VOL. 61.—WHOLE NO. 5,398.

A STRANGE STORY.

One of the most extraordinary stories of married life we ever heard of has just been made public.

The incidents are more improbable than a novelist or dramatist, with a strict regard for his reputation, would dare to use.

The story, as it originally appeared, was that a Mr. Wright had married a Miss Chamberlain, having just obtained a divorce from his first wife on the sole evidence of his second.

The first wife then acted as bridesmaid at Miss Chamberlain's marriage, standing there, as we are told, like a living corps.

The "curse and blight of the Almighty" were invoked by the agonized reporter upon the newly married couple.

These are not pleasant things to hear, and Mr. Wright has come forward with a long statement, in which the assertions of the reporter are contradicted, but a narrative in every way more strange and remarkable is substituted for them.

The husband tells his own story, and it far transcends the wildest dreams of De-poe or Sue.

In 1854 Mr. Wright returned to this country from Europe in order to marry a lady to whom he was engaged.

He came sooner than he intended, because the lady's parents and all her family had died, and left her unprotected.

She was twenty-three years old, and afflicted with a nervous disease which her mother described as hysteria.

The pair went to England, and while at Keswick one night, a month after their marriage, the husband was horified to see his wife fall at his feet in a fit of epilepsy.

She had seventeen fits before the morning.

Shocked at the discovery that his wife was afflicted with this most awful disease, and knowing that it was incurable, and dispair-ing of escape from his terrible position, he fled.

The ladies of the South, adds the Charleston Courier, have confessedly always had the smallest and prettiest feet of any race in the world.

WONDERS.—When a young man is clerk of a store and dresses like a prince, smokes "foreign cigars," drinks "nice brandy," attends theatres, dances and the like, I wonder if he does all on the avails of his clerkship?

When a young lady sits in the parlor during the day, with her lily white fingers covered with rings, I wonder if her mother doesn't wash the dishes and do the work in the kitchen?

When the deacon of the church sells strong butter, recommending it as a good article, I wonder what he relies upon for salvation?

When a lady laces her waist a third less than nature made it, I wonder if her pretty figure will not shorten her life and make her miserable while she does live?

When a young man is dependent upon his daily toils for his income, and marries a lady who does not know how to make a loaf of bread or mend a garment,

I wonder if he is not lacking somewhere, say towards the top, for instance?

When a man receives a periodical or newspaper weekly, and takes great delight reading it, and don't pay for it,

I wonder if he has a soul or a gizzard?

A FORLORN fellow says thus plaintively:

"When Sally's arms her dog im-
