THE DEMOCRATIC NATION. AL EXECUTIVE COMMIT-TEE.

NEW YORK, July 21 .- The Democratic National Executive Committee met at ten o'clock this morning in the Fifth Avenue Hotel, with Senator Barnum, of Connecticut, in the chair, When the committee adjourned it was stated that a resolution had been adopted requesting the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee to appoint an auxiliary committee to work with the Democratic National Executive Committee in conducting the campaign. The committee selected as its headquarters No. 133 Fifth avenue. It was stated that the committee took no action in regard to the question of two Democratic electoral tickets in portraits of our candidates on both been discussed.

Washington Letter.

Washington, D. C. July 24th 1880. On Wednesday evening, Hon. Duncan L. Walker. Secretary of the Congressional Democratic Committee, was in this city. He will be here permanently after this week. Mr. Walker says the campaign will be aggressive and spirited from the first, and that all the reports received are favorable. He was specially pleased with the aspect of affairs in New York, and the withdrawal, yesterday, of the Kelly election ticket confirms what he said of the perfect harmony among Democrats

Since my last letter Secretary Schurz has made his first Garfield speech. He is to be thanked for leaning out of it the "bloody shirt" entirely. That was manly, and his example is commended the Credit Mobilier Stories. This is curious, for this Credit Mobilier business was one of the things which drove him out of the Republican party, years ago. Knowing how important the people considered the question of General Garfield's connection with that great fraud, it is strange that the ingenious Secretary did not, in some part of his two hours speech, enter into a defence of his candidate.

He said Hancock has had no civil experience, ignoring the fact that the General endeared bimself in 1867 to most "plain people" by a more admirable statement and defence of their civil rights than ever was written by anoth-

But the most curious part of the Secretary's speech, is that in which he urges the necessity for the perpetual suprem acy of the Republican party. He sees vast danger in re-electing, but none in the continued existence of power in one party. But the Secretary, in this as in other portions of his long speech, talked like a paid atterney and not like one whose sole object was to express his honest convictions. By and by it will be one of the wonders, how this man has retained, even in the minds of a few, a reputation for greater sincerity than other politicians of his party.

The statements of Mr. Hayes and Secretary Sherm an, that no change is contemplated in the New York Custom House do not carry conviction to who always takes Scretary Sherman's statements on political matters as true, would be turned out of place forwith. It may be that General Merritt will not be turned out of the Custom House to make a place for some man selected by Ex-collector Arthur, but I believe he will and that the change is part of the price of active support for Garfield in New York.

Of course peace in the Democratic party in Virginia is desirable. The result of the Presidential contest may depend upon the vote of the state.

But still outsiders should keep their hands off. The "National Committee" should not meddle. The politicians of other states, should let the patriotic Democracy of Virginia work out the problem for themselves. I am sure they will do so to the satisfaction of CARROLL.

The Republican party has pretty generally come to the conclusion that the war was a failure. They think that four years of war and fifteen years of reconstruction have done the people of the south very little good, and that "they are rebels bad as ever." For these reasons they should be anxious to try a Democratic President and according to their own logic every mother's son of them should gladly vote for the brave Hancock.

In the Clinton Democrat of last week Hon, S. R. Peale is brought out as a candidate for Congress. None better could be named.

Gen. Hancock has written his letter of acceptance but it will not appear in the public prints until Mr. English is also ready with his letter.

A CARD.

It having come to my knowledge that the authorship of a communication in the Bellefonte Republican of the 14th inst., from Millheim in this county, in which an untrue account is given of the Democratic ratification meeting at that place, on Saturday evening the 10th inst., is attributed to me, I take this public manner of branding such statement as false. Whoever is responsible for the circulation of this silly canard does me a gross injustice of the Protestant Episcopal church. and is indebted to ms imagination for The little church on Governor's Island, his alleged facts.

EMPORIA, KANSAS, JULY 19th, 1880. EMPORIA, RASSON,
MR. EDITOR:—
I have long been thinking of writing to my many friends in Pennsvalley, and as it is quite out of the question to write to each one desiring such correspondence, I know no better way than to send them an epistic through the loggests. It will not be amiss to answer questions such as would be asked were I in your midst.

And first—"What is your impression of Kansas after a nine mouths' residence in it?" Upon the whole it remains unchanged. Though I see more and different parts I yet think Kansas will in the near future become a flourishing state. It is settled with every conceivable kind of people, nationality and religious sect and lenominations. We find here, Germans, Swiss, denominations. We find here, Germans, Swiss, Welsh, Eussians, French, Irish and English, to say nothing of smaller representatives from the Old World. In the North West, the Russians are settling in large numbers, and belong mostly to the Moravian Church. The North East is settled largely by Swiss and Germans. They are opening up fine farms and vineyards. I never spent a week more pleasantly than I did among these Swiss settlers. They are reconominating these Swiss settlers. among these Swiss settlers. They are reconomical and industrious, and no more hospitable people can be found anywhere. A very large opening is being made in the South Western part of the state by Englanders who propose having a "little England", on American soll. Immense numbers of Welsh are cettled in this course.

settled in this county and are here making their mark. Our leading mechanics, merchants and farmers are of Welsh erigin. The English, Germans and Irish you find every-Editors and Proprietors.

to the other speakers not only as a proper one, but as a judicious.

The Secretary made no allusion to be speakers to the other speakers not only as a duck takes to water, (I mean foreign Germans) and the most part engaged in Stock raising. The Germans take to saloons and meat shops as naturally as a duck takes to water, (I mean foreign Germans) where the property of the most part of saloons and meat shops as naturally as a duck takes to water, (I mean foreign Germans) where the property of the most part of saloons and meat shops as naturally as a duck takes to water, (I mean foreign Germans) where the property of the most part of saloons and meat shops as naturally as a duck takes to water, (I mean foreign Germans) where the property of the most part of saloons and meat shops as naturally as a duck takes to water, (I mean foreign Germans) where the property of the most part of saloons and meat shops as naturally as a duck takes to water, (I mean foreign Germans) where the property of the most part of saloons and meat shops as naturally as a duck takes to water, (I mean foreign Germans) where the property of the most part of saloons and meat shops as naturally as a duck takes to water, (I mean foreign Germans) where the property of the most part of saloons and meat shops are the property of the most part of saloons and meat shops are the property of the most part of saloons and meat shops are the property of the most part of saloons and meat shops are the property of the most part of the most part of saloons and meat shops are the property of the most part of the most duck takes to water, (I mean foreign Germans) whilst the Irishman is ready to fill any station from the Hostler to the pulpit, that may present itself. And in the midst of all is to be found the cuto Yankee ready to show any one willing to see it, a "Yankee trick."

The character of these various settlers is as diverse as their religion, nationality and language. They come here from various motives. Some (and not a few )leave their countries for their countries' good and their own safety. Others come to seek a home where land is cheap and where with their limited means and industry they can establish themselves and children. Still others come with the spirit of speculation, in their greed and haste to bespeculation, in their greed and haste to be-come rich they frequently become "land poor." The sharks come to devour the smaller fish and are apparently doing a fine business. While many others come simply because the tide flows his way.

It is needless to say that a very large number, and especially the more sanguine part, become disappointed and disgusted, and in a short time return to the East, swearing vengeance on all R. R. companies and land jobbers, many of whom, not all, would, if they received their ues be lodged safely behind stone walls and Amongst all this mass there is a good, substantial element who control the state—and—her ustritutions and, have brought them to astonish-ing perfection for the short time the state—hvs had—an—existence. The matters of drouth, winds, and voracious insects are greatly exagerated. Tis true there is not the amount of rainfall in Kansas, which you have amongst the mountains of Pennsylvania, neither is it needed. It has been comparatively dry with us during the summer, and yet with the exception of oats, crops could not look better. Our corn is generally earing at this time and will be simply enormous. It is no uncommon thing to mply enormous. It is no uncommon thing to ee fields which contain from 40 to 100 acres of corn. It is estimated that the corn crop of Kansas will aver age 60 bushels of shelled corn to the acre. Hay, millet and potatoes promise rell also. It is profitable to raise corn and feed to stock, but not for sale. Pork and beef self eadily at 4 to 4½ on foot. I would advise no ne to come to Kansas to follow farming exelusively, for it will not pay; but to combine stock, be it either sheep, hogs or horned cattle with farming, will pay well. You may infer from the above that while I have not become an enthusiast for Kansas I have had no reason to doubt its future. I would in this connection yet add that fruit will be sufficient for our wants, an abundance of all kinds are now in narket at fair prices.

Where should we settle? Anywhere east of the centre of the state. West of the centre the soil is more sandy and water and timber scarce. Hundreds and thousands are leaving the western part of the state. In the North Eastern part of the state the land generally is hilly, but produces well. It was among the first settled and is high. I have tom House do not carry conviction to the minds of any Washinton man who is familiar with the record of these officials in such cases.

What Mr. Hayes says at 3 P. M. is frequently contradicted by the facts as published in the Evening Star at 4 30 P. M. and should any newspaper man

Among all the questions asked me, none has been more frequently put than this one. If you are well situated as regards yourself and family stay where you are. If you do not like to rough it and deay yourself comforts to which you have been accustomed all your life time, don't come west, or, if you imagine that this is a paradise—that grain and cattle will flourish without labor or care, in either case don't "go west." Or again, if you have no money, beyond your moving expenses, stay east—but if you are yet in the prime of life and have so, e money and plenty of energy, you can do better here than there. Young men, or families just commoneing, can open up homes here sooner and with less capital than in the east, $2000 here now for a young man is worth more than $10,000 in less capital than in the east. $2,000 here now for a young man is worth more than $10,000 in any part of Pennsylvania. I will mention one instance among a thousand. Three years ago, John P. Flook of Maryland came in possession of his historicans, with which he could have f his inheritance, with which he could have surchased a mountain farm east. He however purchased a mountain farm east. He however concluded to try Kansas, and he came to Allen Co., bought an 30 acre tract with part broken and 80 acre prairie along side. There was an old stable on the place, in this he "batched," put up his house, planted his orchard and started up generally. In the fall he returned and married a wife and brought her to his prairie home. I spent the 4th with them, are all the peaches I wanted and brought some home with me. [That's how preachers do.—Editor.] These were of their own planting. In two years more they will have fruit of all kinds, more than they can consume, and have a house years more they will have fruit of all kinds, more than they can consume, and have a house second to none in Pennsvalley that I know of. Industry, perseverance, a little money and God's blessing did it. Once more, men with capital and hearts for the upbuilding of the church should come. Men of this character are needed here and can do a good dee A not only for themselves but for sinful humanity in general which will pay a hundred fold in the world to come. The great mass leave what little interest they ever had in the church east of the Mississippi. More at some future time.

Yours in grace.

J. G. Shoemaker.
