THE INFLUENCE OF NEWSPAPERS.

—Occasionally an individual says to us "times are so hard with me, I must stop my paper," or as in some instance, "my wife thinks we can dispense with the paper now, and I must stop." Thus the paper now, and I must stop. Thus are all the paper dependent of the paper has been dependent it is, stop the paper the first thing as a. useless expense, without thinking of the actual waste of money for many things drank, eat, smoked or chewed, which can do the system no good, but rather harm. The newspaper, can, or should, be regarded as a benefit to every household; it imparts useful information: it furnishes subjects for thought and conversation; it adds a charm to social intercourse; it makes agreeable members of society. To be without a newspaper one might as well be out of the world; he becomes a perfect nobody; when he goes into society and hears others talk about current events and discuses questions of local or general interest, he can take no part in these things because he is not posted up, not having read the papers. And in the The following Business Directory for the bor- family circle what an influence the paper has—the children read it and gain per has—the children read it and gain knowledge; it serves to occupy their leisure hours, to keep them from frivolous amusements, and gives an attraction to home. Surely, then, no wise parent would consent to go without a newspaper in his family—and a local home newspaper too. He may think THE GAZETTE,) may be of service to our friends leisure hours, to keep them from frivoand patrons in the county, and is commended to lous amusements, and gives an attrachome newspaper too. He may think he can get along without it, because he is out in the world, and can have the reading of the paper from his neighbors' shop or store or can learn what is CABINET-WARE, CHAIRS, &c.-Richard Leo, going on from others. But this is rather a mean way. Men ought to be independent. They ought to read for themselves. If, however, they think DENTISTRY-C. N. Hickok & J. G. Minnich, they do not need the paper themselves, they may rest assured their families do. Considerations like these should have their weight, and should induce those who have had thoughts of stopto subscribe at once for one. POSTAL MATTERS .- Much has lately been published about postal affairs, yet a great many persons do not seem to have read or do not understand it .-The Harrisburg Telegraph gives a few PHYSICIANS—Dr. J. L. Marbourg. Bedford, a., Dr. W. W. Jamison, Bloody Run, Pa.
