In order to understand the following, it is necessary for the reader to know that SECRETARY SEWARD has contracted with the King of Denmark, for the annexation of the island of St. Thomas, to the United States, and that his Majesty, KING CHRISTIAN, has determined to leave the question of the transfer of the island to our government, to the decision of the inhabitants of the is-

"But CHRISTIAN IX insisted that his faithful West Indians should have their choice, and thereby it may turn out that he has saved the Senate the necessity of ratifying the treaty, and the House the trouble of voting upon an appropriation. There are many reasons why the inhabitants of St. Thomas might hesitate about changing their condition. The Government of Denmark is mild, and the St. Thomasians have the disposition of their own affairs in their own hands. Their port is almost a free port, the duties being so low as to be slightly more than nominal. The result is, that they have a brisk trade with all parts of the West Indies, and the port is a stopping-place between the United States and South America, and between Europe and South America. They are doing well under the flag of Denmark, and if they know as much as we do, they will doubt whether they could do better by adopting the stars and stripes. will incur thereby a heavy tariff, a frightful national debt, an excise, heavy taxation, greenbacks, and a suspension of specie payments; they will gain the right to send a delegate to Washington, and have political quarrels. No advantage can ensue to St. Thomas which will balance the disadvantages. The King of Denmark would pocket seven millions of dollars by the transaction, but his West Indian subjects get not a penny of the a-mount. They have, therefore, little to gain by the transfer, and it may be that they will refuse to ratify the bargain, and thus while they flatter CHRISTIAN IX by an expression of their willingness to change their allegiance, they will relieve Mr SEWARD of a deal of

Can the reader guess the source of the sentiments expressed in the above quoted article? "Charleston Mercury," say you? No. "Richmond Enquirer?" No. "N. Y. Daybook?" Guess again. "Brick Pomeroy?" Not at all! That article is clipped from the editorial columns of that most abject of all newspaper toadies to the present Radical Congress, that quintessence of doubledistilled, rectified and bottled-up "loyalty," the Philadelphia Inquirer! Now just think of it! The idea of a "loyal" newspaper declaring that "there are Pharisees," (as he styles the politicians many reasons why the inhabitants of of his party) lets the cat out of the bag, St. Thomas might hesitate about" joining their fortunes with the "best By the way, Horace has just lately been government God ever gave to man!" Isn't it awful? "The government of protrude from the Radical sack. The Denmark is mild," says the Inquirer. | claws are just visible: Does it mean to insinuate that the Danish despotism is milder than the lenient rule of our Radical Congress? It cannot be! That would be flat "disloyalty," and, of course, the Philadelphia Inquirer is above suspicion on that score. "Their port is almost a free port." Does the Inquirer intend to convey the idea that Free Trade is a blessing to the St. Thomasians? Impossible! That would be an argument against "Protection to American Industry," of which that journal is a noted advocate. "They are doing well under the flag of Denmark, and if they know as much as we do, they will doubt whether they could do better by adopting the stars and stripes." What, truer happiness and greater prosperity, under the flag of an "Old World Despot," than under the Stars and Stripes of "Free America!" Is the Inquirer jesting? "They will incur thereby a heavy tariff, a frightful national debt, an excise, heavy taxation, greenbacks, and a suspension of specie payments; they will gain the right to send a delegate to Washington, and to have political quarrels." "Incur a heavy tariff!" Isn't that exactly what the Inquirer has demanded for this country? Isn't a "heavy tariff" protection to America, and if St. Thomas becomes a part of the Yankee nation, will it not also be "protected?" "A frightful national debt!" Why, do not Jay, Cooke & Co. tell us that "a national debt is a national blessing," and is not the Inquirer the organ of those renowned bankers? How shocking! That "a great national blessing" should be thus suddenly and strangely transformed into a "frightful" national curse! "An excise, heavy taxation, greenbacks, and a suspension of specie payments." Pshaw! What has "an excise," or "heavy taxation," to do with the happiness of our people? 'Are there not plenty of untaxed Government bonds, and cannot every body, the St. Thomasians included, invest in these and thus escape "an excise" and "heavy taxation?" As to "incurring greenbacks," if the St. Thomasians wish to avoid that difficulty, let them turn printers. But not much trouble need be apprehended on that subject, as the Philadelphia Inquirer and kindred Sharswood having been elected, our prospective insular fellow citizens need not fear that if they are annexed to the Democracy, is sensibly felt in some Yankeedom, they will have to "incur of the doings of Congress. For instance, greenbacks." "They will gain the the defeat of the infamous impeachright to send a delegate to Washington, and to have political quarrrels." We are not sure that these are quite all the rights that people acquire now-adays, by becoming American citizens; backed and sunken-eyed" of their repwe insist upon it that the Inquirer, resentatives in Congress, would have that they are. But are they not e- knee-joints and the vertebræ, and gognough, in themselves, to induce any gled as to the visual organs, to have voforeign people, to throw off their pre- ted for, instead of against, impeachsent allegiance and unite their destiny with ours? Why, the very fact of being permitted to send a delegate to Congress, who may sit beneath the droppings of that humane philosopher ted, that there is some talk, by leading and magnificent patriot, Thad. Stevens, should be sufficient inducement to "all the world and the rest of mankind" to renounce their present governments and swear fealty to the American Eagle. Indeed, viewing the question in all its aspects, we think the Inquirer's article is perfectly awful!

THE WAY IT GOES.

wastefulness of Congress, during the past seven years, has ever been told .-Could the American people look behind the curtain and note the enormities which they are made to bear, in order to maintain a political aristocracy in luxury and ease, they would east the burden from their backs, before the dawning of another day. But the hideous features of "the veiled prophet of Khorassan," are well concealed. We do not see the horrible, blood-shot eye, the thick, leathery and pouched-out lips, the purple, bloated cheeks, the livid, corrugated forehead; we only, occasionally, when one of his attendants in a whiff of anger, disturbs the veil, catch aglimpse of his red, rum-blossomed nose. In other words, we, the people, are not permitted to see the monstrous schemes and wholesale frauds, by which the revenues of the country, our tuxes, are almost wholly absorbed, except once in a while, when Congress man DAWES is forced to declare that 'more was stolen from the Treasury in one year," under his own party's administration, "than was required to carry on the government four years brother Greeley, in a fit of indignation at the "blockheads" and "howling though it be only to put it back again. permitting the feline extremities to

THE NATIONAL RAILROAD--525 MILES COMPLETED.

A few days ago it was announced Railroad had been completed west from Omaha;" and the bare announcement was made the text for many interesting facts concerning the history of this great national enterprise, and the wonderful rapidity with which its construction has been carried forward. The public had hardly begun to appreciate the fact that half a thousand miles of railroad had been built in two years into and through what had been an untenanted waste, before the telegraph told of the celebration of the complewelcome given to the locomotive by Mass. the City of Cheyenne, which two months before had no existence, but which now numbers its inhabitants by thousands. This fact was also proudly the restless vigor with which this Railroad was being built, but while the people have been reading these congratulatory paragraphs, the tracklaythe last bulletin announces the compledistance will be accomplished before this article shall be seen by our readers, we will not venture to predict.

The whole history of this Railroad is wonderful. It has the advantage of snch liberal national aid as was never before given to any private undertakof national reputation and large finanunder the largest railroad contract of mittee have had in their employ, as which we have any record; the security offered its bondholders exceeds that of any other similar loan, as these bonds constitute a first mortgage upon accepts a second lien as its own security for advances; the amount of its business, when the through line shall be completed, must of necessity be enormous, and its local traffic and profits upon the portion now in operation are unprecedented. We are sure that the further information concerning this National Railroad which will be found in another column, will be read with especial interest.

OUR BOOK TABLE.

THE GALAXY .- We have before us the January number of this popular monthly. The "Galaxy" is the most liberal, progressive and catholic of the literary magazines. Without partaking of the narrow partizanship which makes the "Atlantic Monthly" detestable, the "Galaxy" ventilates the politics, as well as the literature, of the day. We can read such articles as that entitled "The Political Outlook," in the number before us, with respect Gen. Ord has also been relieved, at his for the writer, because his argument is fair and liberal, though we conceive him to be mistaken in his views. But the "Galaxy" has other and greater attractions than its articles on politics. We find in the present number an excellent tale by Henry James, Jr., en-Morrow B. Lowry, the ruffled titled "The Story of a Masterpiece;" Same Christmas in Old England and New," by E. E. Hale; "Elisabetta's tion of "Steven Lawrence, yeoman," by Mrs. Edwards, and last, but by no EUGENE CASSERLY, Democrat, has means least, the lucubrations of the been elected U. S. THE OLD GUARD.-The Old Guard, for January, is received, and fully sustains the reputation it has won as secment scheme, was undoubtedly secured ond to no magazine in our country in popular interest, while it is the ablest exponent of the true principles of Democracy. This number opens with an article by the editor, on "Tricks of President-Making," followed by a thrilling historical romance, founded upon the fall of the Italian States. It is a romance of great power, translated expressly for The Old Guard, from one of the most distinguished of all the Italian writers of modern time, Montment. But their districts having voted everde, and with a detail of the arts against their party, they quaked and to which tyranny resorts to destroy quailed and could not see the point of liberty, containing a charming love story. "The Strange Story of Baron Trenck" is an article of great interest, and the first chapters of an original novel, by Miss Nellie Marshall, of Kentucky, entitled "Dead Under the Roses," give promise of one of the most fascinating serials of the current year. They increase the appetite, give a fine coat, The first of Dr. Van Evrie's new series of articles on "Types of Mankind," is on the Caucasian type, illustrated with a splendid colored picture of a model man of our race. The article is of great interest, and worthy of preservation for reference on this important subject. The "Book Table," and the "Editor's Table," which are fully up to the mark of the best matter and style, close the number, which is certainly one of the ablest and most interesting of the New-Year numbers of all our magazines.
