THE AGE OF FOWLS .-- If a hen's spur is hard and the scales on the legs rough, she is old whether you see her head or not, but her head will corroborate your observation. If the under bill is so stiff that you cannot bend it down, and the comb thick and rough, no matter how fat and plump, leave her for some one less particular. A young hen has the rudiments of spurs; the scales on the legs are smooth, glossy and fresh colored, whatever the color may be; the claws tender and short, the nails sharp, the under bill soft and the comb thin and smooth. An old hen turkey has rough scales on the legs, callosities on the soles of the feet, and long strong claws; a young one the reverse of all those marks. When the feathers are on the old turkey cock has a long tuft or beard; a young one but a sprouting one; and when they are off the smooth scales on the legs decide the point, besides the difference in the size of the wattles of the neck and in the elastic shoot upon the nose. An old goose, when alive, is known by the rough legs, the strength of the wings, particularly at the pinions, the thickness and strength of the bill, and the by the legs, the tenderness of the skin under the wings, by the pinions and bill, and the coarseness of the skin. Ducks are distinguished by the same means, but there its head than the old duck's.

of trees often make the mistake of supposing that the larger the tree bought the greater the gain. Nurserymen, who of all men should know as to this, say that there is absolutely nothing gained by buying large trees. This applies of course in a general sense. If a tree could be removed every few years, so as to have an abundance of fibrous, or small roots, there would be no check on removal, and such a tree would ever become too large to move profitably. The general run of trees are not treated thus, and so, the larger the trees the less likely is it to have many roots, and as a consequence the tree must either be pruned back severely, or let alone to make a weak growth, and perhaps die. The best way is to get a medium tree, treat it well, and it will give far more satisfaction than a large one would have dose, without much doubt.

Beside him winter and summer alike. stands a brazier with a slow charcoal fire, over which an iron netting supports one or two bronze vessels similar to that he holds in his hand. Plainly these bronzes are being subjected to a slow process of baking, and if you watch for a moment, marveling at the purpose of a proceeding which s ems only calculated to mar the fair surface of the metal, you shall presently see the old man dip a feather into a vessel filled with greenish liquor, and touch the heated bronze here and there with the most delicate and dexterous care. This liquid is acetate of copper, and this patent process, which you see repeated perhaps twenty or thirty times during a visit of twice as many minutes, will be continued in the same untiring fashion for a half a year to come, after which a month's rubbing and polishing will turn out a bronze rich in green and russet tints that might, and indeed must, you would fancy, have been produced by centuries of slowly toiling

MOTH KILLERS. - The aromatic preservaives which have been used from time immemorial are of a character not at all destined to kill, but merely to annoy the pests. Camphor, pepper, naphtha, carbolic acid, etc., are efficacious in preventing the moth laying its eggs within scenting distance of the odors, but none of these will destroy the eggs already laid or the larvæ developed from them. On the other hand, arsenic, alum, soaps, shaving powder, potash and common salt will usually kill the eggs in the incipient or primeval condition of transformation, and the larvæ are also invariably exterminated by them. There are many kinds of mixtures used, but their practical effect is not satisfactory. The substances which hinder the laying of eggs are preferable, perhaps, to those which will kill the larvæ, on the principle that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." It is the odorous substances, solely, which take effect upon the moth; coal tar, for instance. The most successful moth-destroying compound is naphtha, a constituent of coal tar of a pungent, dissgreeable odor. It evaporates slowly, and, used in ordinary quantities, is not injurious to the health. Neither is it injurious to the fabric to which it is applied. Naphtha, in its unvarnished condition, is one of the best extirpator known to entemological science, and can be successfully used where other expedients fail.

How to Boil and Stew .- To do either the food must be immersed at the beginning in actually boiling water, and the water must be allowed to reach the boiling point again immediately, and to boil for five minutes. The action of the boiling water upon the surface of either meat or vegetables is to harden it slightly, enough to prevent the escape of either juice or mineral sales. After the pot containing the food has begun to boil the second time, it should be removed to the side of the fire and allowed to sin mer until it is done. This simmering or stewing extracts all the nutricious qualities of either meat or vegetables. The pot should be kept closely covered unless for a moment when it is necessary to remove the scum. The steam will condense upon the inside of the cover, and fall back into the pot in drops of moisture. If the boiling is slow, do not think that rapid boiling cooks faster than the gentle process recommended. After the pot once boils you can not make its contents cook any faster if you have fire enough under it to run a steam engine. Remember if you boil meat hard and fast it will be tough and tastless, and most of its goodness will go up the chimney or out the wand w with the steam.

TO MAKE CREAM SAUCE FOR PUDDING .-To make a bowlful of cream sauce take a piece of butter the size of a small egg and beat it up with powdered sugar until it is a light cream. Then set it aside, fineness of the feathers; and when plucked | Then into a small tin saucepan put a coffee cupful of water, and add to it a teaspoonful of flour mixed in a little water. To GIVE PINE AN OAK COLOR - Wash the wood carefully in a solution of copperas dissolved in strong lye, in the proportion of a pound of copperas to a gallon of lye; when the wood is dry after having been thus thoroughly saturated with this wash, oil it, and it will look fresh and nice for a year or two, when it can be restrained and again oiled. Often, when not subjected to hard usage, the color will remain undimmed for several years, only requiring to be oiled occasionally. The color may be put on with a short-bristled brush, or, the hands being protected with thin buckskin gloves, the wash may be applied with a cloth, which will saturate the wood more evenly. It will blister the hands if they are not protected.

THIS COMB (especially the Cures that result from its use) is the WONDER OF THE 19TH CENTURY. It is imbued and charged with "ODIC FORCE," a new ELECTRO PHYSIOLOGICAL POWER, which imparts to the Scalp new Life and Vigor, gives to the Hair a perfectly healthy tone, preventing its falling out or turning gray. Will, in a short time, cure the most distressing NEURALGIA or RHEUMATISM in the SCALP, or PAINS in any part of the Head. To show its power and ELECTRIC CURRENT, or "Odic Force," ask your d. aggist or dealer to let you test it with his GALVANOMETER. These Combs are very much stronger and twice as durable as any other Comb.
Prices: In CELLULOID, of finest quality, highly polished, 8-inch, curved, straight or slightly tapered, $1.25. For finest finished BARD RUBBER, 84-inch, $1.00. Sinch Rubber Comb, 75 cents. Sent, postpaid, on receipt of Stamps, Postal Money Order or Registered Letter.
