Our Washington Letter.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24th, 1880. A new delegation of Ute In lians is here and more are on their way. Great secrecy is maintained by Secretary Schurz as to his dealing with them. He said yesterday, however, that he hoped the visits would result in the surrender of the Meeker murderers.

The Kellog: case, so far as testimony goes, is closed. To those who wish to think well of human nature this will be gratifying intelli gence. Senator Kellogg asked on Thursday the privilege of introducing another Louisiana witness, but the committee decided to close the case, giving the attorneys of Messrs. Spoffard and Kellogg two weeks in which to file printed arguments. Senator Kellogg might as easily have proved by his witnesses, if he had decided te do so, that he was elected President as Sona--tor. The only point in his favor is the fact that the Senate has elected him by a formal vote and may not wish to reverse that action.

Mr. Hayos deserves some credit, but General character, of the census supervisor appoint ments. There is complaint among Democrats to some states, and among Republicans in others but an honest effort was made to secure good men." It is strange that so good satisfac tion was given, in selecting a large number of men in whose official action every one will feel

We are likely to lose one of the few worthy officials connected with the Hayes administration. Assistant Secretary Hanley of the Treas wry is pretty sure to be nominated by his party for Governor of Illinois. He has served three terms in Congress previous to holding his present place, and, though a stalwart Republican it is but fair to say that he is honest and able in the performance of all his public trusts. There is something worthy of admiration in the perseverance with which the veterans of the woman suffrage movement continue to meet in this city and appear before congressional commight as well talk to an iceburg or an egyptian mammy as to Senators Edmund, Garland, Day. | faddle."

id Davis, and Bayard, yet a dozen of them did so yesterday for hours. The meetings of the as sociation here during this week have been attended by large numbers of intelligent and orderly mon and women. A few years ago hardly anybody but "fellows of the baser sort" attend CARROLL.

For the Journal. NEWVILLE, Pa., Jan. 17, 1880. Dear Mr. Editor .- I was pained to read the obituary notice of my old school teacher Mr. James Aiken, in your paper of one week ago. As one of his many Aaronsburg purils, I always had the . highest regard for this truly good and worthy man. He was a teacher far in advance of teachers in his day. His general scholarship was universally conceded.

Now having been in the world 35 years since he taught me my A, B, C's, and a little further on, I yet remember we'll the great care and scrupulous pains be took to teach me the rudi ments of a good education.

If you will allow me, I desire to make reference to one or two of the methods he practised in teaching the 'little ones"-and he was particularly successful in this department of giving instruction.

One method was to reduce the entire school into one class, thus bringing all on an equality in scholarship, apparently and have all spell from the book in monosyllables, This had a tendency greatly to encourage and stimulate the 'little ones''-and the larger scholars did not object but rather enjoyed it As one of the former, I speak from ex-

At another time he would require a "speech." The a-be-ce-darians now had to come up to the standard of those a bove them, as those had, on other oc casions, to come down to those below them. This had a happy effect. It had a tendency to make us feel that we were scholars with the rest, and filled us brim full of enthusiasm. I can now repeat from memory, word for word, my first speech in "the old school house on the hill", from Matthew 22:1 2, and did it with much fear and trembling. Mr. Aiken did not think the bible an improper book to be used in

I have now lying before me the little paper covered "National Primer," out of which he taught me my letters, with my name written on the book, in his own clear, legible hand. I also have the copy of the New Testament scriptures in which I first commenced to read under his directions. I also retain in my possession a copy of "A Lecture on the Liquor Licenses and no uncertain sound.

How vividly even now comes before my mind the genial face and the earnest, enthusiastic manner of the dear old teacher. I shall always cherish the memory of Mr. Aiken tenderly and lov. ingly. He was a good man. A lover of treth and righteousness. An unfinching friend and advocate of every good cause. An earnest defender of the rights of man. He lived not in vain. Though we cannot go with loved ones to plant the first flowers of this memorial flower of the heart, and mingle our affectionate regard with the many who will always cherish his memory green, and subscribe myself as one of his pupils.

H. C. HOLLOWAY. Calling Names in Norwich.

The Rev. L. W. Bacon Pouring Hot-Shot into the Selectmen for Licensing Brothels.

Norwich, Conn., Jan. 19-Half the citizens of Norwich gathered in mass meeting in Breed Hall this evening and istened to a scathing invective by the Rev. L. W. Bacon, of Sunday excursion and "Blue laws" fame, against the County Commissioners and Board of Selectmen. Mr. Bacon is a temper ance man, but not a prohibitionist, and be volleyed the County Commissioners and Selectmen, all of whom were present, with hot shot, because of their recent licensing of Wm. M. Green and "Pat" Shea, two notorious keepers of 4-6t brothels, to sell liquors. He spoke for two and a half hours in eloquent and vivid portrayal of this heinous wrong of the officers and drew a fearful picture of the vice and wickedness of the places licensed. He was frequently interrupted by bursts of applause and shouts. He arraigned the selectmen by name-O. P. Avery, Capt. W. R. Potter and A. P. Willoughby.

Potter sprang to his feet and accused the clergyman of misrepresentation, and demanded an opportunity to make his apology. He was too much excited and exasperated to speak, but blurted out: "The license business is a mean, low-lived business, and it needs mean, a great deal more, for the generally deceptable low lived scamps to do it." He was hissed down and told "to get out." 'He could not speak further, and dropped into a seat with face on fire.

> "If that is so," reechoed Mr. Bacon," "then it needs mean, low-lived scamps to do the mean, low-lived busi-

The meeting broke up in great confusion, amid shouts of "Thats right,"
"You're right, Mr. Bacon." Capt.

Potter jumped into the middle aisle and required to make inhediate payment, and those having claims against the same to present them duly authenticated for settlement. The notes and accounts are left in the hands of B. O. Deininger for settlement and collection.

Executors. Potter jumped into the middle aisle and tried to speak, but was boosted into his seat. There were many ladies present. All the selectmen were strong prohibitionists, two of whom the Speaker eall. ed "perfidious wretches," and the third mittee in behalf of suffrage for their sex. GREAT destitution prevails over wide districts in Ireland, and if there is not speedy and full relief extended, actual starvation is sure to follow very soon. The Dublin Mission House Committee issues a very strong appeal to the people of the United States for help. Every effort is of course made by the Irish to help the uselves, but the results of these efforts are entirely insufficient to meet the wide spread distress. On this point committee says:

Every effort is being made in Ireland itself beginning as well by local as by central relielf committee, to mitigate the calamity, but owing to the general commercial and agricultural depression, and to the widespread character of distress, those efforts have proved totally inadequate to meet the crisis. We therefore appeal with confidence to all Irishmen and all friends of Irelana for aid in our efforts to save the people from starvation.

It is to be hoped that the American people will respond to the appeal of our Irish cousins with their accustomed open-hearted liberality. While we are loaded down with plenty we must not forget our neighbors who are starving for want of the most common necessi.

An ingenious schene for the utiliza tion of convicts has been developed and applied in the Central Prison at Toronto. Peculiarly objectionable convicts are placed together, properly armed with knives, are incited to engage in mortal combat. The new system went into operation yesterday, and worked admirably. A convict was almost immediately stabbed, "probably fatally," Of course we must remember that this really was only a trial-trip, as it were. When the system is fairly under way the convicts will deliver only absolutely fatal stabs; and sanguine people be lieve that the system can be so perfected that in time each convict will kill the other. The new plan promises to relieve the State of expense and the State officers of a very annoying du-

AT a village pear New Lexington, Ohio, a marriage recently took place around which clusters a romance of much more than usual interest. The parties to the marriage, Mr. Kennedy and Mrs. English, the former a Philadelphian with five motherless children and the latter an Objoan with the same number of fatherless little ones. It appears that many years ago, while they both were living in this city, they became greatly attached and were secretly engaged. Parental opposition at last caused the lovers to separate, the young woman's father moving to Ohio. Both married about the same time, and Law" printed by W. B.
