GOOD HAMS.—After hams have been smoked, take them down and thoroughiy rub the flesh part with molasses, then immediately apply ground or powdered pepper, by sprinkling on as much as will stick to the molasses, when they must be hung up again to dry. Hams treated in this manner will keep perfectly sweet for several years. This must be done before the fly dcposits its egg, for after that is done there is nothing will stop their rava.

How to KILL A Town.-The Dubuque Herald gives the following receipt for knocking a town stiff and dead, which we think is so applicable to our own town that we transfer it to our columns: "If you wish to kill off a town, put up no more buildings than you are obliged to occupy yourself .-If you should happen to have an empty building, and any one should want to rent, ask about three times its actual value. Look at every new comer with a scowl. Turn a cold shoulder to every business man or mechanic seeking a home among you. Go abroad for wares rather than purchase of your own merchants or manufacturers at the same prices. Refuse to advertise, suppose any business is being done in your town. A prompt and close observance of these rules will ruin any lown in two years."

THE RED JACKET

COMPHER—On Wednesday, Dec. 30th, 1868, at his residence in the borough of Bedford, John P. N. Scott Compher, M. D., aged 52 years, 4 months and 21 days.

Deceased was the son of General William Compher, who, for many years occupied a prominent position in both the civil and military history of Bedford county Dr. Compher received a thorough classical education, after which he graduated at the Medical School at Lexineton, Ky., being awarded the highest honors. He practiced his profession, with great success, the field of his labora frequently extending over the entire county. He was profoundly learned in medical science, and his judgment on critical points was always held in great respect by his professional brethren. In early life he devoted much of his time to literary pursuits, and without publishing much of what he wrote. he was known and admired by a large circle of appreciating friends, as a scholar, a critic and a poet. He was also prominent in the politics of this and neighboring counties. Unlike the trimmers who so greatly control political affairs, he was constant to principle and deemed it a sacred duty to cling to that, no matter what associates it brought him or what friends it divided from him. In this, as in the whole tenor of his life, was found the assurance of an honest man. About one year ago his health began to fail, and he announced to his friends, with the calmness of one who did not fear to die, that he believed his and to be rapidly approaching. He was attacked by the fell destroyer, consumption, and as the dying year sighed away its last hours upon the bosom of the December wind, he fell peacefully asleep in the arms of that serene and beautiful angel sent to relieve him of all his mortal pair, closing his eyes in the blessed hope of a bright immortality in the morning of the Resurrection. He bade farewell to all earthly things, with these words, so expressive of the feet that he had made his peace with God, (the last he ever uttered) "Trusting in God through Christ." CAUTION.—Unprincipled dealers are selling Axes painted red, as the Red Jacket Axe. The good qualities of this Axe consists in its superior cutting qualities not in the Red Paint.

The "Red Jacket" is for sale by all responsible hardware dealers and the manufacturers.
