A WARM CONTEST.

Every sign indicates a warm political contest the coming summer and fall. By June all the parties will have held their conventions, con-structed their platforms, and nom-inated their candidates, and the work will begin in earnest. The prime factors in the calculation are he Democracy, with the masses of the people on its side, Don Cameron, who will make fearful battle to continue the reign of the Cameron Dynasty and make ring-ruled Pennsylvania a still more abject slave to his personal interess, and the Greenback-Labor party, as the unknown quantity. What the strength of the Greenbackers will be can of course only be the subject of conjecture. They can certainly not hope to elect a state ticket, and so they may finally deem it best to affiliate with the Democrats, who represent their financial views more nearly than do the Republicans, for it is the latter who are directly responsible for all the burdensome and ruinous legislation of the last decade and over.

The Republicans, under the lead-ership of Don, will do all in their power to secure a majority in the Legislature, and from the way they have gerrymandered the state into districts, there is some danger that they may succeed herein. It is Don's year and Don will not leave a stone unturned to secure a personal victory. But it must be remembered, too, that there are thousands of Republicans who will be orly too glad for an opportunity to help in the final overthrow of Cameronism, which has held the old Keystone in its tyrannical grip these many years. The Democracy is in the best possible fighting trim. They are still flushed with their victory of last November and have no dead weig'its of Electoral Commissions and odios state legislation to carry. The prospect and prestige are decidedly with the Democracy.

HON. C. A. MAYER.

By reference to another column it will be seen that the Bars of the Judicial District-Centre, Clinton ed to call again. and Clearfield-as well as a large number of prominent citizens of Clearfield county, 'all without distinction of party, unite in requesting Judge Mayer to be a candidate for re-election.

The position of President Judge is now regarded as rather a pleasant one in the country, where a salary of four thousand dollars a year and easy work belong to the position, and it isn't surprising that many districts furnish more candidates than the office will hold. In the Clinton, Centre and Clearfield district, Judge Mayer is President and Orvis Assistant Law-Judge, and the judicial labors are not severely exacting. Judge Mayer's term expires next fail, and the leading members of the bar of both parties in the district, recently united in asking him to be a candidate for re-election. He is confessedly one of the best Common Pleas Judges in the State, and personally popular besides; but Mr. A. O. Furst, a Republican member of the Bellefonte bar, after having signed a letter to Judge Mayer in favor of his re-election, has repented of his sense of justice to a faithful judicial officer, and now is announced as a candidate for the Republican nomination; and Mr. C. S. Mc. Cormick, a Democratic member of the Lock Haven bar, has decided to contest the nomination with Judge Mayer before the Democracy of Clinton county. Since there's no law, fundamental or statutory, against any lawyer outside the penitentiary being a candidate for Judge, Messis. Furst and McCormick are clearly acting within the scope of their lawful privileges, and they will doubtless do the most good to the public that they are in any way capable of by being candidates against Judge Mayer. They will call out the often sluggish sentiment that believes in the sanctity of the temple of justice and appreciates that a pure and Independent judiciary is the safety of all, and the result will be the triumphant re-election of the admittedly competent and upwright Judge whose commission is disputed by the political placeman. It would be creditable to the whole people of this city did for Judges Allison, Peirce and Fell, Republicans, and Judge Łudlow, Democrat; but if that can't be done, they will do the next best thing within their power, by giving him five and or so majority over any one who undertakes to summon the tricks of the politician to swing himself onto the bench.—Philadelphia Times.

What the law regulating the stocking of streams is, we do not know, but it strikes us that Penns Creek has just as good claims in this matter as any stream of its size in the state. For the Journal.

Mr. Editor:—The impression prevails very generally that Millheim is the boss town in this section for bad conduct in church; but from what I saw at Woodward on Sunday evening I am convinced that she has rivals in this respect. During the preliminary services there was a whispering, giggling and general misconduct that was downright shameful, and while the minister was reading his text, I counted only eighteen young sports busily engaged at winding their watches. What do you think of that Mr. Editor—the click of eighteen watches while the preacher reads his text? Eye-WITNESS. [Think of it? What a question! [Think of it? what a question!

Everybody knews what we think of such conduct. The accidental winding of one watch would hardly be excusable at such a time and place, but the simultaneous winding of eighteen could only be done by a concerted understanding, proceeding from a spirit of pure cussedness. Under such circumstances, were we a minister, we would ask the vestry to vitch the fellows out, or would do it ourself. EDITOR].
