The Inauguration.

The inaugur ation of James A. Garfield as Pres ident of the United States, last Friday, passed off pretty much as other occasions of the same kind did for the last twenty years. There was the usual gathering of people from all parts of the country. The papers say it was the largest crowd ever assembled at the inauguration of a President, but then it is the "largest crowd" greatly frightened, whilst others

The grand procession as it is called was made up of military organizations, political clubs, societies, orders, tendants were roughly handled, and etc., and is said to have presented a the more athlete of the inmates very imposing appearance. There was a vast display of glitter and gaiety on by main force. all sides, notwithstanding the rain and mud, and the usual amount of drunkenness and rowdyism was not wanting. Our own good old state was shamefully disgraced by a sett of Philadelphia tance to utilize the fire pressure of roughs calling themselves the Harmoand getting a good many knocks in return. In some instances a dozen of them would break ranks and plunge into the crowd, driving whomsoever they pursued into the saloons and scaring half to death the women and children who were incidentally knocked over in the chase.

A platform was erected on the east portico of the Capitol from which Mr. Garfield delivered his inaugural. The oath of office was afterwards administered by Chief Justice Waite, and James A. Garfield is now the President of the United States.

ests may see to take care of themselves, been injured.

The Committee of One Hundred, composed of the best citizens of Philadelphia, are determined to ferret out and punish to the utmost extent of the law all repeaters, ballot-box stuffers and rounders that have for years plied their nefareous trade in the fair metropolis of the state, and manufactured majorities at pleasure to suit themselves and their corrupt political bosses. Election frauds in Philadelphia had at last become so open and notorious that decent men to a great extent no longer considered it their while to vote. The solid men of both parties however aroused themselves to a sense of their danger and duty and their work culminated in the triumphant election of Hon. Samuel G. King to the Mayorality, at the recent municipal election. The committee do not propose to lay down their armor until all those who have helped to make elections in Philadelphia a byword and a farce, shall be properly punished. They deserve the aid and support of every good citizen, not only in the city but throughout the state, in their herculean labors for the purification of the ballot-box.

The tollowing is President Garfield's cabinet. It was unanimously confirmed the day after the inauguration. The Camerons and machine republicans have received a decided slap in the appointment of Mr. MacVeagh: Secretary of State-James G. Blaine,

Secretary of the Treasury-William Windom, Minnesota. Secretary of the Interior-Samuel J. Kirkwood, lowa.

Secretary of War-Robert T. Lincoln, Illnois. Secretary of the Navy-William H. Hunt, Louisiana, Postmaster General-Thomas L James, New York. Attorney General-Wayne Mac-

Veagh, Pennsylvania.

THE FIRE FIEND AT DANVILLE. The State Lunatic Asylum a Mass of

DANVILLE, Pa., March 6 .- Yesterday the state hospital for the insane at this place was one of the most imposing public edifices of this section of the state; to-day it is a mass of smouldering ruins. For years its construction had been actively prosecuted, and only in 1881 could its completion be considered

The cost to the state for the erection of the buildings which are now almost entirely destroyed, has been at least $600,000. These buildings covered an area of nearly two acres of ground and had a frontage of 340 feet. It was a substantial structure of stone, situated about one-half mile to the east of

At about 8:15 last evening a fire broke out in one of the female wards of the east wing, temporarily unoccupied for the purpose of repairing it. The cause of the fire is as yet unexplained. Efforts to stay the progress of the flames were rendered abortive by the fact that the fire originated in the closet wherein the water plug and hose were situated, and the pipes soon became so heated that the water could not be turned on. Attention was then turned to rescuing the patients, some five hundred of whom were then under treatment in the institution. Fortunately most of the females were at that hour attending services in the chapel and these were at once transferred to the bakery, laundry and other detached buildings in the rear. Naturally the fire caused much excitement among these unfortunates, and very different was the effect upon many of them. Some of them became seemed to consider it a huge treat gotten up for their enjoyment. These latter stubbornly resisted all efforts to remove them. Some of the atwere only taken to places of safety

On opening the door she streets the entire Legion broke up and fire companies of the town have been went into a general free fight, cracking doing all in their power but the heads right and left with their staffs scarcity of water prevented very successful work. Adjacent towns were telegraphed to for assistance but the steamers from Sunbury and Milton did not arrive here until five o'clock this evening. Had they responded promptly it is probable that the entire west wing could have been saved. From the east wing to the centre, thence to the west wing the fire spread rapidly, the heavy cornice under the tin roof greatly assisting in this whilst inside the Carolina pine flooring, doors, etc., were greedily lapped by the flames. In their efforts to remove the inmates many of the attendants lost!

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, D. C., March 5, '81. The return to a legitimate Presidency was fitly celebrated yesterday. Despite the disagreable weather there was a magnificant procession, a ball at which five thousand people were present, and thorough good feeling prevailed on all sides. There were no accidents during the day, and only pleasant recollections of the inauguration will exist. The message was excellent in tone. It was incompromising in the assertions that this is a Nation with a big "N," instead of a Union of States, but its references to past sectional quarrels and existing sectional distrust showed Ithat the President earnestly desires the establishment of a better state of feeling. Very sensibly indeed, he thinks this can best be done by devoting attention to objects of interests and importance to the whole country. He does not suggest specially what these things are, but it is probable he will do so in the first message he sends to a Congress while in session. "In short, there is no doubt, judging from what he says that he intends to be the head of a conservative administration. I should feel more confidence in his persistence in that course if it were not for the fact however well and patriotically he has spoken heretofore, he has never failed when the time to vote came to vote just as Thad Stevens or Conger would have voted.

The Democratic party has little to reproach itself for in connection with the late session of Congress. It suggested only patriotic and constitutional measures, and was liberal without being profligate in the voting of the public money. The record when finally made up will be creditable to the party. That the Apportionment bill failed was the fault of the Republicans as was also such treatment of the subject of refunding as nearly created a panic like that of 1873. By causeless and constant obstruction of the public business a few prominent Radicals have during the last few months injured their party seriously, while the wise conservative, patriotic action of the majority has helped to establish general confidence in the leading Democrats in Congress.

Speaker Randall's position has been specially difficult, but the same readiness, fairness, and back of partizan bias in his official acts that have so long made him deservedely popular have been shown during this, his third term, as invariably as ever. The House has never had a better presid-

The supposed appointment of Judge Hunt to a Cabinet place is said to be an arrangement between contracting parties to give Mr. W. K. Rodgers a comfortable birth on the bench of the Court of Claims. Judge Hunt was solicitated by Hayes to take the place vacated by Judge Woods, so that Rodgers could be thus provided for.

CARROLL. Without question Gen. Harcock was the most attractive and popular figare at the inauguration; Ruddy Hayes the most contemptible and Garfield a sort of go-between.

The irrepressible Edward McPherson figures out a majority of several thousand for Garfield on the popular vote. Of course that ought to settle the matter, coming as it does from such a high and impartial source.

A HORRIBLE HOLOCAUST. SEVENTEEN CHILDREN MEET DEATH IN A BURNING BUILDING.

SCRANTON, February 27 .- An appaling catastrophe, resulting in the death of seventeen children, fourteen boys and three girls, occurred to-night at St. Patrick's Orphan Asylum, Hyde Park. The building is situated at the corner of Jackson street and Lincoln avenue, about a mile from the centre of the city. It is occupied by a number of Sisters of Charity, and under their charge were forty children, whose ages ranged from six to twelve years. The beys and girls occupied separate dormitories on the third floor. At 8.30 o'clock this evening one of the sisters escorted the children to their rooms and locked the doors for the night. She then started to descend the stairs. When she reached the second story she was driven back by a cloud of smoke. The fire was along the ceiling and making its way to the upper story. The Sister darted up stairs and found the girls' room full of smoke. She took the girls to the lower floor and started back to reach the boys' dormitory. The smoke was pouring into the hallway in blinding clouds, and when about half way up the stairs the Sister met a stranger. She made an effort to pass him, but he refused to allow her to proceed, saying that the boys had been rescued and that it would be dangerous for her to go for them. She reluctantly went back. An alarm given soon after the fire broke out brought four fire companies. The flames were raging fiercely when the firemen got to work. They were informed of the betheir private effects, but most of the lief among the Sisters that some of the One of the last official acts of Mr. movable property of the hospital children were still in the building and Hayes was to veto the funding bill was saved. Railroad Travel Still Suspended. CHICAGO, March 3 .- Another heavy snow storm is prevailing throughout the northwest, extending from this city to Dakota and moving eastward. It reached here about midnight, and the very high wind was accompanied by driving sleet. The railroad traffic has not recovered from its late blockade, and will be again suspended.

Trains on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy road, in addition to the snow, are delayed by the burning of the station at Galesburg, Ill., which occurred this morning, and which involves a loss of $6,000.

Milwaukee reports: The railroad blockade throughout Wisconsin is more complete than at any time during the winter, and railroad men say the tracks will be much harder to clear this time than before. The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad has suspended all

Elkhorn, Wis., says: Never before has the work of snow plows seemed more futile, as the tracks are covered in some places for hundreds of yards with water and snow so that shovels are the only means available to bail out the slush.

Dubuque, Iowa, reports: A furious storm is raging, insuring another railroad blockade, during which no trains can be expected, as those west and east were all abandoned last night.

The Illustrated Scientific News.

One of the handsomest of publications is the ILLUSTRATED SCIENTIF. IC NEWS, published by Munn & Co., New York. Every number contains thirty-two pages, full of engravings of novelties in science and the useful arts. Ornamental wood work, pottery, vases and objects of modern and ancient art are finely shown.

The March number contains, among various other subjects illustrated, a full description of the manufacture of paper hangings, with engravings; how the deceptive curve is produced in casting the ball by the baseball pitcher, his attitude, how he holds and handles the ball, all fully illustrated. The number before us also contains engravings of Capt. Ead's proposed ship railway across the Isthmus, and a novel hydraulic railway locomotive.

In addition to all this it contains many valuable recipes for artisans and housekeepers.

This publication will be found in structive and entertaining to all classes, but will be best appreciated by the most intelligent. Published by Munn & Co., 38 Park Row, New York, at $1.50 a year, and sold by all news deal-
