Constant Sources of Electricity .- A section suitably cut in a hemihedral crystal with inclined surfaces and placed between two leaves of tin, constitutes a condenser which is capable of charging itself when compressed. With this system we may realize a new instrument, a condenser source, which posses special properties. It may serve as a standard of static electricity for measuring charges and capacities. The authors give in this memoir an abselute measurement of the quantities of electricity liberated by tourmaline and quartz under a given pressure.
