THE RESULT.

The latest and most reliable information concerning the result of the election, we copy from the Philadelphia Times of Saturday, as given below. It shows that we have elected our conservative ticket by a handsome average majority of nearly 9,000, against 9,288 majority for Hayes or Democratic gain of over 18,000 in one year, and indicates very strongly that Radicalism has had its day in Pennsylvania. The Great Fraud—Cameronism—the State Treasury Ring—rule—all stand condemned today at the bar of public opinion in Pennsylvania. Well done, Old Key-Stone!

The Times has the official returns for the election in Pennsylvania from all the counties but Philadelphia, Forest, Huntingdon, Potter, Snyder, Union, Clearfield, Elk, Monroe, Perry, Pike and Wyoming, and from them it has carefully estimated the official result of the election. The conservative majority of 9,000, against 9,288 majority for Hayes or Democratic gain of over 18,000 in one year, and indicates very strongly that Radicalism has had its day in Pennsylvania. The Great Fraud—Cameronism—the State Treasury Ring—rule—all stand condemned today at the bar of public opinion in Pennsylvania. Well done, Old Key-Stone!

Our gratifying feature in the result of the election in Pennsylvania is the beginning of the end of Cameronism, under which our good old state so long has suffered. Never popular with the people the Camerons have always managed to hold the best offices themselves and to parcel out the balance among their friends and relatives. It is notorious that for many years past no Republican even, however worthy or popular with the people, could get an appointment or be nominated for a state office, unless he had the aid of the Cameron influence; neither could any man be displaced from a public position, no matter how incompetent or corrupt, unless upon the ipse dixit of Simon Cameron.

This depriving power of a few men, whose chief if not only merit is wealth, is shattered and will soon be entirely destroyed. Don, the proud son of the ambitious father, will soon be permitted to retire from the Senate, and that will end the reign of the House of Camoron. Don had about as easy work to get into the U. S. Senate, and will have as easy a job to get out of it as any senator of Pennsylvania ever had.

Shouldn't wonder if the name of the next President of the United States would be something like "Cameron's Great-Leslie."

And we should wonder very much indeed if the tax and debt ridden people of this State, who elect a man President, whose first and second term in that high position was marked chiefly by incompetency, bundling and misrule. The second term of Grant's administration, especially his last, is a model for us to follow in the history of our country, as the time when ring rule and official profligacy and corruption ran riot, to the shame of the whole country, and the sorrow of all good citizens of every party.

No indeed, if any one of the many that have afflicted our country in later years is condemned, dead and buried beyond the hope of resurrection—Grantism is.

Hero-worshiping has considerably increased for the late Mr. Grant is now rated at his true value as a public man, and the result is very easily summed up—a medium general and no statesman at all.

That pink of a statesman, Senator John J. Patterson, of South Carolina, formerly of Juniata county, Pa., has been indicted before the grand jury at Columbia, S. C., for bribery in securing his seat in the United States Senate. Twenty-four witnesses, all ex-members of the legislature, have been summoned as witnesses, and all of them swear that they were bribed to vote for Patterson.

To exchange a seat in the U. S. Senate for one in the State of Pennsylvania is certainly not a very brilliant prospect, but then, a man can not always have his own way. The "four years more of good stealing" of which the Hon. John J. so loudly boasted when Hayes was counted in will not be so easily forgotten as it is altogether pleasant for John.

The Republican exhausted its power of language in abusing David F. Fortney, our candidate for Governor, and its only reward Mr. Tuten has for his arduous labors is that Mr. Fortney gains 81 Republican votes in Bellefonte, where he is best known, and where of course the Republican has the largest circulation, and ought to have the most influence. Simply abusing candidates does not seem to pay.

An advertisement in Pittsburg calling for a farm-laborer received eight responses; an advertisement calling for a book-keeper, received one hundred and thirteen.

Better get yourself a pair of Boyer's best boots, if you are a gentleman, before winter sets in, or if you are a lady, get a pair of thick-soled, serviceable shoes. Boyer's your man for good and cheap boots and shoes.

Between our Republican friends and their fraudulent President, we have now about been wrought up to their utmost tension. One of these fine days the strings will give a sharp snap, and then will the fur fly in a manner most edifying to behold—in those who are immediately concerned. Breakers ahead.

The Slifer, Walls & Shriner Manufacturing Company have a word to say to our readers, in another column, on the subject of slippers. This company is composed of gentlemen of high character for integrity and large business experience, and we have no doubt that their slippers are all they claim for them. Read the advertisement.

Schoch, of the Telegraph, seems to be as happy over the result of the election as any one of us fellows. Suppose he knows it all for the best.

Hon. W. K. Alexander sold out his store to Dr. J. W. Stamm. The property will not last week and the Doctor now runs the store.

Andrew Stover bought himself a lot at the Forks and is going to build himself a house. Andy is just the very man that has the "spoudoulics" to do it.

Our neighbor James C. Smith is just now busy—that is to say he has several other men busy hauling stone preparatory to building "an house," next summer.

Clinton county made an awful Noyes on election day. She gave the sturdy old lumberman 436 more majority than any other man on the ticket. Serves him just right.

That enterprising merchant, B. Boyer, at Aaronsburg, is wide awake to the wants of the people and the lightness of the times. For that reason he sells his goods at bottom prices and deserves to be largely patronized.

A Louisville man died of smallpox and was properly laid out. Inadvertently, however, his surviving friends left some cold victuals in the room, and when they returned soon after the supposed dead man sat at the table eating like a woodsawyer.

We have received several letters from distant friends asking for copies of the JOURNAL containing the address of Major H. R. Forster, at the Soldiers' reunion at Howard, in September. We have now sent all we had and can furnish no more.

Conductor Furry informs the Millersburg Telegraph that shipping over the Road is unusually lively. Long trains of coal, plaster, coal oil and general merchandise pass over the line almost daily. 'Tis no longer a question whether the Road will pay. It does pay. That fact is evident—plainly settled.

A would be wife murderer in Arkansas, a few days since, snarped both cocks of a loaded gun at his wife, who was sick in bed. He then took the gun by the muzzle and attempted to dash out the sufferer's brains, but the breech glanced on the bedpost, both barrels exploded and the charges of buckshot entered his lungs and killed him.
