Constitution will not only be unavail-ing but mischievous. It will but The Bealford Gazette. multiply the present evils instead of removing them. The Constitution in its integrity and vigor throughout the length and breadth of the land is the best of all compromises, besides our duty does not in my judgment leave us a choice between that and any other. I believe that it contains the remedy that is so much needed, and if the co-ordinate branches of the government would unite upon its provisions they would be found broad enough and strong enough to sustain, in time of peace, the nation which they core safely through the ordeal of a protracted eivil war. Among the most sacred guar-antees of that instrument are those which declare that "Each State shall have, at least, one representative," and that "no State, without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the Senate." Each House is made the "judge of the elections, returns, and qualifications of itsown members, and may "with the concurrence of two-thirds expel a member." Thus, as heretofore urged, in the admission of Senators and Representatives from any and all the States, there can be no just grounds of apprehension that persons who are disloyal will be clothed with powers of legislation, for this could not happen when the Constitution and laws are enforced by a vigilant and faithful Congress. When a Senator of representative presents his certificate of election, he may at once be admitted or rejected; or should there be any question as to his eligibility, his credentials may be referred for investigation to the appropriate committee. If admitted to a seat, it must be upon evidence satisfactory to the House of which he thus becomes a member, that he possesses the requisite constitutional and legal qualifications. If refused admission as a member for want of due allegiance to the Government, and returned to his constituents, they are ad- ler, of the baggy eyes, Fernando Wood monished that none but persons loyal voice in the legislative councils of the nation, and the political power and moral influence of Congress are thus offertiusly councils of the intervention of the inte to the United States will be allowed a effectively exerted in the interests of them all "in all their glory." All that is necessary to settle this simple but important question, without further agitation or delay, is a willingness on the part of all to sustain the Constitution and carry its provisions into practical operation. If to-morrow, either branch of Congre.s would declare that upon the presentation of their credentials, members constitutionally elected and loyal to the general Government, would be admitted to seats in Congress, while all others would be excluded, and their places remain vacant until the selection by the people of loyal, qualified persons, and if the same time assurance were given that this policy would be continued until all the States were represented in Congress, it would send a thrill of joy throughout the entire land, as indicating the inauguration of asystem which must speedily bring tranquility to the public mind. WASHINGTON, March 8, 1867.

DEAR GAZETTE:-I have seen the Thirty-ninth Congress die the death, and the Fortieth, Phœnix-like (pardon the novelty of the figure) spring from the ashes of its predecessor. One, led by Ashley, desires the reference of the whole question to the Judito do anything except to gratify their ciary Committee. The other, headed by Butler and Covode (of Pennsylvania) wants a special committee raised to investigate the matter. There is considerable sparring between these rival factions, but the Ashley party appear to be the stronger. There is also a considerable portion of the Radical members entirely opposed to impeachment. Of this branch, Judge Spaulding, of Ohio, is the leader. He is an able, shrewd and determined man and

The Radicals in Congress dare not halt in their revolutionary course. It is the when the Fortieth Congress assembles mere momentum of headlong progress on the fourth day of the present month, that has thus far carried the people with them. They must go forward forward. If they stand still, the masses will have time to think, and reason and reflection are certain death to Radicalism. To retrogade would be still worse. It would be nothing short of annihilation. But, on the other hand, to advance, is to challenge fianancial ruin, war and anarchy. Between the horns of this awful dilemma, the Fortieth Congress finds the Radical party. COL. MCCLURE, in his paper, the Franklin Repository, continues to advocate his reform measures. He seems earnest, and is urging it forward warmly and with marked ability. He proposes to incorporate into the Constitution of the State substantially the following provisions:

1. That the Senate shall consist of one hundred members, to be chosen by single districts

2. That the House of Representatives shall consist of four hundred members, each to be elected in a single district. 3. That all legislation relating to cor-poration interests shall be by general laws, and that no special charters or corporate privileges whatever shall be granted but by the courts. 4. That there shall be no special appropriation of money from the treasu ry to claims except upon a judicial find-5. That the members of the Legislature shall be paid five dollars per day, for the period of sixty days; and be prohibited from appropriating to themselves any additional sum for protracted sessions, or for extra or adjourned sessions beyond sixty days in the year. 6. That no subordinate officer shall be appointed in either branch, or receive any compensation for services. unless a bill shall have been passed by both branches creating the office and

We believe these propositions are in the main just and necessary; and that their adoption would purify, in some measure, at least, the polluted atmosphere even of a Radical legislature. FREE TO EVERYBODY .--- A large 6 pp. Circular, giving information of the greatest importance to the ysung of both sexes.

It teaches how the homely may become beautitul, the despised respected, and the forsaken loved. No young lady or gentleman should fail to send their Address, and receive a copy postpaid, by re-Address P. O. Drawer, 21, mail. mar1m6 Troy, N. Y.

A YOUNG LADY returning to her country home, after a sojourn of a few months in the city, was hardly recognized by her friends. In place of a coarse, rustic, flushed face, she had a soft ruby complexion of almost marble smoothness, and instead of twenty three she really appeared but eighteen. Upon inquiry as to the cause plainly told them of so great a change, she that she used the CIRCASSIAN BALM, and considered it an invaluable acquisition to any Lady's toilet. By its use any Lady or Gentleman can improve their personal appearance an hundred fold. It is simple in its combination, as Nature herself is simple, yet unsurpassed in its efficacy in drawing impurities from, also healing, cleansing and beautifying the skin and complexion. By its direct action on the cuticle it draws from it all its impurities, kindly healing the same, and leaving the surface as Nature intended it should be, clear, scent, and the tenacity with which it clings to the soft, smooth and beautiful.
