DEMOCRATIC MEETING.

The Democratic meeting held in the Court House on Monday night last, was the first rally of the party since the Nevember election. The presence at that meeting of the true and tried working men of our democracy, shows that "there is life in the old land yet." The party is about to be thoroughly reorganized for another battle with the enemy of the People. Defeated, but not conquered, is the motto of the Democracy, as with renewed energy it girds on its armor for another onset. The Meeting declared a preference for that well known citizen of Allegheny county, Gen. Geo. W. Cass, as a candidate for Governor, and in so doing, without doubt, reflected the wishes of a majority of the party in this county. Many of our people are personally acquainted with Gen. Cass and admire and esteem him as much as a private citizen as they do as a public man. Should be be nominated, be will receive a most enthusiastic support from the people of Bedford county. But whether nominated, or not, the friends of Gen. Cass in Bedford, didate of the party.

INDEPENDENT LEGISLATION. The failure of the bill to legislate in-ceiver of Taxes in the city of Philadelphia, does not produce the slightest ripple upon the flow of popular opinion. The defeat of that iniquitous measure is so entirely in accord with the popular expectation and desire, that none but those immediately interested in the success of the bill and those legislators who belong to the "ring." have felt the slightest prick of disappointment. The senators who absented themselves from the sassions of the Senate, in order to defeat this bill, are fully sustained by the people. Scarcely a murmur is heard against the course which they pursued. Even radical newspapers of the most mendacious sort are abashed into silence. So much for boldness and independence. We have observed with care the tone of the press of the State, and are forced to the conclusion that this exponent of extravagant, high-handed and sweeping measures proposed in the legislature. The newspapers of the State, with the exception of a few servile sheets, have spoken out in manly protest against the pasting and folding cals in Congress on deceased Union solradical, democratic and independent, left behind, should be deeply avenged. pose the various Police Bills under legislative consideration. A low, lascivious and obscene radical from Maine, named Perham, has reported a bill from the Committee on Pensions which outdoes all that the New England Pharisees have yet attempted in the way of exercising supervision over their fellows. The espionage of a despotism, with its tens of thousands of janisaries and alguazils is pleasant in comparison with the prying meanness of the Aminadab Sleeks who control the radical party in Congress. The accuser and the judge of the widow are not designated. It will not do to accept the calumnies of envious neighbors and scandal-mongers. The government, in order to fully carry out this proposition, will be compelled to keep in pay an army of spies to hold vigilant watch over the widows of our dead heroes. Over every hundred soldiers' widows, the federal government must set a spy. These minions should be castered, like those who zealously guard the harems of the East. Or, a Bureau will have to be formed by a radical Congress to examine into the habits, deportment, manner of life, expenditures, daily walk and conversation of the widows of those who saved the American Union.
