Friday Morning, March 26, 1869.

STILL no vote on the Tenure of office bill, and, as a consequence, no appointments of any consequence. It is simply cruel in the President to keep the Bread-and-Butter Brigade "hanging on the tender-hooks of suspense;" but then, Mr. Grant is a stubborn man, a man of determined character, who having adopted an idea holds on to it with the tenacity of an English bullterrier. Thus far there is not the slightest evidence of a disposition on his part to let go his hold upon the throat of the Radical party. He has made a sure thing of it, he thinks, and thinking thus, is, in dog-pit vernacular, "lying down to it and chawing at leisure." Cruel Grant.

YANKEE modesty is truly astonishing. Especially is this the case with radical and overbearing Massachusetts. Not satisfied with Boutwell and Hoar in the cabinet-with having control of the most important committees in Congress, and with forcing the appointment of J. Lathrop Motley, as minister to England, like Oliver Twist, she still cries for "more." She wants the Greeian mission, and a hundred other things. Massachusetts will want as long as a crumb is left to fall from the Presidential table. When will the people set to work to restrain the greedyism of fanatical New England?

THE Inquirer does not say a word, pro or con, on the nomination of Gen. Longstreet, by Grant, to an important office in New Orleans. Why is this? If Johnson had made a similar appointment, all the radical crew would have set up a hideous howl at the insult to "loilty." Is this Grant's method of "punishing traitors and making treason odious?" But then, we forget. The ex-rebel is a relative. That covers a "multitude of sins." We venture to say that if Jeff. Davis were a relative of the great Grant family he would get a foreign mission at once.

pers are discussing the question of the poses respective honesty and morality of the New York and Pennsylvania legislatures. As they are both Radical, and therefore both naturally corrupt and cide the question as well as the most that upon the points named it is six with one and half a dozen with the other. Both are rotten to the core.

test. This is about as unblushing a case of fraud as ever was perpetrated upon a free people. Gen. Foster was a Radical has been defeated, is to go to Congress and contest the seat. These two-thirds power.

GRANT's arbitrary attempt to cancel the pardons granted by President Johnson, has, like his attempt to run the Government machine himself, brought him to grief. His new Attorney General decided against his right to do anything of the kind, and, as a consequence, the pardoned men have had their pardons restored to them by the neer and fireman. United States Marshal.

THE editor of the Inquirer sees an "increased Republican majority" in the late New Hampshire election, of "Gone." when in fact the majority is about one half what it was for Grant. What queer eyes the fellow must have.

THE ratification of the Fifteenth amendment, which passed the Senate, at Harrisburg, some time ago, still hangs fire in the House. The subject will be taken up in a few days, when, of course, the Radicals will ratify.

Some innocent Republicans assert they want to give the negro a vote for the purpose of putting him out of politics. Some people think this is about the easiest way of putting him in.

NOTHING valuable has recently been drawn in Grant's gift enterprise. Reason-the refusal to repeal the tenure of office bill.

THE Legislature having abolished the Lycoming judicial district, intends trying its hand next at blotting out

The President informed the Senate on Friday last, that he had approved and signed the bill for the further security of equal rights in the District of Columbia. It is, therefore, a law, and is as follows: Be it enacted, &c., That the word ' wherever it occurs in the laws relating to the District of Columbia, or in the charters or ordinances of the cities of Washington and Georgetown, and operates as a limitation on the right of any elector of such District, or of either of the cities, to hold any office, or to be selected and to serve as a juror, be and the same is hereby repealed; and it shall be unlawful for any person or officer to enforce or attempt to enforce, such limitation after the passage of this act.

WHEN radical editors assert that the question of negro suffrage is being submitted to the people of the loyal States in the shape of the Fifteenth Amendment," they assert that which is most palpably false. If they were not the most hardened political sinners that ever cumbered the earth, the very thought would cause them to blush with shame. The question is not submitted to the people, but to legislatures elected by the people, who were distinctly told at the time that this question was not an issue. To assume, now that in demanding the ratification of the Fifteenth Amendment by the legislatures is submission of the question of negro suffrage to the people requires an effrontary that a band of free booters might well envy. It is a fraud and a cheat unparalleled.

"Mac," the Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer, characterizes President Grant as "the smallest great man of the century," and among other proofs relates the fact that on the "day before the inauguration President Johnson wrote a note to the incoming President inviting him to ride with him to the Capitol." To this clerical robes; after which the degrees Grant did not even condescend to reply. The public will remember that in the accounts of the late inauguration right. Then came the Valedictory by proceedings particular pains were taken to note the fact that President Johnson did not participate. Here is the reason for his absence. Such is

"Suspension," said Senator Sherman, in his argument for the unconditional repeal of the Tenure of Office act, "would be an acknowledgment that the law was wrong." That is precisely what it is. Nothing more nor less. It was conceived in wrong, has accomplished nothing but wrong, and it is only a perpetuation of a wrong to allow it to stand on the statute

of Pa., on the 13th inst., held in the speed in her noble struggle for Enfran-Academy of Music. Our ticket admitted us to the Parquet, where we had a fine opportunity of seeing and hearing. All who have been in the Academy of music on such an occasion, will at once recall the grand and brilliant scene. We may call it a crowd, even in such a pleasure and interest, seemed to be set toward some attractive point. The eyes of the one hundred and thirty graduates, we know, very often dwelt anxiously on the huge pile of boquets and flower baskets on the stage, wondering who is to get them, and if her name was on any of them. The Germania Orchestra discoursed divinely as they can. The Stage was filled with men of note of every profession; and amid the blazing of lights, altho' it was mid-day, and the brilliant array of fashion and beauty, crowding that immense building, it was an occasion of great interest, and such as the young gentlemen who were doctored and boquetted will not soon forget. Prayer was offered by the Rev. Dr. Krauth, in were conferred by the Provost. As this ceremony was done in Latin we took it for granted that it was done Prof. Stille, and one that ought to be put in permanent form and become the 'Vade Mecum' of every Medical Student. It was brilliant as well as logical, and brought down the house. His argument for the Esculapian Art in its humane and scientific development was just and conclusive; and the way he handled the naked knife against Empiricism would have created astonishment in the dissecting room. The last act was the distribution of boquets to the graduates, and which, no doubt, was exceedingly interesting to about one hundred and thirty young ladies in the assembly. The delicate compliment was, we will suppose, returned in a pleasing way in the evening; and tender memories of "the girls they left behind," will start a gentle throb now and then as they go thro' life, until they chance to find along its rugged path a single flower more sweet than all the rest. Good-bye, girls! Vale, Doc-

It has served its time, and now gives place to the business demands of the age. This church is more than one hundred years old; and at the time it was built, 1776, was the largest and finest structure of that kind in North America. Ten years after it was occupied by the British army as a hospital and suffered much injury. Added fire left nothing but the walls; but it was soon refitted again and re-dedicated. The Obsequies commemorative of the death of Wa-hington were held ing, a chief was captured. So we have in this church, in 1799. The congregawhite Indian ring. A dispatch says a of the city. SENSATIONAL PREACHING, &C. The present generation, we imagine. has gotten very far from the good old Apostolic ruts. When Paul preached at Athens, the peoples' ears itched for something new, some political novelty, or sensational touch; and were astonished and indignant to hear of Jesus and the Resurrection. Now Paul would hardly get a "call" to some churches here. We have too many Athenians who want their ears tickled | found in it $800 in gold coin. with funny sayings, and he couldn't do that. But such ecclesiastical monstrosities turn up occasionally, and cater to the depraved taste and mawkish sentiment of such, until the church is filled with laughter or resounds with applause. All kinds of queer texts and Scranton, 29,601; Harrisburg, 26,135; theatric notices are advertised in order to draw a crowd. One fellow announces that he will preach on the "Blues;" another on "Secrets," and so on. One States the Catholic churches in Par- church advertises, "good music;" and another that "no subscriptions will be taken to-day, only a basket collection." All this in one issue of a daily. What a wide departure from the simplicity of the pure age! No wonder the multitude do evil when hifalutin, mountebankism and operatic musicgo for truth and Gospel. SEEING THE EDITOR. Yes, sir, we saw him the other day, not as we used to see him when sitting in his sanctum with pen flying over the paper, and each particular hair on end, and eyes flashing political lightplace; and every face, beaming with hing, getting off those editorials which we always read in a cool place; but we spied him on Market street as we passed in a street car, and accordingly we made for him suddenly; and fearing lest he would be lost in the crowd, we rushed out of the car, and in our way out tumbled over baskets, sent hoop skirts flying, kicked men on the shins. and nearly upset the conductor. Horrible Affair near Chambersburg. Three Ladies Gutraged by a Negro. CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., March 21 .-On Thursday afternoon last a girl, thirteen years old, and two young ladies-all white and daughters of neighboring farmers, living within two miles of this place—were ravished by a negro. On Friday, a negro, nineteen years old, named Cain Norris, a native of Chambersburg, was arrested and is now confined in jail as the perpetrator of these outrages, and there seems but little doubt of his being the guilty party. The excitement in the community is intense. On Friday night an effort was made to take Norris from jail with the intention of hanging him. No less than eight hundred people gathered about the building, but, speeches having been made by a number of prominent citizens, the mob was induced to disperse.
