see. I do not hesitate to say that I have never seen a case of acute rheumatism so soon restored to health as this man has been, and without the remedy to decide positively as to the value of the remedy we have used, I feel bound to state that in the cases in which we have tried the Elixir of Propylamine, the patients have regained their health much earlier than under the treatment of their previous physicians. Single copies may be had of the author, C. A. LAMBERT, Esq., Greenpoint, Long I-land, by enclosing a post-paid addressed envelope. Address CHARLES A. LAMBERT, Esq., Greenpoint, Long Island, N. Y.
