On the morning of the 15th the subject of the above brief notice was alive and well. He started for the woods, accompanied by a comrade—Harry Dochler—who is a year or two younger, for the purpose of gathering hickory nots. George assended a tree to the heighth of some 40 feet, to "Scutch" or "switch," and in a short time Harry, hearing a noise among the branches of the tree, looked up and, to his horror, saw George falling. As he reached the ground, Harry ran to him, called him by name but received no answer. He was very much frightened and started for town to give the alarm. A number of persons among whom were his uncle and Dr. Geo. S. Kemble, hurried to the scene. Dr. K. immediately sent a many back to town for a stretcher, upon which he was laid and carried to the late residence of his grandmother, in Mifflinburg, where he was attended by Drs. Kemble & Steans, and all that loving hearts and medical skill could suggest was done, but alas, in vain. At half past six o'clock on the morning of the 16th he quietly passed away. His father had been telegraphed for and arrived at about 8 o'clock on the evening of the 15th, accompanied by his eldest daughter, Mrs. Clark, but coorge did not recognize either.
