SOME THINGS FARMERS SHOULD Know .- As a general thing the farmer is liable for all the public injury his hired man may cause while actually for any purpose whatever leaves it and the fire runs into his neighbor's, dehis man. If he sends a hired man on chair. the road with his team, and he, by negligence, runs into another vehicle and injures it, the farmer is liable for to or from the lot with a scythe, and by the careless handling or carrying injures a passer-by, the tarmer is liable for damage. If in cutting wood the hired man cuts down a tree in another lot, the farmer is liable for trespass and damages, although he dispay the damage, though done contrary breakfast. to his positive order. In all these cases the farmer can compel the hired man to pay him back if he has anything to pay it with; but this is rarely the case unless the farmer keeps back his wages and only settles when his time expires.

Strain it in exactly and thus build up oblong squares and the same manner as groat gruel, and let them remain over winter.

CULTIVATED WHEAT AND HESSIAN FLY.-It is now a well established fact that the Hessian fly is much less troublesome on wheat that is sown in drills, between which the cultivator is passed now and then during the early growth of the grain. Two fields of wheat growing side by side, one of which is wipe it with a clean wet cloth, peel it cultivated and the other not, but alike and cut it into pieces an inch long. An Arctic Noon.

One day Nordenskiold and I walked out to the end of the ice, to enjoy near at hand a sight of the waves dancing in joyous motion and the ice blocks swimming quiety above. Our way was over slacked with a solution of salt in water the ice and walking was exceedingly difficult. Here the sun had gone down, when the long polar night had begun; it was the last glimpse of this light that we now saw. In the south-east some few rays of light changing every moment in strength, color and positionin fact, the aurora in the form it commonly takes here-raised themselves toward the horizon. Above our heads glows the pole star, everywhere over the sky sparkle stars, darting stronger or weaker differently colored lights and on the north or north-eastern horizon rest the deep darkness of the polar night. I will not try to paint the rich charming play of color and the chiaroscuro full of effect. Add to this glorious heaven a wide stretching sea glittering in the moonlight, the white surface of Mussel Bay with three vessels standing out against it, the dark, precipitous fell sides that surround it, and the little building on land from whose every window lamp-light streams and the main points of the panorama are enumerated. It is difficult to believe that noon is approaching; it might rather be taken for evening, a quiet winter evening in the country. A grave stillness and tranquility. Only now and then the deep silence is broken by a low grating sound. It is heard in the direction of the edge of the ice, and is produced by the rubbing of the ice fula. blocks against each other when they are moved by the swell.
