

AGRICULTURE.

Eggs vs. Meat.—Would it not be wise to substitute more eggs for meat in our diet? About one-third of the weight of an egg is solid nutriment. This is more than can be said of meat. There are no bones, no tough pieces that have to be laid aside. A good egg is made up of ten parts shell, sixty parts white and thirty parts yolk. The white of an egg contains sixty per cent. water, the yolk fifty-two per cent. Practically an egg is animal food, and yet there is none of the disagreeable work of the butcher necessary to obtain it. The vegetarians of England use eggs freely, and many of these men are eighty and ninety years old, and have been remarkably free from illness. Eggs are best when cooked four minutes. This takes away the animal taste that is offensive to some, but does not harden the white or yolk so as to make them hard to digest. An egg if cooked very hard is difficult of digestion except by those of stout stomachs; such eggs should be eaten with bread masticated very finely. An egg spread on toast is food fit for a king, if kings deserve any better food than anybody else, which is doubtful. Fried eggs are less wholesome than boiled ones. An egg dropped into hot water is not only a clean and handsome, but a delicious morsel. Most people spoil the taste of their eggs by adding pepper and salt. A little sweet butter is the best dressing. Eggs contain much phosphorus, which is supposed to be useful to those who use their brains much.

CLOSER FARMING.—The subdivision of farms by the future farmer of East Pennsylvania means a change and a diversity of products, no less than the competition of other sections. For it is plain that if an acre can be made to produce $20, where before four acres produced $25 each, the same area will support just four times the former amount of agricultural occupation, whether by new methods and increased care the yield is of the same product as before or by the introduction of a new interest the cultivation of the lands is turned to better advantage. Up to a certain point there can be no such thing as too much of grass made to grow where only one grew; and where the farmer who now raises fifteen bushels of wheat to the acre might raise thirty, or who now grows forty bushels of corn might produce eighty or one hundred, he has not yet given such a fair trial to his present opportunities as to entitle him to experiment with an increased acreage or to turn his lands to new crops. The future farmer of East Pennsylvania will first of all, by all methods not extensive of the soil, so fill his land with the largest available yield of the crops which he now cultivates with profit.

HORSES that have had good care will come out in the spring in good trim for the season's work. As the coat begins to loosen, the skin is irritated; an ounce of equal parts of sulphur and cream of tartar, given with the food for a few days, will correct this. Good grooming with a soft brush should not be neglected. Ground feed, mixed with cut hay, is an excellent feed in the spring for working horses. Three equal parts of clover hay, corn and rye (or oats), mixed with a painful of moist cut hay, is enough for a meal. An occasional feed of cut beets or potatoes is useful. With many experienced horsemen an occasional feed of half a peck of potatoes is regarded as a remedy for worm in horses. However this may be, they improve the general condition of the animal in a most positive manner. The main point is to keep the horses in good health and strength, for upon them devolves a great part of the spring work. As foaling time approaches, road mares should be turned loose in a box stall and receive the most gentle treatment, as the temper and disposition of the colt is thought to depend much upon this.

SEEDING THE BARE SPOTS.—Occasionally there is a bare spot in the permanent pasture, or a half-acre patch in the clover field has failed to seed, and how to remedy it is an important question. To seed with rye and grass seed, early in the fall, is the best way to manure these spots. If, as is often the case, it is poverty of soil that causes them, sow a little bone meal, or scatter some fine manure over them. It will pay to spend ten dollars an acre, or more if necessary, to redeem a barren spot in a permanent pasture; for such places are not only eye-sores, but yield no profit, and the interest on ten dollars is a small amount. In seeding poor spots, always use an extra amount of seed, as it is not as likely to grow as on richer land.

WORK FOR A SLACK TIME.—When it gets too dry to plow, as is often the case in early fall, farmers are sometimes at a loss as to what they had better put the hands and teams to doing. This is the time to do the things which are likely to be neglected. To seed the fields there are often washes starting, and if in addition there are some loose stones, here are two things to do to get together. Make a brush dam occasionally; put a little straw about it, and then put your stone on the straw, and you have a barrier that will catch the wash and stop the gully.

OUR best farmers are beginning to learn, and in fact, most of them have already learned, that the time spent in destroying weeds in the autumn is well spent, and that if they would save time in cultivating food crops they must keep the weeds from seeding as much as possible in all parts of the farm; a little carelessness in this respect will soon cover a farm with weed seed. A single root of milk weed in a mowing field, if left unmolested, will spread over and take possession of a large field in a few years.

THERE are as many as 4,000 known species of grasses distributed over the world, and there is not a soil to which some of them are not indigenous. Some grow best on dry, sterile soils, others on rich land, some thriving best in marshes, and wet places, and some on the sea coast. Those that are best suited for permanent pasture thrive in luxuriance under cultivation, and are somewhat limited in number compared with the entire species.

A GOOD HAIR WASH.—Powdered box, one ounce; camphor, one ounce; boiled water, one quart. Apply to the roots of the hair with a flannel or sponge once a week.

TO TAKE grease from silk.—Molsten the spot with chloroform, then rub with a cloth until perfectly dry. It will not injure the most delicate color.

DOMESTIC.

A HOME MADE HAMMOCK.—A New Bedford carpenter constructed a hammock after an original idea. The only material necessary is an ordinary four barrel and some rope. The hoops are knotted off and the staves separated. A hole is then bored through the center of each end of the stave, and the rope is simply reeved in and out of these holes so that they are fastened firmly at intervals of three or four inches apart.

A BATTER.—Take two eggs, yolks and whites, and beat them up light; stir them into half a pint of milk, and just half of your pint of flour which you are going to use; when this is smooth add to the other half-pint of flour, one teaspoonful of salt, and last, mind, one teaspoonful of sweet oil; it will come with a little working nice and smooth. You can eat it alone when properly fried with sugar and lemon-juice, but on apples or peaches and bananas it is excellent.

TO DRIVE AWAY FLIES.—Buy an ounce of oil of lavender and pour half of it in a pint bottle of cold water, and shake it up; the mixture is a mechanical one only; if dissolved in alcohol it is a perfect solution; but this only becomes more expensive: scatter your water and oil of lavender over the table-cloth and the flies will go away: three or four doses suffice to drive away a pest of flies from a country boarding house table.

CHIFFON SPONGE CAKE.—Three eggs, two tablespoonfuls of water and a teaspoonful of sugar mixed together; a teaspoonful and a half of flour; mix with a little working nice powder, and a pinch of salt stirred quickly in; season with a teaspoonful of essence of vanilla, or half a lemon, bake in a quick oven. It can be baked in jelly-cake pans, and have pastry cooks' cream, lemon icing, or chocolate between.

WORK BASKET.—Take two common peach baskets, paint them black and varnish them. Fasten them together by the bottoms, and line them with silk. The top one can be furnished by having two little pockets, a needle-book and pin-cushion. On each outside panel put a bright embossed picture, and around the top of each basket put a strip of gilt paper. They are truly pretty when finished.

PURGE OF STRING BEANS.—Take any cold string beans which may be left from dinner, chop them very finely until they are a soft mass, heat them thoroughly with a generous spoonful of the best butter, and add pepper and salt to taste. A little cream is an improvement. Serve on a platter with trilled chops arranged about the puree.

PUFF PASTE WITH MILK.—Mix with a spoon three-fourths of a pound of butter with one pound of flour, then add milk enough to moisten the whole, so as to roll easily. Do not knead it with the hands at all, or as little as possible, and the crust will be found much nicer made this way than by the old methods requiring more labor.

BEFSTEAK AND OYSTER PIE.—Beat the steak gently with a rolling-pin, and season with pepper and salt. Have ready a deep dish lined with not too rich a pastry. Put in the meat with layers of oysters; then the oyster liquor with a little maca, and a teaspoon of catsup; cover with top crust and bake. Veal will do as well as beef.

JAPANESE TIDIES.—Paste a Japanese picture on a square of white glazed cambric, then a row of black velvet overlapping the edges; outside of this a row of bright satin ribbon, and put on a row of white lace to form a ruff. A picture pasted on a square of pink satin and edged with white Breton lace is handsome.

LACE AND VELVET TIDIES.—These are made by sewing velvet ribbon and insertion together alternately, finishing them with a row of lace and insertion. Black velvet and white lace look best, but some like colors. Scarlet velvet and black lace look very rich.

APPLE PRESERVES.—Take some pleasant sour apples, pare them, take the core out at the bottom, and leave the stem in; make a syrup of white sugar and water to half cover the apples, or boil them till the p is just done through. Serve them in whole, with loaf sugar and cream.

FOUR COLD MEAT.—Spiced plums are delicious with cold meat. Cook the plums in a little water until they are soft, then so far as possible, remove the stones, sweeten and spice to your taste and boil thick, put in large-mouthed bottles and seal, or can in the usual way.

A NICE DISH.—Lamb steak dipped in egg, and then in crackers or bread crumbs, and fried until it is brown, helps make variety for the breakfast table. With baked sweet potatoes, good coffee and buttered toast, or corn muffins one may begin the day with courage.

A MERINO or cashmere dress may be mended neatly by wetting a piece of court plaster of exactly the same shade as the goods, and putting it on the wrong side, pressing down every frayed edge and every thread, and laying a weight on it until it is thoroughly dry.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.—Take a cup of cream of the milk pans every morning when you make bread; it will make the bread moist, white and delicate, and you will hardly miss it from the cream.

IF a shirt bosom, or any other article has been scorched in ironing, lay it where the bright sun will fall directly upon it. It will take it entirely out.

THREE parts lard, one of rosin, melted together forms one of the best coatings for iron or steel implements: in use out of doors, as well as to prevent rust.

MCOLLAGE.—Four ounces gum arabic, two of powdered white sugar, half teaspoonful of cloves. Dissolve all together in a pint of water. This will neither mold nor sour.

TO TAKE grease from silk.—Molsten the spot with chloroform, then rub with a cloth until perfectly dry. It will not injure the most delicate color.

WIT AND HUMOR.

"DARLING, wake up and stop snoring," said a Detroit woman to her husband. "Oh? Whazza the matter now?" he asked as he half raised up in bed. "Won't you please stop snoring! If you only knew how homesick it made me I'm sure you would." "Homesick! How the deuce can you snore make you homesick?" "Why, you know, darling that the home on the coast from which you took me a government fighorn, and every time you snore it reminds me so of home that I just can't stand it. Please lay on your side and have some little respect for my feelings." And then the brute spread himself out on his back and in five minutes had her bathed in tears as visions of the old home crept upon her.

SOMEWHAT TOO-TOO: "Whew! but this is a scorcher," remarked one of our New-Haven "toners." "Ya-as. It is ra-ther warm. Why didn't you bring out your bamboo suit this weather?" queried his chum. "Well, you see it is saffron yellow, and just the coolest suit in the world. But it jolts the boys a little too much. When a horse car has to stop to inspect a fellow's clothes it is time to quit."

An Indiana newspaper thus writes: Mr. Geo. F. Heiderle, of Peru, Ind., says that he has suffered very much with Rheumatism and used many remedies without benefit. He found the desired relief in St. Jacob's Oil.

A CUNNING sentimentalist: He was wealthy but peevish, and this is what he said to the suitor for his daughter's hand: "Yes you can have her. But you must elope with her. I can't stand the expense of a swell wedding, and the romance of the elopement will make up for the lack of show and we'll save $600 on expenses. Go it."

"MR. SMITH, you said you suspected the prisoner was a rogue the moment you saw him. Why did you suspect him?" "Beccos 'ired my rooms without beatin' down the price." "Is that rule without any exceptions?" "Hut's rule without any exceptions: yer vorp's honest men are always stingy, and never satisfied unless they get a shillin's worth of anything for tenpence."

MR. RAGBAG was only 23 when his eldest son was born. We remember the day well. We congratulated him. But he didn't seem very jolly. Not but what it was a fine boy, and Ragbag was wealthy so a family was no burden to him. But he said: "Good Lord, old friend, just think of it! Here at the early age of 23 I've got to begin setting a good example!" (Post-town Daily Ledger).

A Michigan journal tells us the following: Amos James, Esq., proprietor of the Huron House, Port Huron, Mich., suffered so badly with Rheumatism that he was unable to raise his arm for three months. Five bottles of St. Jacob's Oil cured him entirely.

"Wish to leave, Parkins? Why, you only came yesterday!" "Yes, marm! I'm engaged I thought you were sparrer grass yesterday; but when I ears from the cook last night that you eat pertaters, cabbages, carrots, and such like second hand vegetables, I sees there ain't nothin' hesitating in it, and I resign my office so to speak."

In demand: "X, with his wife and a friend, is seated on the beach when a passing gentleman bows to the friend. "That is Monsieur R," he says, "the eminent divorce lawyer, who has never lost a case." Ah!" cried X, and his wife in the one breath, "present us."

HER legal representative: A woman, rather shabbily-dressed, entered a store on the Avenue and asked the merchant at his desk to give her a dollar for the support of her aged mother. "You mother did last week," he said. "Your mother did last week." "Well, ain't I her heir? Don't I represent her?"

"You saved my life on one occasion," said a beggar to a captain under whom he had served. "Saved your life?" replied the officer. "No, your mother that I'm a doctor!" "No," answered the man, "but I served under you in the battle of Majuba Hill, and when you ran away I followed."

An old man with a head as destitute of hair as a watermelon, entered an Austin Avenue drug store and told the clerk he wanted a bottle of hair restorer. "What kind of hair restorer do you prefer?" "I reckon I'll have to take a bottle of red hair restorer. That was the color it used to be when I was a boy."

"Mother has Recovered" wrote an Illinois girl to her Eastern relatives. "She took bitters for a long time but without any good. So when she heard of the virtues of Kidney Wort she got a box and it has completely cured her, and that she can do as much work now as she could before we moved West. Since she has got well, everyone about here is taking it." See adv.

Professor to child (angry at inattention): "Another minute, mes, and I shall go and speak to your mamma." Pupil: "Well, take care pa don't catch you at it, that's all! He's awful jealous."

A CLERK in a city house recently asked for a half a day's absence because he wanted to send a funeral in the country. When he returned the next morning with red hands and a freckled face, his employer asked quietly, "Where are the fish?"

An old lady was telling her grandchild about some trouble in Scotland, in the course of which the chief of her clan was beheaded. "It was nae great thing of a lead, to be sure," said the good lady, "but it was a sad loss to him."

"This House for Sell" was the way the landlord spelled the announcement. A snarling fellow came along and asked: "When will the house sail?" "As soon as some one comes along that can raise the wind," was the cool answer.

An Irish lady was so much on her guard against betraying her national accent that she is reported to have spoken of the "creature of Vesuvius," fearing that the crater would betray her again.

Cause and Effect.

The main cause of nervousness is indigestion, and that is caused by weakness of the stomach. No one can have sound nerves and good health without using Hop Bitters to strengthen the stomach, purify the blood, and keep the liver and kidneys active, to carry off all the poisonous and waste matter of the system.

VEGETINE FOR Chills, Shakes, FEVER AND AGUE.

DR. H. R. STEVENS: "I feel very grateful for what your valuable medicine, Vegetine, has done for me. I had a severe case of Chills, Shakes, Fever and Ague. My son was sick with measles in 1873, which left him with Hip-joint disease. My son suffered a great deal, and at all of the time, the pain was so great he'd do nothing but cry. The doctors did not help him a particle, he could not lift his foot from the bed, he could not move without crutches. I read your advertisement in the 'Louisville Courier Journal,' that 'Vegetine' was a great Blood Purifier and Blood Food. I tried one bottle, which was a great benefit. He is taken eighteen baths in all, and is as completely restored to health, with no other crutches or crutches. He is twenty years of age. I have a younger son, fifteen years of age, who is subject to CHILLS. Whenever he feels one coming on, he takes a dose of Vegetine, and that is the end of the chill. Vegetine leaves no bad effect upon the system like most of the medicines commonly used for such ailments. I think it is the greatest medicine in the world." Respectfully MISS J. W. LLOYD.

VEGETINE. Druggists' Testimony. MR. H. R. STEVENS: "I have been selling your remedy, Vegetine, for about three years, and take pleasure in recommending it to our customers. Mr. F. W. King of Edinburgh has invented a method of steering by electricity, by which the compass itself is made to steer the vessel, independent of a helmsman. The compass card is fitted with an index of the vessel's course, and this pointer is connected with an electric system worked by a single Daniell cell. This system controls an hydraulic steering apparatus. It is said that a slight deviation of the vessel from its true course suffices to send a current from the cell to the controlling valves of the steering gear by bringing the index in contact with pins placed one degree on each side of the course.

M. Friedel has introduced a new liquid hydro-carbon, which according to recent experiments, seems to be possessed of extraordinary qualities. It boils at one hundred degrees Fahrenheit, gives a brilliant white light, unaccompanied by heat; and the slightest puff of wind will extinguish it in case of accidental ignition. The corner of a pocket handkerchief, or even the finger, can be dipped into it, lighted, and used as a temporary torch, without any injury to the novel wick.

The Hotchkiss revolving gun, already adopted in the French and other great navies, has been ordered for use lately in the German navy, the ships to "be armed with this weapon in such a manner that every point surrounding each vessel may be protected by the fire of at least two guns at a minimum range of two hundred meters."

A Lady's Wish. "Oh, how I do wish my skin was as clear and soft as yours," said a lady to her friend. "You can easily make it so, answered the friend. "How?" "By using the first lady." "By using Hop Bitters, that makes pure rich blood and blooming health. It did it for me, as you observe." Read of it.

"What is three card monte?" "It is a bad, bad game." "Who plays three card monte?" "One man who looks like a new-school philosopher."

"Can two play this game?" "Yes, my child. Even four can play at this game." "What does the fourth man do?" "He gets left, my child. He gets badly left. He loses all his money. He pulls his hair and uses wicked words."

"Then the fourth man is an ass for playing." "He is an ass."

A TOUGH HORSE STORY.

The Cincinnati Enquirer lately published the following horse story, which we give just as it appeared: "A curious instance of sagacity in the horse occurred recently in the stables of Mr. A. Toughman, situated on North Elm street. Mr. T. has for a long time been in the habit of using St. Jacobs Oil, the Great German Remedy, in his extensive stables. Among Mr. T.'s many horses a great, powerful Canadian draft horse. This animal in course of time got so that he knew the St. Jacobs Oil bottle very well; so well, in fact, that one day recently on Mr. T.'s return from business, upon entering the stables he caught him licking the sore shoulder of a beast which stood beside him; the animal, giving a wise survey to his licking work, turned his head and caught up with his teeth from the box used as his receptacle a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil. He threw the bottle on the floor with violence enough to break it, and then deliberately licked up the St. Jacobs Oil, and applied it to the cut. Readers, we have seen the laws of association belied by beings with less sense than Toughman's horse. The word has passed among us, and when we see a man who won't try the Oil, we say, 'It is worse than Toughman's horse.' To many it may appear as a very 'tough' story; and were there not proofs innumerable of the efficacy of the Great German Remedy they would be justified in so designating it. The testimony, however, is plentiful and pointed, and is from people whose long experience in matters pertaining to horseflesh entitles their opinions to profound consideration and respect.
