Table with 2 columns: DEMOCRATIC STATES, REPUBLICAN STATES. Lists states and their electoral votes.

Total: 293

In the above computation we give the Republicans the states of Illinois and California, which may fairly be considered doubtful, and granting them both Oregon and Wisconsin, it will be seen that they cannot by any method of figuring, command more than 165 electoral votes, which is nineteen less than a majority.

But, as we have said, the existing breach in the party in that state will not doubt be healed long before the presidential election, and with a united democracy the empire state will be democratic to the core.

We can afford to allow the republican party to take Ohio and yet win the battle in 1880. There is margin enough to work upon, provided no grave blunders are committed. In fact, the result in Ohio settles all discussions on the financial question, and cleaves the way for a rousing democratic victory in 1880.—St. Paul (Minn.) Globe.

How to Succeed.

The democratic party is organized in but two states of this Union, New York and Indiana. The republican party is efficiently organized and splendidly disciplined in every one of the northern states. It was so splendidly and audaciously officered in 1876 as to be able to steal Oregon from us without even alarming our sentinels; to overcome the vote of California by a systematic series of frauds in San Francisco, and finally, in the garish light of day, after making boastful announcement of its victory, to rob us of twelve electoral votes—so fairly cast for Mr. Tilden that all the world took notice of the fact—and turn so poor a piece of clay as Mr. Hayes from a minority into a majority candidate.

THE ELECTIONS.

At this writing—midnight—the indications are that Butler, Rep., is elected state treasurer by a large majority, probably upwards of 40,000, of which Philadelphia contributes at least 25,000. This result was not produced by an in the democratic party. New York has probably elected the whole democratic state ticket except Robinson for governor. The joint vote for Robinson (regular democrat) and Kelley (ind. democrat) will show a majority over Cornell (rep.) of about 40,000. This proves that New York is still a democratic state and will cast its electoral vote for the democratic candidate for president provided he is not affiliated with either of the factions in the state. Maryland gives a large democratic majority. Connecticut elects a republican legislature. The New Jersey legislature is in doubt. Wisconsin goes republican as usual. The defeat of Butler in Massachusetts is claimed by the republicans. Moral—democrats must reorganize the party.

Chandler Dead.

Senator Chandler, of Michigan, was found dead in his room in the Grand Pacific Hotel, Chicago on Saturday morning. He had addressed a political meeting the night before, in Wisconsin and spoke with his usual earnestness.

The Next Electoral College.

There are a few doubting Thomases among the Democrats of this vicinity who seem to regard the loss of Ohio by the democracy as fatal to the prospects of that party in the Presidential contest of next year. Such men have evidently paid but little attention to the aspect of affairs as presented by the latest elections held in the north and west. A careful survey of the field shows that the Democrats are not as liable to defeat as would appear at first glance, but stand more than an even chance of success. In the north the democracy can safely lay claim to the states of Connecticut, Indiana, New Jersey and New York. There may be some who will dispute the possibility of carrying New York. The present split in the democratic ranks may lose the state for the Democrats at this election, but a year hence this dissension will be healed, and the democracy will present a solid front. With a united democracy the state is certain to cast its electoral vote for the candidate of the party, whoever he may be.

The Ownership of Fruit.

A criminal charge of stealing apples from a bunch hanging over another man's property is expected to be tried at Doylestown, Bucks county, shortly. There seems to be a good deal of ignorance of the law on this question of ownership, but it is more than once been decided, and the decision has been in favor of the owner of the tree. The owner of an adjoining lot may cut off all the branches hanging over his land and may destroy the roots running into it; but that is all. He cannot claim the fruit on an overhanging branch, not even when it falls off upon his property; but the owner of the tree has a right to gather it.

The above just shows how absurd and illogical our courts often decide in the more common affairs of life. Just think of it, if your neighbor's tree overhangs the division fence you have a clear right to cut off all such overhanging limbs, or even roots that come over the line, and thus injure or deface the tree; but if the fruit falls off upon your ground, you have no right to pick it up, but you must allow the neighbor to come and commit a trespass upon your premises and take it away.

Death of General Hooker.

LONG ISLAND, Oct. 31.—Major General Joseph Hooker died at Garden City at 4.45 p. m. to day.

He took his accustomed walk in the Park during the afternoon and did not complain of feeling ill till about four o'clock, when he retired to his own apartment on the second floor and summoned his valet, Thomas Lawler, who assisted him to arrange a position upon a couch. After an hour he arose and busied himself about his room till 4.45. His valet hearing the general struggling for breath hastened to his side and assisted him to lie down upon his bed, at the same time ringing the bell for help. Mr. M. C. Kerson the hotel superintendent, hurried to the room, but when he arrived the General was dead.
