THE DEMOCRATIC STATE TICKET.

What is thought of it by Democratic and Republican Papers.
[Pittsburg Post, Dem.]
On the grounds of availability and the personal popularity of candidates, not much stronger selections of names could have been made than that presented by the democratic state convention on Wednesday.

[Williamsport Bell, and Gaz. Rep.]
Judge Trunkey is an eminent jurist and a gentleman of high standing, while Hon. W. P. Schell has long been regarded as a fair politician and an excellent gentleman. Colonel Noyes is well known in this section of the state as a good business man and a gentleman of fine social qualities.

[Altoona Globe, Ind.]
We have only words of approbation and praise for the candidates, because no evil can be spoken with truth of any of them, and their genuine personal worth will not be disputed by those who know them as we do. The ticket is an exceptionally strong one, and with a thorough and efficient canvass will certainly be elected.

[Leavenworth Sentinel, Dem.]
The candidates chosen had been clearly indicated by the expression of public opinion, and are such as no honest, fair minded voter, democrat or otherwise, need hesitate about sustaining. They have been thoroughly tested and proven eminently strong one, and with a thorough and efficient canvass will certainly be elected.

[Clarion Democrat, Dem.]
This is a most excellent ticket, and it will be triumphantly elected over any men the Cameron ring can put up. Judge Trunkey's nomination will give great satisfaction in this part of the state, where he is respected and esteemed by men of all parties, who regard him as a learned and fearless judge and christian gentleman. Mr. Schell was formerly state senator, has been speaker of the house, and a safe and strong man of high character. Mr. Noyes served creditably in the legislature, is a great favorite among the West Branch lumbermen, and an honest, upright man, who will not permit the state funds to be diverted to the use of individuals or rings.

[Scranton Times, Dem.]
The ticket placed in nomination by the democratic convention at Harrisburg is one that is calculated to give reasonable satisfaction, not only to the democracy but to all who desire honest government and an impartial administration of the laws; and while we may have personally preferred some one or else for this or that position, we cannot but endorse the work of the convention in its entirety—nominees and platform.

[Reading Eagle, Ind.]
The ticket nominated is one of the very best and inspires confidence in its election. Judge John Trunkey is one of the best common sense judges in Pennsylvania, and his promotion to the supreme bench shows that the people are ever ready to acknowledge merit and ability. William P. Schell, the candidate for auditor general, is a man of more than ordinary nerve and honesty. He has been in public life a long while, and although surrounded by knaves and tricksters in the legislative halls at Harrisburg, no suspicion of wrong doing ever tarnished his good name. For state treasurer, Amos C. Noyes is the nominee. Beginning life unknown, without friends and influence, he has by his own unaided efforts risen to be one of the best business men in Pennsylvania, wielding an influence in northern and middle Pennsylvania second to no other man. The ticket is one that will be very hard to defeat and particularly at this time.

[Pittsburg Dispatch, Rep.]
It would be idle to speculate upon the result of the November vote for treasurer and auditor general until the republican candidates are named, and a platform put before the people. There is not, however, much room to doubt that Judge Sterrett will be elected to the supreme court. With a fair delivrance from the convention he ought and would have an overwhelming majority. Schell, for auditor general, is the most popular candidate on the democratic side. Noyes has a strong backing in his own district, but the assaults made upon him by the opposing element in canvass for the nomination will tell adversely. Judge Trunkey has a good professional reputation, and is well thought of in his county; but Judge Sterrett is much more widely known, and ought to poll a far larger vote throughout the state.

[Philadelphia Chronicle, Dem.]
Every democrat in the state has reason to feel proud of the result of the labors of the state convention at Harrisburg. The ticket placed in nomination is, as a whole, one of the strongest ever selected.

[Pottsville Chronical, Dem.]
The ticket is as strong a one as could have been placed in the field. Judge Trunkey has for years taken rank as one of the strongest common pleas judges in the state. He will be a tower of strength in his own immediate neighborhood, and unless the signs of the times are delusive, will be successful by a large majority. Hon. William P. Schell * * * has always been the ardent champion of the rights of the workmen. * * * Combining unusual elements of strength, his election by a large majority seems to be already assured.

Mr. Noyes, * * * possessing powerful personal magnetism, is immensely popular with all classes of people throughout the state. He bears the name of a man of the strictest integrity of character and of wonderful enterprise and vigor, and is withal a most enthusiastic and consistent democrat.

[York Press.]
The ticket is a strong one, and it is conceded on all sides, will be elected by a large majority, as the people have grown tired of radicalism.

[Huntingdon Monitor.]
A strong ticket, and with it the democracy of the Keystone state should march to triumph victory.

A BEE TREE DISCOVERED AND OVER-HAILED.

A correspondent writing from near Crum's mill, Susquehanna township, Dauphin county, under date of August 25, says:

"Recently, while walking through woods with a companion on what is known by many of your citizens as the 'Robert's estate,' we noticed a number of bees flying round a white oak tree of a tolerably good size. Suggesting that the tree might contain a bee hive, my companion remarked, 'Oh, no; the bees are around here after wild flowers.' The very next day Mr. William Albert, employed at the mill, passed the same locality and stopped immediately under the same tree. He made the discovery that there was in reality a hive in the tree, and proceeded at once to the residence of a Mr. Hocker, who has charge of the tract, and gained his consent to cut the tree down, promising to give the bees and hand them over as a recompense. Mr. Albert 'chopped' the tree and after securing the indignant little honey farmers—a fine, large hive—look from the tree sixty-five pounds of pure honey, worth about 25 cents a pound, yielding him a profit of $16.25 for five hours hot work."

A Man and Wife Shot by a Tramp.

WATERTOWN, N. Y. August 27.—Stephen Barber and his wife were shot at their home in Belmont, near Malone, Franklin county, last night. Mr. Barber is dead and the wife, who is shot through the head, is not expected to live. Robbery is supposed to have been the object of the murder. The murderer is described by Mrs. Barber as a tramp who got dinner at the house about a week ago. The murderer is still at large.

WHAT KILLED HORACE GREELY.—The story from the Troy Press, going the rounds of the papers, to the effect that Horace Greeley, two weeks before his death, was deposed as editor-in-chief of the Tribune, by order of its stockholders, and that it was this fact and not his defeat for the Presidency that broke his heart, and killed him, bears evidence of being true. It comes from Mr. Rooker, long the foreman of the Tribune office and an ardent friend and admirer of Greeley. A paragraph written by the old man to set himself right in respect to an article that had previously appeared in the paper having been twice left out, he mounted the office stairs to see the old foreman. "The latter was sitting at his desk as he heard Mr. Greeley coming, and knew the cause of the visit. He rose as Mr. Greeley approached him, and offering him his hand, said: 'Mr. Greeley, I am very glad to see you.' Mr. Greeley said: 'Tom, how is it that that article that I ordered put under the editorial hand has been left out twice?' Mr. Rooker grasped Mr. Greeley's hands tighter and replied: 'Mr. Greeley, I have received orders to-day positively from the stockholders to no longer recognize you as editor-in-chief. I am very sorry, Mr. Greeley; it was a terrible blow to me after such a long service in the Tribune office under your management.' Mr. Greeley, still holding Mr. Rooker's hand, said: 'Tom, is this my reward? Good-by, Tom; I shall never darken the door of the editorial room of the Tribune again.' This was on the 8th of November, and Mr. Greeley died two weeks later, a broken hearted man."

WHAT ECONOMY WILL DO.—There recently left this city, with his family, bound for distant Kansas, a man who was employed about four years as a fireman on the Philadelphia & Reading railroad. Last spring, when the Brotherhood engineers quit work, this fireman went with them. Being satisfied in a few weeks thereafter, that there was no possibility of his getting back upon that road and not wishing to remain idle, he started for Kansas, leaving his family here, with the intention of getting him a home in that State. But from what source could this poor fireman draw funds? We shall see.

During the four years running on the railroad here, he supported his family comfortably on his pay, and, by living within the necessities, saved a goodly stake besides; and his pay was not as great, while his family was larger, than the pay received by our engineers, some of whom had scarcely anything saved at the time they stopped their work. Our fireman, however, had enough to pay his way to Kansas, where he finally bought an improved farm of eighty acres with a good house and barn growing crops—a number of farm tools, and various useful and necessary articles. He paid cash for the property. His next step was to secure employment for the coming winter on an adjacent railroad. He then paid his fare back to Williamsport. A few days ago he again left the city with his family for their new home—still having means to pay their transportation, and freight charges on his household goods,—and all these things came about by virtue of the savings of a railroad employe in four years time. This man's good fortune is due to the fact that, during the four years in question, he did not squander his whole earnings in order that he might eat as costly food, and wear as fine garment as his wealthy neighbors. Further comment is unnecessary. Railroad corporations are not the worst things in existence.—Williamsport Sun.

End of a Spree.
The following is telegraphed from Chicago:
John W. Steigleman, a man apparently thirty five years of age, entered the Commercial hotel, in this city last Monday a week, and registered himself as from Harrisburg, Pa. The clerk saw that he was well dressed, to all appearance honest, and had a small amount of luggage in his hand, and therefore he did not demand payment in advance. He breakfasted at the hotel the day of his arrival and appears to have eaten no other meal while there. On Tuesday morning he appeared at the office drunk. He made considerable noise about $200, which he had lost, together with his hat. A lat was procured for him, and he set out to look for his money. About 8.30 last night he came into the hotel and sat down on one of the corridor chairs. When asked if he hadn't better go to bed, he produced a bottle labeled "Chloroform" and boasted of having drunk the contents. Medical assistance was called, but it was too late. The man died at 2.20 this morning.

How to Treat Mobs.

The editor of the Baltimore Gazette, in alluding to the recent riot in that and other cities, gives our views of dealing with a mob, in a paragraph. He says:
"It is a false mercy to aim over the heads of the crowd in time of riot, or to fire blank cartridges. Troops should not be used until other hope is gone; they should be used as a surgeon uses the knife calmly and decisively, and wholly without pity. It is the truest kindness to kill sternly. It is to be fairly presumed that the leaders of the riot are in front and nearest to the troops. These are the persons to kill. The aim should be low, and delivered in a business like way, and followed up quickly by another and another volley. This sounds cruel, but it is the true mercy at last, for it accomplishes the result in the quickest way and the way least wasteful of life."

A child charmed by a black snake in Jefferson county fed the snake daily for over a week. The father discovered the snake coiled up in the child's lap and killed it, whereupon the little one went into spasms of grief and refused to eat food of any kind. She cried almost continually, except while asleep, and physicians state that she will live but a short time.—Knoxville [Tenn.] Tribune.

Our Ministers Wife.
MR. H. R. STEVENS.
Dear Sir:—Three years ago I was suffering terribly with indigestion and Rheumatism. Our minister's wife advised me to take VEGETINE. After taking one bottle, I was entirely relieved. This year, feeling a return of the disease, I again commenced taking it, and was again cured. It is so good, and so greatly improves my digestion.
Respectfully,
MRS. A. BALLARD.

VEGETINE.
The following letter from Rev. G. W. Mansfield, formerly pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Hyde Park, and at present settled in Lowell, Mass., contains every one who reads his letter of the wonderful curative qualities of VEGETINE, a thorough cleanser and purifier of the blood.
HYDE PARK, MASS., Feb. 15, 1877.
MR. H. R. STEVENS.
Dear Sir:—About ten years ago my health failed through the debilitating effects of dyspepsia; nearly a year later I was attacked by typhoid fever, and from that time I suffered in my back and took the form of a large discolored abscess, which was fifteen months in gathering, and from which I have not recovered. I have had many operations by the best skill in the State, but received no permanent relief. I suffered great pain at the time, and was constantly weakened by a profuse discharge. I also lost small pieces of bone at different times. Matters ran on thus about seven years, till May, 1874, when a friend recommended me to go to your office. I did so, and by your kindness passed through your manufactory, noting the ingredients, &c., by which your remedy is produced.
By what I saw and heard I gained some confidence in your medicine. I commenced taking it soon after, but felt worse from its effects; still I persevered, and soon felt it was benefiting me in other respects. Yet I did not see the result I desired till I had taken a full course, and more than a year, when the difficulty in my back was cured; and for nine months I have enjoyed the best of health.
I have in that time gained twenty-five pounds of flesh, being heavier than ever before in my life, and I was never more able to perform labor than now.
During the year I took your medicine I suffered from rheumatism, and had several swellings as large as my fist gather on another part of my body.
I took your medicine, and it removed it level with the surface in a month. I think I should have been cured of my malady sooner if I had taken larger doses, or by having become accustomed to its effects.
Let your medicine be used with care, and you will understand that it takes time to cure chronic diseases; and, if they will not patiently take "VEGETINE," it will, in my judgment, cure them.
With great obligations I am,
Yours truly,
G. W. MANSFIELD.
Pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church.
