KEEP PURE-BREED FOWLS .- Aside from the greater pleasure which it affords, it pays better to keep and breed pure-bred fowls than to breed and feed a lot of mongrels, which latter many do for fear of the expense of buying a few pure-bred fowls to start with. In determining which breed of fowls to get, make up your mind at the start that no one breed can or does possess all the desirable qualities you are in search of. If you wish a breed for laying, get Leghorns or Hamburgers; if you wish a breed for weight, get some of the Brahams or Cochinsg and if you wish a breed principally for ornament, supply them liberally with food and water, giving them requisite care and bors see what fine birds you have, they will naturally want some of them, or a setting of the eggs, and thus will a and then merely a market prices, At good trio of pure-bred fowls, of almost any kind, can now be bought at fair time he was in that pulpit."

The salt is a very small item in itself, nevertheless | borhood of a pic-nic. it has cost many dollars in the course of a year through the damage done by the use of an interior article. Always use the best known brands and keep a close watch upon them at that. The use of firkins, pails or tubs made of any kind of wood that imparts an unpleasant flavor must be avoided, as, after packing, butter is very susceptible in coming in contact with any flavors of this kind.

DRAINING PRAIRIE SOIL .- In untilled prairie soil the corn extends it roots until it strikes the water, a short distance under the surface of the ground. When soil is tilled at a depth of thirtystalk extend by numerous fibres to the new water level, thus drawing to the plant the food found in the much greater depth of earth. The ground in the untilled land cakes and bakes into a hard mass in dry weather, while that in the tilled earth is loose and porous. Fire Engines Making Tea.

As the firemen belonging to Engine Company No. 29 were returning from a fire in Warren street last evening, they saw smoke issuing from the grating over the sldewalk in front of 201 Fulton street, occupied by the Wells Tea Company. An alarm was sounded and the engine had steam up again in a few minutes. Five more engines came. At first it looked as though it would be a very easy matter to extinguish the fire, but the smoke was so dense that entering the place to direct the streams was out of the question. Poles were therefore attached to the nozzles, which were then pushed in through the basement windows. It took two hours of steady, hard work to thoroughly extinguish the fire. The damage was estimated at from $20,000 to $25,000, and the amount of tea made by the streams of water playing for so long on the blazing tea-chests was es-timated at a milion gallons.
