25. J. H. Dusenberry,

A. G. Church,

It is altogether useless to deny say of the present deplorable state fully requested. of the country. It is only too painfully true that "our industries and business enterprises are languishing, wages for honest labor reduced, and our land fast becoming filled with fact that there are no natural and therefore no real causes for this abnormal state of things. With an abundance of natural resources, prolifie that the very earth groans under the weight of the rich harvest, we still have hard times, enforced idleness-want-suffering, and even starvation in many instances.

"This state of things," as our Greenback friends very truly say, "has been brought about by legisla-
