Social vs. Juniata.—The match game between the Social Base Ball Club of this place, and the Juniata, of Bedford, on Thursday last, resulted in a fine victory for the Socials. We learn from many who were present that the Social met with recreate the social met Social met with very shabby treatment from the members of the Juniata and some of the citizens of Bedford, the ladies, even, indulging in conduct unbecoming their sex. When it is known that the Social waived their right to choose the ground and consented to play on the grounds of the Juniata, this treatment cannot but receive the con-demnation of all. The Juniata refusing to play in the morning a friendly game was played between the Social and Resolute the latter coming off vic-torious. This gave the Juniata courage and after much quibbling and con tention for privileges not granted by the rules of the game or common justice they concluded to play the game they had challenged our club to. Such conduct, to say the least, is unbecoming men who profess to enjoy our national game.—Huntingdon Monitor.

The truth is that the Social, contrary to the rules of the game, insisted upon selecting the umpire, and refused to play the Juniata unless their own choice of umpire would be submitted to by the latter.
