

of the war, the beginning of Democratic Ascendency. Some of the short-sighted opponents of the Democratic party, imagine that its existence depends upon the success of the Southern revolution. They forget that it was the inauguration of that revolution which confirmed in the hands of their own party the power which it had obtained by the votes of a minority of the people of the Union. They forget that when the Southern states seceded, twenty-two Democratic Senators were taken out of the U. S. Senate, and some sixty Democratic members out of the lower house of Congress. They forget that owing to these facts, they have been able to hood-wink a sufficient number of fools in the North into the belief that the Democratic party is responsible for the Southern revolution, to enable them to carry elections in half a dozen doubtful states. They forget that the war has given them engines all powerful for the crushing of their political opponents—a moneyed aristocracy, a system of civil espionage, a vast army subject to their dictation, and unlimited means for corrupting the people. Their three hundred thousand office-holders, each one, on an average, able to control a half dozen votes, were alone capable of giving them the two millions, one hundred thousand votes cast for Lincoln. Thus, it will be seen, the revolution in the South, has enabled them to hold power, whilst, per contra, it has prevented the Democracy from attaining it. Hence, it is plain that the sooner the war ends, the better for the Democratic party. For just so soon as the immense patronage attendant upon its prosecution and the appliance of force for the use of which the Southern revolution has given the Administration a plausible excuse, shall have fallen from the hands of the abolition party, just so soon will that party sink beneath the scorn and hatred of an outraged and well-nigh ruined people. Mark our words, the end of the war, is the beginning of Democratic ascendency. May the God of nations grant that that end shall soon come!

Death of Hon. Samuel Davis.
It becomes our painful duty to record the death of one of the oldest and most useful citizens of our borough, HON. SAMUEL DAVIS, who departed this life, after a protracted illness, on Saturday morning last. The life of Judge Davis needs no eulogy, his death no elegiac lines; for his memory will be held sacred by all who knew him truly. Deceased had filled a number of public positions; was at one time Treasurer of the county, and at the time of his death, was one of the Associate Justices of our court. His remains were followed to the grave by a vast concourse of people. May he rest in peace!

Capture of Richmond!
GREAT EXCITEMENT!
On Monday morning last the people of our goody town, were thrown into a paroxysm of excitement by the news that Richmond, the long besieged capital of the Southern Confederacy, had fallen into the hands of the Federal army. At first the tidings were received cum grano sals, as Richmond had been taken on several former occasions, and those who then indulged in demonstrations of joy, having found themselves "slightly previous," concluded that this time they would not shout till they were clearly "out of the woods." But, when the news was confirmed, the population became hoisterous, the bells were rung, the "ear-piercing" shrieked its shrill notes on the air; the thunders of the rumbling drum reverberated throughout the length and breadth of the village; the stars and stripes were thrown to the breeze and all was joy and exultation. Of course, there was here and there a gloomy countenance, the reflex of a mind troubled with anxiety for a son or a brother whose life may have been a part of the price paid for the occasion of rejoicing. But price paid may (and they ought to know) that none but "copperheads" looked serious on that day; hence, we are inclined to believe that the persons of the rueful visage did not wear their air of sadness because of concern for their soldier friends, but only for the reason that they were sorry that the capital of rebellion had fallen. For, of a verity, what is human life, or love of kindred, or the most sacred tie that binds us to earth or heaven, compared with the success of the Federal arms? And why, then, should any one be so great a fool as to think of the few thousands slain, or the tens of thousands maimed, or of the widow and the orphan and the desolate household? But, the "copperheads," (confound them!) always mar the rejoicings of "us loyal people!" They either express unbelief in the telegrams, or look gloomy enough to bring a cloud over the brightness of our "benighted visions." Thus it was on the glorious occasion of last Monday. They would all go so far as to say that Richmond and Petersburg had been evacuated, and that both places were, doubtless, in possession of Gen. Grant; but do you think they would believe John Cessna (who never gets us any thing but reliable news) when he announced that Jeff Davis and Gen. Lee were captured? No, not even when Gen. Grant's name was to the dispatch. Of course, they were right about this; but they have no business to be right, when they can't be so without going contrary to our wishes and feelings. They ought to be ashamed of themselves, to say the least of it. But, never mind. Next time we'll catch Davis and Lee, and then we'll make the "copperheads" swallow that pill, too! A couple more drafts will do it, easily. Till then, patience!

What will the copperheads say now? It was the exultant question of some of the ignorant bigots in this town, when the news of the fall of Richmond was announced. We don't know what the copperheads will say, but we know what the Democrats will do—put your contemptible faction out of power at the first election after the war is over. What will you say then?
Connecticut has gone Abolition as usual, and will continue to do so just so long as its going so pays the manufacturers.

Fallen—Richmond and the price of cotton.

The five forts were barricaded by the enemy and were carried by Diven's division of Cavalry.
This part of the enemy seem now to be trying to work along the White Oak road to join the main force in front of Gen. Grant, while Sheridan and Warren are pressing them as closely as possible.

Sheridan with his cavalry and the 5th Corps, and Miles' Division of the 2nd Corps which was sent in here since one o'clock this A. THE VERY LATEST.

Not Less than 12,000 Prisoners Captured—Fifty Pieces of Artillery Taken.
WAR DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, 11 P. M., April 2—Major Gen. Dix, New York: The following telegrams from the President reports the condition of affairs at half-past 4 o'clock this afternoon.
E. M. STANTON, Sec'y of War.
CITY POINT, Va., April 2, 2 P. M.—To Hon. Edwin M. Stanton, Secretary of War.—At 10 45 A. M. General Grant telegraphs as follows:
"Everything has been carried from the left of the Ninth Corps."
"The Sixth Corps alone captured more than 3,000 prisoners."
"The Second and Twenty-Fourth Corps, both captured forts, guns and prisoners from the enemy, but I cannot tell the numbers."
"We are now closing around the works of the line immediately enveloping Petersburg. All looks remarkably well."
"I have not yet heard from Gen. Sheridan. His headquarters have been moved up to T. Banks' house, near the Boydton road about three miles southwest of Petersburg."
"A. LINCOLN."
CITY POINT, April 2, 8:30 P. M.—To Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War.—At 4:30 P. M. to-day, General Grant telegraphs as follows:
"We are now up, and have a continuous line of troops, and in a few hours will be entrenched from the Appomattox below Petersburg to the river above."
"The whole captures since the army started out will not amount to less than 12,000 men, and probably 50 pieces of artillery. I do not know the number of men and guns accurately, however."
"A portion of Gen. Foster's Division of the Twenty-fourth Corps made a most gallant charge this afternoon and captured a very important fort from the enemy with its entire garrison."
"All seems well with us, and everything is quiet just now."
ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

The long threatened advance of Grant's army has at length been made. On Tuesday last, Grant concentrated all his available troops at Hatcher's Run, seven miles south of Petersburg, the extreme left of his line. All the white troops on the north side of the James crossed over to the south bank, and the intrenchments at Deep Bottom were left in charge of the negro soldiers. In front of Petersburg and along the Appomattox the Federal lines were weakened, all the available troops being sent to the left. Sheridan's cavalry and all the cavalry which had before been in Grant's army, were sent to Hatcher's Run. On Tuesday night Grant had a column of seventy thousand in position to advance against the Southside railroad, which is seven miles west of the Federal camp on Hatcher's Run.

It was hoped that this sudden movement would surprise the Confederates. Constant attacks were made during Monday and Tuesday upon the Confederate works in front of Fort Steadman. These were to cover the advance. Grant's plan was to move his infantry west from Hatcher's Run, and endeavor to strike the Southside railroad, at a point fifteen miles southwest of Petersburg. Sheridan with the cavalry was to make a detour farther to the southward; pass through Dinwiddie Court House, thirteen miles south of Petersburg, and endeavor to cut the railroad at Burkesville, thirty miles west of Petersburg, where it joins the Richmond and Lynchburg railroad. The columns moved forward at three o'clock on Wednesday morning. Hatcher's Run was crossed without any opposition from the Confederates. Sheridan marched south towards Dinwiddie Court House, and it is reported he reached that place by noon on Wednesday. As Sheridan however, at once cut himself loose from the rest of the Federal army, and has no communication with City Point, there has been no authentic information from him since he left Hatcher's Run.
The Federal infantry columns turned westward from Hatcher's Run towards the Southside railroad. It began to rain almost as soon as they started. The Confederate pickets were driven a mile and fell back to a strong line of Confederate works, four miles from the railroad. The rain continued and grew more heavy. The Confederates had discovered Grant's movement and hurried forward reinforcements. The Federal advance was checked; fighting became repeated charges were made to break the Confederate line; the charges were repulsed; one Federal division lost four hundred men; and on Thursday morning the Federal column was still checked by the Confederates. Twenty-four hours, marching had advanced it but two miles, and everything that happened after Thursday morning is involved in the greatest mystery. Announcements of heavy and continuous rains are all that we receive from City Point.
On Wednesday night an artillery bat began in front of Fort Steadman at Petersburg. Heavy cannonading continued until two o'clock on Thursday morning. Our intelligence from there closed at two o'clock, and we know nothing of what happened afterwards.
The Federal troops have evacuated Eastport, Huntsville, Deatur, Dalton, and all their posts in Northern Alabama and Georgia. There are now no Federal troops south of Chattanooga.
The Confederates made a raid on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, near Cumberland, on Thursday night; captured and burned a passenger train, and escaped.—Age.

Success of the 7-30 Loan.
Our readers will notice that subscriptions to the popular 7-30 Loan are still continued in the most liberal manner. To the Old World the success of these Peoples' Loans is one of the wonders of a Republic. The Government does not seek to borrow in foreign markets; it offers no premiums to bankers, but appeals directly to the people, and with what success is sufficiently shown by the fact that during forty-three days they subscribed and paid the cash down for one hundred and sixty-one million dollars of the 7-30 Loan. There can be no stronger evidence of public confidence in Government securities. While nearly all other stocks have gone down from twenty to fifty, and even a greater per cent. within a few weeks, all forms of U. S. bonds and stocks have remained firm except the slight fluctuations that are incident to all rapid changes in the money market. Our readers will remember that the subscribers to the 7-30 Loan receive semi-annual interest at the rate of seven and three-tenths per cent. per annum in currency, and at the end of three years from June 15th, 1865, they will have the option of receiving payment in full, or converting their notes into a 5-20 six per cent. gold interest bond. The late great decline in the premium on gold makes these notes more desirable than ever as an investment, and it should not be forgotten that their exemption from state or municipal taxation adds largely to their value. There is no interruption in the receipt of subscriptions or the delivery of the notes. All banks, bankers, and others acting as Loan Agents, will pay subscribers the interest in advance from the day of subscription until June 15th.
JUSTICES ELECT.—By the Act of Assembly, those persons recently elected to the office of Justice of the Peace, are required to notify the Prothonotary within thirty days of their acceptance. "PEACE."

The following is an extract from Greeley's peace articles in the Tribune, of the 20th inst: "We are confident that the rebellion is crushed, and further bloodshed needless. Only let President Lincoln evince an earnest desire that the war shall now end—let him appeal to the people of the South to stay this useless, wasteful effusion of blood and throw herself on the clemency of the country, and we firmly believe that the next thirty days may see the close of the war."
This means that the Abolition party shall get ready to veer around, as soon as the war closes, take possession of the peace platform, and then cause the war into ignominy—all to be on the popular side. Following up the Tribune, the Washington Chronicle says:
"In our judgment, the only way to attain these results is by the exercise of a wise and liberal policy towards the southern people. The spirit of revenge must have no place in our treatment of them. Luckily, policy and expediency call for the exercise of magnanimity and liberty. Cupidity and cruelty may demand indiscriminate confiscations and relentless persecutions; but a wise and humane Government will turn a deaf ear to such counsels. In no other way can the country escape all the horrors of a protracted financial revulsion. Expediency and duty are always in harmony, but it is often in human affairs that the parallel is so unmistakable."

"Two little waxen hands,
Folded soft and silently;
Two little curtained eyes
Looking out no more for me;
Two little snowy cheeks,
Dimpled-dented nevermore;
Two little trodden shoes;
That will never touch the floor:
Broken toys about the room,
Apron folded, snowy white;
These are left me—only these—
Of her angel presence bright.
Two little silver wings,
Softly flutter to and fro,
Two tiny velvet hands
Beckon still to me below;
Two tender angel eyes
Watch me ever earnestly;
Thro' the hoop-holes of the stars—
Maggie's looking out for me."
