An American Miner in Australia

We had dug our shaft at the base of a ten-foot hill at McAllister's store, and had driven a tunnel right through into the hill, following a ledge that yielded some rich washing. The drive was very narrow, being only large enough to give admission to one man. I descended the shaft one morning and entered the tunnel. Just as I was about to drive in my pick a monstrous snake rose up in front of me; he had descended the shaft during the night, and worked his way into the end of the drive. By the light of my candle I saw it was a black snake, one of the most venomous of Australian reptiles. I saw he was about to and the t'otner Haygur. He kept wun it in at the side. ## A Deadwood Pastoral.

A middle-aged woman by the name of Lovell, who lives in a suburb of Deadwood called Elizabethtown, has earned for herself during her sojourn in the hills a widespread reputation as a virago. Her first exploit was only three months ago, when, armed with a Colt's navy, she stampeded by eating twenty pigs' feet. A month or six weeks later officers of the law attempted to arrest her on a warrant sworn out by a man who claimed she had driven him from a town lot (his property) at the point of a six-shooter. On olding the officers approach she barricaded herself in her house and refused admission to them, with a warning that if they attempted to force the door she would shoot them down. The officers tried persuasion, strategy, and every means but force, but she remained obdurate throughout, standing at the window with two 44calibre revolvers, one in each hand, prepared, as she said, for business, if they should attempt force The officers returned to the J. P. 's office, and held a council of war with the J. P., and they came to the conclusion that the facts in the case did not warrant them in using force, and in fact they didn't want to arrest her. This was victory No. 2 for the madam. A few days ago a Mr. Johnson purchased, with a full knowledge of the woman's claim thereon, the town lot from which she had already driven one man at the point of the pistol. Checked in Their Advance By the speedy action of Hostetter's Bitters, dyspepsia, nervous irdisposition, constipation and bilious comp'aints cease to harass the invalid. That they will instantly give ground is not pretended, but no medical fact is more certain, or avouched by more competent testi-mony, than that these maladies, and others to which it is adapted, entirely succumb to the influence of the medicine, if it be given a fair trial. Their total, if not instant rout, is certain to ensue. Losses of strength are repaired, and failure of appetite and nerve qui-etude are remedied by the Bitters; and as the stomach grows stronger and assimilation is aided by its action, a gain in flesh will follow. Ladies in delicate health, aged persons and convalescents, derive bodily and mental solace from its use, and experience none of the repugnance which ordinary tonics frequently inspire. The emphatic recommendation of physicians confirms the verdict in its fayor.

An Infallible Remedy

No longer like Job need the afflicted millions cry out: "Oh, that my grief were weighed and my calamity laid in the balance! Ye are forgers of lies; ye are all physicians of no value." For an absolutely safe, reliable and certain cure for Piles, the most exasperating, painful of all diseases, has been found by Dr. Silabee. Half a million of sufferers with piles testify to the virtues of Anakesis. Physicians of all schools endorse it and prescribe it; 500.000 persons have used it in all stages and varieties of piles, and none without benefit, It has been pronounced the "happiest medical discovery of the age," and Dr. Silsbee, an experienced and scientifie M. D. of 40 years' practice, "a benefactor to his race." No remedy so simple and yet so infallible as Anakesis for Piles has been discovered. It is a happy combination of the soothing poultice of the English the instrument of the French, and the curative medication of the American surgeons. It affords immediate relief from the most excruciating pain, holds up the painful tumors, and ultimat ly cures the worst cases of Piles. Samples of "ANAKESIS" are sent free to all sufferers on ap lication to the sole manufacturers, Messrs. P. Neustaedur & Co., Box 3946 New York. Also, sold by druggists every where. first place, all farmers should look well to their cellars. In too many of them will be found rotten apples, cabbages, turnips, onions, &c. In some will be found old brine, with pieces of decayed meat, sending forth an odor, when the cover of the barrel is taken off, vile enough to wrench the stomach of a pig. In others there will be musty cider barrels, possibly vinegar casks, in which the vinegar has passed on to the pictrefactive stage, disseminating the spores of decay and death, not only through the upper part of the house, but even escaping through the cellar windows and polluting the outdoor air. Decaying wood generates one of the most subtle of poisons, because the odor is not particularly offensive. Rotten timbers in the cellar and mouldy wood or chips in the woodhouse fill the air with spores which breathed by a person in the full vigor of health may be thrown off with impunity but inhaled by one whose blood is low may find a congenial seedbed and generate disease. Under the cider and vinegar barrels, and potato bins, may be found old timbers and boards that are full of dry rot, ready to propagate itself wherever the rotten particles may find a lodgment. In the well, rotten wood is a subtle poison, more dangerous than a decomposing toad, as the latter makes its presence known, while few tastes are so keen as to detect the presence of decaying wood. and beauty as Hop Bitters. A trial is Probably the most prolific source of disease around the farmhouse is the cesspool into which pass the kitchen and chamber slips. In the cities and large villages these are carried off in the sewers, but seldom does a farmhouse have any system of sewerage. The slops are too often thrown out of the kitchen door, and left to generate vile odors on the surface of the ground. To keep the air of the cellar and around the house sweet and pure, we have never found anything more economical, pleasant and efficacious than a free sprinkling, as occasion may demand, of dry air-slacked lime. Chloride of lime is a greater absorbent of vile odors, but this is itself offensive to most olfactory nerves, and is also quite expensive. Common lime is cheap, and if scattered ireely in the cellar and wherever there are impurities, will render the air sweet and wholesome, even in the most decomposing dog-days.

SALTING STOCK .- One of the most important things to attend to in the care of farm stock of every kind, is that they have access at all times to salt. In this connection we would again call attention to the practice in vogue with take out the core from the tomatoes | many farmers, in that they salt irregularly, and at such times with too li-Perfumery" by the boys, because he centre of every tomatoe and stew over beral a hand Thus animals will gorge themselves, and this often results in severe purging. Again, when salt is thrown about on the ground to be licked up, the larger animals get more than they should, and the smaller ones little or none. Besides, injury to weak animals is often the result of this struggle. The proper way to salt stock is to have salt placed under cover, where would say "Glorious and invaluable remedy." See another column. In this way they take just what they want and no more, and while eating To VENTILATE A ROOM .- To venti- what is necessary for them, they never late a room without draught, make a take enough to do them injury. Thus hole through the wall to the outer air, cattle will seldom take more than an ordinary tablespoonful per day, and skirting. Through the hole put one this is about what they require in summer as an aid to proper digestion.

SAND FOR STABLES .- For the past two years I have used considerable sand to good advantage, both to my crops and land, as an absorbent. For this purpose I constructed on the back side of the stable two boxes, one at each end of the stable, about five feet in width, ten feet in length and six in height, filling them through the summer and fall with dry sand using it with little trouble or labor for the cows through the winter. The use of sand keeps the stable dry and sweet, and also absorbs most of the liquid manure, Sand also cuts the manure, sothat it is more easily worked and spread. I had before used sand to some extent; but, having no convenient place to store it when dry, could not use it in winter. I have also found sand excellent for mixing in the hog pen, making the manure fine. I have used such manure to advantage for potatoes in the hill, as well as for corn."

From the Honorable Thurlow Week

AFTER USING THEM FOR CUTTURAL PEASE. NEW YORK, Jan. 4, 1877.

DRAR SIR.—Having for several years used your medicines, doubtingly at first, but after experiencing their efficacy, with full confidence, it is no less a pleasure than a duty to thankfully acknowledge the advantage we have derived from them. The pills are resorted to as often as occasion requires, and always with the desired effect. The Ready Relief cannot be better described than it is by its name. We apply the liniment frequently and freely, almost invariably finding the promised "Relief."

Truly yours, (signed)

DR. RADWAY, THURLOW WEED.
