Democratic State Ticket.
FOR TREASURER,
HON. DANIEL O. BARR,
OF ALLEGHENY COUNTY.
Democratic County Ticket.
 Jury Commissioners—JOHN SHANNON, Chairman—DR. JOSEPH ADAMS.

OHIO.
 The result of the election on Tuesday seems to have been in favor of the Republicans, although it is strongly probable that the Democrats have carried a majority of the Legislature, thus securing the substantial fruits of victory. Up to the time of going to press we could get no reliable details—even the general result is by no means certain.
 The following sensible article, clipped from the Philadelphia Times, deserves the serious consideration of all who have the substantial prosperity of the country at heart. Every good citizen should hail with joy the beginning of the end of the fearful financial and business crisis that for six long years hung like a pall over the country, paralyzing its industries and crushing its energies. To obstruct or impede the long-looked-for, almost despair-of coming of better times, is much more nearly a crime than a blunder. Steady employment at a fair remuneration, is infinitely better for the workman than high wages for short intervals of work.
 Moderation and patience will surely once more bring the promised good times to the door of the industrious and provident, while strikes and similar demonstrations will postpone and interrupt them:
 The general revival of business all over the country is attended by the breaking out of an unusual number of strikes. While it is impossible to pass judgment upon every individual case, it is evident enough that quite too large a proportion of these movements are prompted by an unreasonable idea of what good time really means. Business is improving to be sure, and there is every reason to expect a season of prosperity, but prosperity does not imply a return of that era of speculation and inflation in which we live, but not nearly so fast as everything else. In the good times that now seem coming a man may indeed hope to receive more for his work than during the long period of depression, but the average workman must not anticipate any such pay as he received in the boom years. An other serious mistake which too many workmen are making is that of expecting an immediate and considerable advance of wages with the first indication of reviving trade. In nine cases out of ten, not to say nine out of a hundred, economy, care and patience will prove a better investment than a strike.

The Republican county convention was held at Bellefonte, the other Tuesday. Gen. Beaver presided and made a rather lengthy speech, after which J. H. Kline was nominated for Jury Commissioner and a Dr. Thompson for Coroner. A resolution was passed which in a very circuitous way declares that Seth H. Yocum is the fairly elected Congressman, and that if he were ousted it would be a "gross outrage upon the rights of free suffrage." Indeed?
 If Ben. F. Butler is not elected Governor of Massachusetts it will not be that he is not enough nominated. He is the regular nominee of the Greenbackers, the Independents and one and by much largest wing of the Democracy.

Patriotic Words.
 The regular Democratic State Convention of Massachusetts held its session in Boston, on the 7th, inst. Hon. Leveritt Saltonstall, gave utterance to the following truthful and patriotic words:
 Let the Republicans say what they please of instances of wrong doing by the Democrats, nothing could atone for the foisting of a President into office against a clear majority of three hundred thousand by the people. He who was President for two terms and made his administration more and more infamous is likely to be a candidate again. Those who opposed him three years ago have forgiven the great defamer of Chase and Sumner, but Democrats stand firm, with true and tried men as candidates. Successful or unsuccessful, they will do the State and country patriotic service.

The Next Governor of Louisiana.
 BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 7.—The Democratic Convention re-assembled to-day, and the report of the committee on credentials was adopted. Felix Poche, of St. James, was elected permanent chairman. After appointing a committee of fifteen on platform and resolutions the convention proceeded to ballot for Governor. L. A. Wiltz was nominated on the first ballot, receiving 276 votes; General Fred. N. Ogden, 174. The convention adjourned until morning.

The Northampton county Democratic Convention had its meeting last week. Resolutions instructing delegates for Tilden were defeated by a vote of 116 to 25.

The Same Story Over Again.
 "A home in his father's handsome residence somewhere in New Jersey, where she would have nothing to do but pick flowers, dress her hair and order colored boys around," was what the alleged bigamist, Charles H. Boylan, promised Catharine McLoughlin, a pretty damsel of eighteen, in order to induce her to become his wife. The reality, after marriage, was a dismal room over a beer saloon and subsequently a shanty in Morrisania. But the worst part of the disenchantment was the revelation that Boylan already had a wife living from whom he had not been divorced. The experience of Miss McLoughlin should prove a warning to young women not to accept too readily the rose-tinted stories told by a handsome-looking and plausible suitor, about whose antecedents they have not proper information.—N. Y. paper.

HANGING AT SUNBURY.
PETER McMANUS HUNG.
 John P. O'Neil Reprieved.
 McManus makes a Statement on the Scaffold asserting his own Innocence, but charging Dennis F. Canning and Edward Rhodes with the murder of Coroner Hesser.

SUNBURY, Oct. 9.—Sunbury, which had not had a hanging since 1792, was excited to-day over the prospective execution of Peter McManus, on victed of the murder of Frederick Hesser in 1874. By the morning papers from Harrisburg it was learned that O'Neil had been respited until November 6th. At an early hour people began to congregate around the jail, and by 11:45 about 8,000 people had found their way into the jail yard to witness the tragic event. In the morning McManus revised the statement made on Tuesday before, to three Catholic priests, District Attorney Dewart and George B. Renn, one of his counsel. He made but few alterations, and when asked by Rev. W. H. Gotwald, of Milton, whether it was his dying testimony and whether it was the truth, he replied "Yes, sir, and I would give just the same if I was dying." In his statement McManus claims entire innocence for himself and O'Neil, and charges the murder of Hesser on Dennis F. Canning, Edward Rhodes and others.

THE EXECUTION.
 At 11 o'clock and 55 minutes, McManus accompanied by Sheriff Weaver, his deputies, members of the Coal and Iron Police and Fathers Koch, McGovern and McIlheny, District Attorney Dewart, Geo. Renn, attorney for the prisoner, came from the jail and proceeded to the scaffold. Father Koch preceded the prisoner, who was followed by Father McGovern.
 The priests were waiting to give him a farewell hope and kiss, when Mr. Renn said to him, "Mr. McManus, we want you to say now, as your dying declaration, whether this statement you made to us is true or not, the statement that you made and signed in the presence of Father McGovern, Father Koch, Father McIlheny, Lewis Dewart and myself as attorney for you."
 McManus answered in a clear though trembling voice, "It is correct."
 "Have you anything further to say?" asked Sheriff Weaver.

"O", nothing further—that is all. I guess there is no use in saying anything more," said he.
 The suspense to all at this time was painful, what must it have been to McManus awaiting the terrible jerk that was to launch him out into the great unknown? He evinced no fear, scarcely a perceptible change of countenance, in fact I noticed but little change from the time when he sat in the Court House listening to the evidence, fast sealing his doom. The priests, faithful to their charge even to the gates of death, kissed him good-bye and left the scaffold. The Sheriff and Warden then shook him by the hand while the work of tying his hands and legs was going on. A pair of steel bracelets was placed upon his wrists, a leather strap around his arms at the elbow, another around his ankles and one at the knees.
 The white cap that was to shroud the countenances of agony in his face, was then placed over his head, and at 11:54 the drop fell and McManus, so far as man is concerned, had paid the penalty of his sins.—He fell a distance of five feet, which broke his neck and but few convulsions were noticeable, though it was not until he had hung 17 1/2 minutes that he was pronounced dead and taken down.
 The execution was well conducted in every respect. Sheriff Weaver himself adjusted the noose around the neck of the condemned man and drew a white cap over his head. Who sprung the trap will probably never be made known, as that personage was hidden by a screen behind the scaffold.
 The corpse was put into an ice box and conveyed to the depot, from whence it was taken to Minersville by special train.

Possibly Another Raber Case.
 Sudden Death of a Poor Old Man whose Life was Insured for $20,000.
 LEANON, Pa., 12.—About two weeks ago David Long, a poor man, aged about 55 years, and living alone in a little shanty in North Lebanon, was taken sick with what was pronounced typhoid fever, and after an illness of about one week he died on Sept. 25, and was buried the following Sunday in the United Brethren Church cemetery near by. After his death application was made to the insurance companies by persons holding policies on the old man's life to have them paid. These payments have been refused by some of the companies until the circumstances attending the death of Long can be investigated, and for this purpose his body is to be exhumed this week. The policy was issued for $6,000 in the United Brethren Company; also in the Home Mutual and other companies for various amounts. The full amount he was insured for is said to be about $20,000. Among those holding policies are several leading citizens of this borough, and on this account the affair has been kept quiet. Long at one time was in good circumstances, but through dissipation became involved and lost his property, which was bought by Jonathan Umberger, who built Long the shanty in which he died. His wife died several years ago, leaving a daughter who ran away from her husband and joined a band of roving gypsies.

The Pittsburgh Riots.
 A Decision of the Supreme Court Making the County Liable for Damages.
 PITTSBURGH, Oct. 6.—After the smoke and excitement of the fearful July riots of 1877 had passed away from Pittsburgh the question "Who is to pay the bill for all this?" became an all absorbing topic. Suits were brought against the county by a large number of persons under an act of the Legislature passed in 1841, which makes the county liable for damages done by a mob. It was held by a number of leading lawyers that the non-residents of the State who owned property which was destroyed could not bring suit under this act. To test the matter, two suits were instituted against the county, one by a resident and the other by a non-resident. Owing to the fact that it was impossible to get a jury here, the cases were tried in Beaver county, and verdicts against the county were obtained in the Common Pleas Court. An appeal was taken to the Supreme Court of the State, and the cases were argued at great length last winter, ex-Chief Justice Agnew being the leading counsel for the county. Judge Agnew argued that the act of 1841 had been abrogated when the new constitution was adopted in 1874.
 To-day Justice Paxton of Philadelphia rendered the decision of the Court in a long and exhaustive written opinion. He sides with the plaintiffs throughout. He holds that the act of 1841 is still in force, and that the county is liable for all the damage that was done by the mob, and that suits can be brought and the amount of the losses recovered by those who suffered. This sweeping opinion has caused a sensation here. An estimate of the losses which this decision will render the county liable for, cannot be made with much precision, but they will reach nearly $4,000,000. It is thought that an attempt will be made to compromise the matter to save the county from further costs. There was not a dissenting opinion to that filed by Judge Paxton.
